3516. Called meetings of stockholders—When and how stock may be reduced—Proviso.

SEC. 6. Meetings of the stockholders may be called at any time during the interval between the annual meetings by the directors, or by any number of stockholders owning not less than one-fourth of the stock, by giving fifteen days' public notice of the time and place of the meetings, in the manner provided in the next preceding section, for the annual meetings; and when any such meeting is called by the stockholders, the particular object of such meeting shall be stated in such notice, and no other business shall be transacted at such meeting when so called by the stockholders as aforesaid, except such as shall be so stated in such notice; and if, at any such meeting thus called, a majority in value of the stockholders are not represented in person or by written proxy, such meeting shall be adjourned from day to day, not exceeding three days, without transacting any business; and if, within said three days, stockholders having at least a majority in interest of the stock do not attend and participate in such meeting, then the meeting shall be dissolved. In case the capital stock shall be ascertained to be greater or less than is necessary for completing, operating and maintaining the road, then the capital stock may be reduced or increased by a vote of the holders of a majority of the capital stock to the amount thus required; or the holders of a majority of the capital stock may, by a vote at any annual or called meeting of the stockholders, provide[d] for the return to or distribution among the stockholders, in such manner and according to such plan as they may direct, of any surplus capital or funds that may accrue to the corporation by payments on subscriptions to the capital stock, grants, donations or otherwise, over and above the amount necessary to construct, complete, maintain, and equip the road; provided, that no such division or distribution shall be made until the road shall be built and equipped between the extreme points named in the articles of association. As amended, Stats. 1871, 53.

3517. Legislature may change fare and freight on narrow-gage railroads.

(SEC. 3.) The legislature shall from time to time, when it may deem proper, change the rates of fare and freight of all narrow-gage railroads constructed under the provisions of this act. Added by Stats. 1871, 53.

See railroad commission act, secs. 4549-4585.

3518. Removal of officers—Notice to be given.

SEC. 7. At all general meetings of the stockholders, two-thirds in value of the stockholders of the company, being present in person or by proxy, may remove any president or any director of such company, and elect others in their stead; provided, notice of such intended removal shall have been given as required in the last two preceding sections.

3519. Delay of election of directors—Vice-president—Compensation—Vacancies.

SEC. 8. In case it shall happen at any time that any election of directors shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws of the company when it ought to have been made, the company, for that reason, shall not be dissolved, if within ninety days thereafter they shall hold an election for directors in such manner as shall be provided by the by-laws of the company. There shall also be a vice-president of the company, should the directors deem it necessary, to be chosen from the board, and, also, such subordinate officers as the company, by its by-laws, may designate, who need not, necessarily, be stockholders. The said officers shall be chosen at such times and for such terms, and the directors may fix the compensation of each, and they shall give such security for the faithful performance of the duties of their respective offices as the directors shall require, or as may be established by the by-laws of the company; and any such officer may be removed from office by the board of directors, and the vacancy filled by said board for the remainder of the term of office; and the directors of such company shall also have power to fill all vacancies in their own body, and of all officers of the company, occasioned by death, resignation, or any other cause whatever.

3520. Powers of directors—By-laws—Proviso.

SEC. 9. The directors of any railroad company heretofore incorporated or which may be incorporated hereafter, from and after its incorporation or organization, in pursuance of the provisions of this act, or of any law now in force in this state, shall, for and on behalf of such company, manage the affairs thereof, make and execute contracts, of whatever nature or kind, fully and completely to carry out the objects and purposes of such corporation, in such way and manner as they may think proper, and exercise generally the corporate powers of such company; and such directors shall also have full power to make such by-laws as they may think proper, and alter the same from time to time, for the transfer of the stock, and the management of the property and business of the company, of every description whatsoever, within the objects and purposes of such company, and for prescribing the duties of officers, artificers, and employees of said company, and for the appointment of all officers, and all else that by them may be deemed needful and proper, within the scope and power of said company; provided, that such by-laws shall not be inconsistent or in conflict with the laws of this state, or with the articles of association; provided, that such by-laws shall be approved by a majority of the stockholders, and shall not be inconsistent or in conflict with the laws of this state, or with the articles of association.

A corporation cannot be bound even by the act of its board of directors, unless done in the pursuance of some object embraced by its charter, or of some power conferred upon it by law. Ricord v. C. P. R. R. Co., 15 Nev. 168.

A corporation can exercise no power not granted to it by the legislature. The powers of management granted in this state are delegated to the board of directors and are embraced in above section. That power, which is fairly implied, is as much granted as those which are expressed. The charter of a corporation is the measure of its powers, and the enumeration of powers in the charter is an exclusion of all other powers. George v. N. C. R. Co., 22 Nev. 228 (38 P. 441).

Every person who enters into a contract with a corporation is bound, at his peril, to take notice of the legal limits of the capacity of such corporation to contract. Idem.

If an act of a corporation is in excess of its chartered purposes, such act is outside of the powers delegated to its agent. Idem.

3521. Record of corporation debts—Duties of secretary—Contracts in writing.

SEC. 10. The directors shall also cause to be kept a book, to be called "Record of Corporation Debts," in which the secretary shall record all written contracts of the directors, and a succinct statement of the debts of the company, the amount thereof, and with whom made, which book shall at all times be open to the inspection of any stockholder or party in interest. When any contract or debt shall be paid or discharged, the secretary shall make a memorandum thereof in the margin, or in some convenient place in the record, where the same is recorded. No contract shall be binding upon the company unless made in writing.

3522. Record of proceedings—Further duties of secretary—Book of stockholders—Transfer book.

SEC. 11. The secretary of the corporation, who may be elected by the directors named in the articles of association, and every succeeding secretary elected during the continuance of said corporation, shall keep, in a book provided for that purpose, a correct record of the proceedings at each meeting of the company, as well as the board of directors, such record showing the name of each director present at the opening of each meeting of the board, and at what stage of the proceedings any director, previously absent, may appear, and also at what stage of the proceedings any director may obtain leave of absence. The records shall also show the name of each director voting against any proposition, whenever any director may require the same to be placed upon the record. Prior to the adjournment of each meeting of the company, or of the board of directors, the record of the proceedings of such meeting shall be read and approved; and he shall also keep such other books as may be deemed necessary, or prescribed by the directors, in which all the business transactions of the company shall be plainly and accurately kept; he shall keep a book to be labeled "Book of Stockholders," which shall contain the names of all persons alphabetically arranged, who are, or shall have been, stockholders of said company, and showing their places of residence, if known, the number of shares of stock held by them respectively, the time when they respectively became the owners of such shares, the amount of cash actually paid to the company by them respectively for their stock, as also the time when they may have ceased to be stockholders; which book during the office hours of said secretary shall be open for the inspection of stockholders and creditors of the company and their personal representatives, at the office of said secretary. There shall also be kept by the secretary a transfer book, in which all transfers of stock shall be duly entered, and no transfer of stock of such company shall be valid for any purpose whatever, except as between the parties thereto, until it shall have been entered therein by an entry showing to and by whom transferred, the numbers and designation of the shares, and the date of, and duly attested by said secretary, and said book shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein stated.

3523. Stock—Personal estate of stockholders—How transferred—Calls.

SEC. 12. The stock of such company shall be deemed personal estate, and shall be transferable in the manner provided by the preceding section, and upon the book of the company, upon proper assignment and delivery to the assignee of the certificate of stock; but no share shall be transferable until all previous calls or installments thereon shall have been fully paid in. As amended, Stats. 1869, 89.

3524. Payment of subscription—Notice, form of—Sale of shares.

SEC. 13. It shall be lawful for the directors of such company to call in and demand from the stockholders the sums by them subscribed, in equal installments of not more than ten per cent per month, unless otherwise stipulated in the articles of subscription, at such times as they deem proper. Notice of each assessment shall be given to the stockholders personally, or shall be published once a week for at least four weeks, in a newspaper published at the place designated as the principal place of business of the corporation, or, if none is published there, in some newspaper nearest such place, which notice shall be substantially in the following form: "Notice is hereby given, that an assessment of ----- dollars per share on the stock of ----- company, is due and payable at the office of the company in ----- (and at such other places as the directors may designate, naming them), within thirty days from date. All shareholders are requested to make payment on or before that time, or such assessment will be promptly collected by law. -----, secretary." If after such notice shall have been given, any stockholder shall make default in the payment of the assessment upon the shares held by him, the same or so many of such shares may be sold as will be necessary for the payment of the assessment on all the shares held by him. The sale of said shares shall be made as prescribed in the by-laws of the company; provided, that no sale shall be made except at public auction, to the highest bidder; and at such sale the person who will agree to pay the assessment so due, together with the expenses of advertisement and the other expenses of sale, for the smallest number of shares or parts of shares, shall be deemed to be the highest bidder. All stockholders shall be liable to such sale for installments due or required to be paid by such directors as prescribed by this act.

3525. Certificate of stock—How issued.

SEC. 14. Certificates of stock shall be issued, signed by the president and secretary, in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws of the company. As amended, Stats. 1869, 89.

3526. May borrow money—Sinking fund.

SEC. 15. Such companies shall have power to borrow from time to time on the credit of the corporation, and under such restrictions as two-thirds in interest of the stockholders may impose, such sum or sums of money not exceeding in all the amount of its capital stock, as may be necessary for the construction and equipment of their road, at a rate of interest not to exceed fifteen per centum per annum, and to execute bonds or promissory notes therefor, in sums not less than one thousand dollars in any one note or bond, and to secure said notes or bonds, may mortgage their corporated property and franchise, and pledge the income of the company; and the directors of such company shall also provide, in such manner as to them may seem best, a sinking fund, to be especially applied to the redemption of such bonds on or before their maturity, and may also confer on any holder of any bond so issued for money borrowed, or in payment of any debt, or contract, for the construction or equipment of such road as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of such company, at any time within six years from the date of such bond, under such regulations as the company may adopt. As amended, Stats. 1866, 250; 1869, 89.

3527. Capital stock paid in—Certificates of—Filed with secretary of state.

SEC. 16. The president and secretary and a majority of the directors, within thirty days after the payment of the last installment of the capital stock so fixed and limited by the company, shall make a certificate, stating the amount of capital so fixed and paid in, which certificate shall be signed by the president and secretary and a majority of the directors, and they shall, within the said thirty days, file the same in the office of the secretary of state.

3528. General powers and rights of railroad company.

SEC. 17. Every railroad corporation shall have power:

First—To cause such examination and surveys for the proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route for the railroad, and for such purposes, by their officers, agents, and employees, to enter upon the lands or waters of any persons, but subject to responsibility for all damages which they shall do thereto.

Second—To receive, hold, take, and convey, by deed or otherwise, the same as a natural person might or could do, such voluntary grants and donations of real estate, and other property of every description, as shall be made to it to aid and encourage the construction, maintenance and accommodation of such railroad.

Third—To purchase, and by voluntary grants and donations receive and take, and by its officers, engineers, surveyors and agents, enter upon and take possession of, and hold and use, in any manner they may deem proper, all such lands and real estate, and other property, as the directors may deem necessary and proper for the construction and maintenance of such railroad, and for the stations, depots, and other accommodations and purposes, deemed necessary to accomplish the object for which the corporation is created.

Fourth—To lay out its road or roads, not exceeding ten rods wide, and to construct and maintain the same, with a single or double track, with such appendages as may be deemed necessary for the convenient use of the same, and for the purposes of making embankments, excavations, ditches, drains, culverts, or otherwise, and procuring timber, stone, and gravel, or other materials, may take as much more land, whenever they may think proper, as may be necessary for the purposes aforesaid, in the manner hereinafter provided, for the proper construction and security of the road.

Fifth—To construct their road across, along, or upon any stream of water, water course, roadstead, bay, navigable stream, street, avenue, or highway, or across any railway, canal, ditch, or flume, which the route of its road shall intersect, cross, or run along, in such manner as to afford security for life and property; but the corporation shall restore the stream or water course, road, street, avenue, highway, railroad, canal, ditch, or flume thus intersected, to its former state, as near as may be, or in a sufficient manner not to have unnecessarily impaired its usefulness or injured its franchises.

Sixth—To cross, intersect, join, and unite its railroad with any other railroad, either before or after constructed, at any point upon its route, and upon the grounds of such other railroad company, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches, and other conveniences, in furtherance of the objects of its connections; and every company whose railroad is, or shall be hereafter, intersected by any new railroad in forming such intersections and connection, and grant the facilities aforesaid; and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points or the manner of such crossings, intersections and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners, to be appointed as is provided hereinafter in respect to the taking of lands, but this section is not to affect the rights and franchises heretofore granted.

Seventh—To purchase lands, timber, stone, gravel, or other materials, to be used in the construction and maintenance of its road, or take them in the manner provided by this act; may change the line of its road, in whole or in part, whenever a majority of the directors shall determine, as is provided hereinafter, but no such change shall vary the general route of such road, as contemplated in the articles of association of such company.

Eighth—To receive by purchase, donation, or otherwise, any lands, or other property, of any description, and to hold and convey the same in any manner the directors may think proper, the same as natural persons might or could do, that may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its road, or for the erection of depots, turnouts, workshops, warehouses, or for any other purposes necessary for the conveniences of such companies, in order to transact the business usual for such railroad companies.

Ninth—To take, transport, carry, and convey persons and property on their railroad, by the force and power of steam, of animals, or any mechanical power, or by any combinations of them, and receive tolls or compensation therefor.

Tenth—To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, depots, and fixtures, and machinery for the accommodation and use of their passengers, freight, and business, and to obtain and hold the lands and other property necessary therefor.

Eleventh—To regulate the time and manner in which passengers and property shall be transported, and the tolls and compensation to be paid therefor, within the limits prescribed by law.

Twelfth—To regulate the force and speed of their locomotives, cars, trains, or other machinery used and employed on their road, and to establish, execute, and enforce all needful and proper rules and regulations, fully and completely for the management of its business transactions usual and proper for railroad companies.

A grant to a railroad company to cross a river with its railway and transport passengers thereon in the ordinary course of its business, is not an infringement of a previous grant of the exclusive right of a toll bridge over such river. Lake v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 7 Nev. 294.

The crossing of a river by a railroad track on piers or what is known as a "railroad bridge," is neither a bridge, ferry, nor any public means of crossing by any ordinary method of travel, such as is contemplated in ordinary legislation concerning toll roads and bridges. Idem.

A complaint charging a railroad company with negligence in failing to keep in repair a private way over its railroad track, constructed for its own use and benefit, and used by other persons by the mere license of the railroad company, does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Ferguson v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 13 Nev. 184, 192.

In actions of this character to enable a plaintiff to maintain his action, he must allege and prove some act of misfeasance on the part of the railroad company. Idem.

The railroad company could only be held responsible for the injuries plaintiff received upon the theory that the street where the accident occurred was a public highway prior to the construction of the railroad. In such event it would be the duty of the railroad to keep it in repair. Idem.

The power of railroad companies under clause ten above, does not protect it in such use of a steam whistle in its shops as to frighten horses and thereby injure others. Powell v. N. C. O. R. R., 28 Nev. 40, 64 (78 P. 978), affirmed, same case, 28 Nev. 305 (82 P. 96).

3529. May change line of road.

SEC. 18. If at any time after the location of the line of such railroad, in whole or in part, and the filing of the map thereof, as provided by this act, it shall appear to the directors of such company that the same may be improved, such directors may, from time to time, alter or change the line in any manner they may think proper, and cause a new map to be filed in the office where the map showing the first location is filed, and may thereupon take possession of the land embraced in such new location, that may be required for the construction and maintenance of such road on such new line, either by agreement with the owner or owners of such lands, or by such proceedings as are authorized under the provisions of this act, and use and enjoy the same in place of the line for which the new is substituted; but nothing in this act shall be so construed as to confer any powers on such companies to so change their road as to avoid any point named in their articles of association, except as provided in section 17, subdivision 7, of this act.

3530. Crossing railroads or highways—May take and use lands and materials.

SEC. 19. Whenever the track of such railroad shall cross a railroad or highway, such railroad or highway may be carried under, over, or on a level with the track, as may be most expedient, and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such railroad or highway desirable, with a view to a more easy ascent or descent, the said company may take such additional lands and materials, if needed for the construction of such road or highway, on such new line, as may be deemed requisite by said directors; unless the lands and materials so taken shall be purchased, or voluntarily given for the purpose aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner in this act provided, as nearly as may be, and duly made by such corporation to the owners and persons interested in such lands; and the same, when so taken and compensation made, to become part of such intersecting road or highway, in such manner and by such terms as the adjacent parts of such highways may be held for highway purposes.

3531. Right of way granted—Width, depots—Conveyance of land by cities—Abandonment of way, land reverts—Plat transmitted to surveyor-general, controller, and recorder—Foreign corporations to file articles with recorder.

SEC. 20. The right of way is hereby given and granted to all railroad companies that are now organized, or may be organized under the provisions of this act, or under the laws of any other state or territory, or under any act of Congress, to locate, construct, and maintain their roads, or any part or parcel thereof, over and through any of the swamp or overflowed lands belonging to this state, or any other public lands which are now or may be the property of the state, at the time of constructing said railroad; and the said railroad companies are hereby authorized to survey and mark through the said lands of the state, to be held by them for the track of their respective railroads, one hundred feet in width, for the whole length the said roads may be located over the lands of the state; and in cases where deep excavations, or heavy embankments, or other cuttings or structures whatever, or ditches, drains, canals, culverts, or other structures to protect the roadbed, and to facilitate the use and enjoyment of the same, is or may be required for the grade or other uses of said roads, then at such places a greater width may be taken by such company, and which is hereby given, not exceeding two hundred feet wide; and the right is hereby further given and granted to said companies, to locate, occupy, and hold all necessary sites and grounds for watering places, depots, or other buildings, for the convenient use of the same, along the line of said road or roads, so far as the places convenient for the same may fall upon the lands belonging to the state, except within the limits of any incorporated city or town, or within three miles where the same shall be taken, on paying to the state the value of the same; and, provided, no one depot, watering place, machine or workshop, or other buildings for the convenient use of such roads, shall cover over two square acres each, and that said sites or places on the lands of this state shall not be nearer to each other than five miles along the line of said roads. The right is hereby further given and granted to said companies to take from any of the lands belonging to this state all such materials of earth, wood, stone, or other materials whatever, as may be necessary or convenient, from time to time, for the first construction or equipment of said road or roads, or any part thereof; provided, that the grants herein made, as well as the use of the land of this state as for the materials for the construction and equipment of said road or roads, shall cease and determine as respects such particular road, which shall not have been begun and completed within the times limited in section 39 of this act; and provided further, that if any road, at any time after its location, shall be discontinued or abandoned by said company or companies, or the location of any part thereof be so changed as not to cover the lands of the state thus previously occupied, then the lands so abandoned or left shall revert to this state; and provided further, that when the location of the route of either of said railroads, or sites or places for depots, watering places, machine or workshops, or other buildings for the convenient use of the same, shall be selected, the secretary of said company shall transmit to the surveyor-general, and to the controller of the state, and to the recorder of the county in which the lands so selected are situated, to each of said officers, a correct plot of the location of said railroad, or sites or places, before such selection shall become operative. And when any such company shall, for its purposes aforesaid, require any of the lands belonging to any of the counties, cities, or towns in this state, the county, city, and town officers, respectively, having charge of such lands, may grant and convey such land to such company, for a compensation which shall be agreed upon between them, or may donate and convey the same without any compensation; and if they shall not agree upon the sale and price, the same may be taken by the company as is provided in other cases of taking lands by the provisions of this act; provided, however, that before any corporation incorporated or organized otherwise than under the laws of this state, shall be entitled to any of the rights granted by this act, it shall file in the office of the county recorder of each county in which the said railroad, or any part, extension or branch thereof shall be situate, a copy of its certificate or articles of incorporation, or of the act or law by which it was created, with the certified list of its officers, in the manner and form required of [by] section one of an act of the legislature of the State of Nevada entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to require foreign corporations to furnish evidence of their incorporation and corporate name,' approved March 3, 1869," approved January 30, 1877. [Sec. 1346.] As amended, Stats. 1905, 250.

Penalty for permitting animal to go on enclosed right of way, sec. 6753.

The limitation of two acres does not apply to lands of individuals. In regard to such lands, a larger quantity, if necessary, may be condemned. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Elliott, 5 Nev. 358, 363.

Possessory rights cannot be destroyed by a railroad company without compensation. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Lynch, 13 Nev. 92, 94, 102.

3532. Cities may make grants—Not to apply to street railroads.

SEC. 21. Any county, city, or town in this state, shall have, and are hereby fully empowered, by and through a two-thirds vote of the board of commissioners, the common council, or any other officers having a supervisory or other control of such county, city, or town, respectively, to give, grant, or donate, to any railroad company now organized, or that may be hereafter organized under the laws of this state, the use of any of the streets or highways which may be absolutely necessary in order to enable any such company to reach an accessible point for a depot in any such county, city and county, city or town, or to pass through the same on as direct a route as possible; and accommodate the traveling and commercial interests thereof; provided, however, the provisions of this section shall not apply to any street railroad now constructed, or hereafter to be constructed, in any of the incorporated cities of this state; nor shall any railroad company, who may avail themselves of the provisions of this section, ever use their road for street railroad purposes or for the purpose of carrying passengers for a consideration from one point to another in the same city; nor shall any city or town donate any public square, or any land set apart, to the use of any one company.

3533. Surveys—General rights and powers—Lands acquired—Reversion.

SEC. 22. Any railroad company, organized under the provisions of this act, or any railroad company organized under any law of this state, which shall accept the provisions of this act, as herein provided, is authorized to enter upon any land for the purpose of surveying the line of its proposed railroad, the company being responsible for any damage occasioned by such; and such company is also authorized to acquire, purchase, and hold any real estate, or any right, title, or interest therein, which may be necessary or proper for the purpose of the construction or maintenance of the track or tracks, water stations, depots, machine or workshops, turntables, or any other building or structure necessary for such railroad; but such company shall not hold such real estate, or any right, title or interest therein, required or used solely or mainly for the construction or maintenance of the track or tracks of said railroad, beyond the time of the legal existence of said company, nor after the location of said track or tracks has been changed therefrom, nor after said company shall have failed, or ceased, to the use of the same for the maintenance of such track for the space of five years continuously; but in each of such cases, the said real estate, and all the right, title, and interest therein, shall revert to the person or persons, and his or their assigns, from whom the same was acquired by said company.

3534. Guardians, executors or administrators may convey real estate to company—Judge to approve.

SEC. 23. If it shall become necessary, for any of the purposes aforesaid, for such company to acquire any real estate, or any right, title, or interest therein, which is the property of an infant, idiot, or insane person, the guardian, executor, or administrator (as the case may be), may sell and convey the same to said company, but neither such sale or conveyance shall be valid for any purpose, until the same shall have been approved by the judge of the proper court; and said judge is hereby authorized to examine such deeds and conveyances, and if he shall deem the same just and proper, he shall approve the same, and thereupon such conveyances shall have the same force and effect, for the purposes in this section mentioned, as if the same had been

3535. Special proceedings to acquire real estate.

SEC. 24. Such company may acquire any real estate, or any right, title, interest, estate, or claim therein or thereto, necessary for the purposes of said company, as hereinbefore provided, by means of the special proceedings prescribed in this act. The said special proceedings shall be substantially as follows: The said company shall file in the clerk's office of the district court, in the county in which said real estate is situated, a petition verified according to law, stating therein the name of the company, the time when it was incorporated, that it still continues in legal existence, the principal termini of the proposed road, the description by metes and bounds, or by some accurate designation of the tract or tracts of lands which said company desire to appropriate for the purposes in the foregoing section mentioned; that said tract or tracts of land are necessary for said purposes; that the line of said railroad has been surveyed, and a map thereof made (a copy of which shall be filed with the said petition); that said line has been adopted as the route of said railroad, and the names of the persons in possession of said tract or tracts of land, and of those claiming any right, title, or interest therein, as far as the same can be ascertained by reasonable diligence. As amended, Stats. 1869, 90.

For condemnation of property, see chapter 66, civil practice act, secs. 5606-5629.

The question as to the quantity of land which the company may take on the ground of its being necessary for depots and other buildings must be determined by the evidence produced and depends upon many facts and circumstances for which there is no exact standard. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Elliott, 5 Nev. 359, 363.

3536. Idem—Rights of defendants.

SEC. 25. The persons in occupation of said tract or tracts of land, and those having any right, title, or interest therein, whether named in the petition or not, shall be defendants thereto, and may appear and show cause against the same, and may appear and be heard before the commissioners herein provided for, and in proceedings subsequent thereto, in the same manner as if they had appeared and answered said petition.

3537. Idem—Hearing of petition.

SEC. 26. The said court, or the judge thereof, either in term or vacation, shall, by order, appoint the time for the hearing said petition, and such hearing may be had, and all orders in said proceedings may be made by the said court, or the judge thereof, either in term time or vacation.

3538. Idem—To notify owners—Publication of notice.

SEC. 27. The said company shall cause all the occupants and owners of said tract or tracts of land, so far as the same can be ascertained by reasonable diligence, who reside in said county, to be personally notified of the pendency of the said petition at least ten days before the hearing thereof, and if any of said occupants or owners are unknown, or do not reside in said county, and have not been personally notified of the pendency of said petition, said company shall cause a notice stating the filing of said petition, the object thereof, the tracts of land sought to be appropriated, and the time and the place of the hearing of said petition, to be published for four successive weeks previous to the time of hearing said petition, in a newspaper published in said county, or, if none is published in said county, then in a newspaper published nearest to said county.

3539. Idem—To appoint commissioners—Vacancy.

SEC. 28. The defendants to said petition may appear and show cause against said petition, on or before the time for the hearing thereof, or such other time as the hearing may be continued to, and upon satisfactory proof being made that the defendants have been duly notified of the pendency of said petition, as herein prescribed, and upon the hearing of the allegations and proofs of the said parties, if the said court, or judge, shall be satisfied that the said lands, or any part thereof, are necessary or proper for any of the purposes mentioned in said petition, then such court, or judge, shall appoint three competent and disinterested persons as commissioners, one of whom shall be selected from among the persons, if any, named for that purpose by said company, and one shall be selected from among the persons, if any, named on the part of any of the defendants, to ascertain and assess the compensation to be paid to any person or persons having or holding any right, title, or interest in or to each of said tracts of land, for and in consideration of the appropriation of such land to the use of said company. If any vacancy occur among said commissioners, by reason of any one or more of them refusing or neglecting to act, or by any other means, one or more commissioners may be appointed by said court, or judge, to fill such vacancy, upon notice being given of such vacancy, as said court, or judge, may direct.

On objection that the appointment of commissioners to fix compensation for land taken for railroad purposes was a matter pertaining to the executive and could not be exercised by the judicial department (ante, sec. 258), it was held that as the constitution does not point out the manner in which private property shall be taken (ante, sec. 237), the legislature has the power to prescribe any method which will produce a just and fair result, and that there is no more reason why the commissioners should not be appointed by the executive than by the judiciary. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Elliott, 5 Nev. 359.

3540. Idem—Meeting of commissioners.

SEC. 29. The said court or judge shall appoint the time and place for the first meeting of said commissioners, and the time for filing of their report, and may give such further time as may be necessary for that purpose, if they shall not then have completed their duties. The said commissioners, or a majority of them, shall meet at the time and place as ordered, and, before entering on their duties, shall be duly sworn to honestly, faithfully and impartially perform the duties imposed upon them; and any one of them may issue subpoenas for witnesses for either of said parties, and may administer oaths; and said commissioners may adjourn from place to place and from time to time, as may be necessary for the proper discharge of their duties.

3541. Idem—Compensation—To file report—Adverse claims.

SEC. 30. The said commissioners shall proceed to view the several tracts of land as ordered by said court, or judge, and shall hear the allegations and proofs of said parties, and shall ascertain and assess the compensation for the land sought to be appropriated, to be paid by said company to the person or persons having or holding any right, title, or interest in or to each of the several tracts of land; and in ascertaining and assessing such compensation, they shall take in consideration and make allowance for any benefit or advantages that in their opinion will accrue to such person or persons by reason of the construction of the railroad as proposed by said company; and if the said railroad company shall, in their petition filed in said special proceedings, offer or agree to make good and sufficient fences on the line of their said railroad, or any portion thereof, or to make good and sufficient cattle guards where fences may cross said line of railroad, at such places and such times as the same may be necessary, no sum or price for such fences shall be included in the compensation or damages to be awarded by said commissioners; but such railroad company shall not be required to construct fences on the line of their railroad where the same passes through uninclosed tracts of lands, nor until inclosures shall be made abutting upon the property of said company; and such commissioners shall, on or before the time or times as ordered by said court, or judge, file in said clerk's office their report, signed by them, setting forth their proceedings in the premises, and they may include all of said tracts in one report, or they may make several reports, including one or more of said tracts of land, if the court, or judge, shall so order, or if they shall deem it proper. In case there are adverse or conflicting claims to the compensation assessed for any tract of land, or any right, title, or interest therein, thus sought to be appropriated, the parties thus asserting such claims shall present the same, by petition, to the court, or judge, after the report of the commissioners shall have been filed, and the said court, or judge, shall proceed to hear and determine the same; and in such case, said company may pay the amount of such compensation to the clerk of said court, to abide the order of the court, or judge, in said proceeding, and said company shall not be liable for any of the costs caused by the adjudication of such conflicting claims.

The valuation of lands taken for railroad purposes by commissioners will not be disturbed, if there is any substantial testimony to support it. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Elliott, 5 Nev. 359.

In awarding compensation to be paid for land, its full actual value should be given; in ascertaining such value everything generally, which actually enhances the present worth, should be considered, but not the fact that it is necessary or indispensable for the railroad to have it. Idem.

The fact that the railroad has been constructed according to the surveys and maps originally filed, does not prevent it from condemning other land which may be necessary and proper for its purposes; and a petition for condemnation under such circumstances is not demurrable for setting up such construction. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Lovejoy, 8 Nev. 100, 105.

A report of commissioners, appointed to assess the value of lands to be taken for railroad purposes which fails to show that they or a majority of them met at the time and place ordered and before entering on their duties when duly sworn, is not sufficient; and it is error to confirm such report. Idem.

It seems that when land is condemned for a railroad after its original construction, the owner is entitled to the actual market value at the time of taking, without deduction for any appreciation in value caused by the previous location and construction of the road. Idem.

3542. Idem—New trial—Report set aside.

SEC. 31. The said company, or any of said defendants, if dissatisfied with the report may, within twenty days after the time for the filing of said report, and after ten days' notice to the parties interested, move to set aside the report, and to have a new trial as to any tract of land, upon good cause shown therefor; and the said court or judge shall set aside the report as to such tract of land, and may recommit the matter to the same or to other commissioners, who shall be ordered to proceed in like manner as those first appointed; but such matters shall not be more than twice recommitted to commissioners.

This section does not mean that the report should be set aside as a matter of course, because of dissatisfaction, but only for good cause shown. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Elliott, 5 Nev. 358, 364, 365.

The "good cause" mentioned in this section means something clear and indubitable, pointing error in law or fact, intentional or unintentional on the part of the commissioners. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Henry, 8 Nev. 166, 176.

Although this section does not allow for damages to the residue of premises from which a portion only is taken, yet such damages are a proper element of estimate in arriving at the "just compensation." V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Henry, 8 Nev. 165, 171.

This section does not contemplate the giving of the mere "market value" of the land taken; and if it did it would in that regard be unconstitutional. Idem.

The valuation which a person puts upon his property before an assessor for taxation purposes, though it may perhaps be admissible by way of contradiction of the owner's testimony to the contrary, has no weight and is in fact incompetent as independent evidence in determining the value of such property on proceedings for condemning it for railroad purposes. Idem.

Testimony as to special injury to business is irrelevant. Idem.

The compensation to be paid the owner of land taken for railroad purposes is most readily and fairly ascertained by determining the value of the whole land without the railway and of the portion remaining after the railroad is built—the difference being the true compensation to which the party is entitled. Idem.

Commissioners are not on questions of fact confined and limited as a jury; though they hear and weigh the allegations and testimony offered, they themselves view the premises and are supposed to exercise their own judgment to some extent, irrespective of the evidence adduced. Idem.

3543. Idem—Confirmation of reports.

SEC. 32. Upon the expiration of twenty days after the filing of said report or reports, or at such further time as may be appointed therefor, if the motion and notice shall not have been made and given, as aforesaid, and if the proceedings of said commissioners appear to have been correctly and properly done, the said court, or judge, shall confirm each of said reports, and certify the same thereon.

3544. Idem—Record of reports—Procedure—Costs.

SEC. 33. Each of said reports, and the certificates thereon, upon the compensation therein named being paid, shall be recorded in the recorder's office of said county by said company. The said court, or judge, may make all such orders as may be necessary or proper in the special proceedings provided for in this act, and shall cause the pleadings and proceedings to be amended whenever justice shall require it to be done, and shall direct the manner of the service of all orders and notices not herein specially provided for. Costs in such special proceedings shall be taxed by the clerk at the rates prescribed in the fee bill for said county in civil actions, and shall be paid by said company, except in case where a defendant shall move for a new trial, and the compensation assessed by the commissioners shall not be increased more than ten per cent upon the previous assessment, in which case such defendant shall pay the cost.

3545. Idem—Defective titles — Proceedings instituted — Payment into court.

SEC. 34. If the title attempted to be acquired by virtue of the provisions of this act, shall be found to be defective from any cause, such company may again institute proceedings to acquire the same, as in this act prescribed; and at any stage of such new proceedings, or of any proceedings under this act, the court, or judge in chambers, may rule or order in their behalf made, authorize such company, if already in possession, to continue in the use and possession, and if not in possession, to take possession of, and use such premises during the pendency of, and until the final conclusion of such proceedings, and may stay all actions and proceedings against such company on account thereof; provided, such company shall pay a sufficient sum in court, or give security, to be approved by such court, or judge, to pay the compensation in that behalf when ascertained.

3546. Idem—Passage of title.

SEC. 35. Upon the report of the commissioners being filed for record, as above provided for, and upon the payment or tender of the compensation and costs, as prescribed in this act, the real estate, or the right, title, or interest therein, described in such report, shall become the property of said company for the purpose of its incorporation, and shall be deemed to be acquired for, and appropriated to, public use.

3547. Idem—Payment or tender.

SEC. 36. Such company shall, within thirty days after the final confirmation of the report as aforesaid, pay or tender the sum of money ascertained and assessed by said commissioners as and for the compensation of each tract of land described in said report, of which the compensation was ordered by said court or judge, to be ascertained and assessed as aforesaid; and said payment or tender may be made to the person or persons owning said tract of land, or having or holding any right, title, or interest therein, according to the amount or extent of the right, title, or interest, owned or held therein by such person or persons, or said payment may be made to the said clerk for said persons, and the same shall be deemed and taken as a payment to such person or persons, and shall be as effectual for all purposes whatsoever as if the said sum of money had been personally paid to each and all of the persons entitled thereto.

3548. Idem—Court to order payment to party entitled.

SEC. 37. The said court or judge shall, at the time of the payment of the said sum of money to the said clerk, or at such other time or times as may be ordered, direct and order the same to be paid over to the person or persons who shall, upon satisfactory proof, appear to be entitled thereto.

3549. Idem—Definition of "person."

SEC. 38. In all the proceedings in relation to the sale or appropriation of real estate, and ascertaining and receiving the compensation therefor, for railroad purposes, as prescribed in this act, the term "person" shall be deemed to include municipal or other incorporations.

3550. Idem—Duties of clerk of court.

SEC. 39. The minutes of the proceedings had before such judge shall be entered by said clerk in the same manner, and with the same force and effect, as if the proceedings were had before said court in term time.

3551. Companies may consolidate—Notice—To maintain fence—Not liable in certain cases—Company may recover damages.

SEC. 40. It shall be lawful for two or more railroad companies to amalgamate and consolidate their capital stock, debts, property, assets and franchises, in such manner as may be agreed upon by the board of directors of such companies so desiring to amalgamate and consolidate their interests; but no such amalgamation or consolidation shall take place without the written consent of three-fourths of the value of all stockholders in interest of each company; and no such amalgamation or consolidation shall in any way relieve such companies, or stockholders thereof, from any and all just liabilities; and in case of such amalgamation or consolidation, due notice of the same shall be given by advertising for one month in at least one newspaper in each county, if there shall be one published therein, into or through which such roads shall run, and also for the same length of time in one paper published in Virginia City and one at the capital of the state; and when the consolidation and amalgamation is completed a copy of the new articles of association shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. It shall be the duty of the railroad company to make and maintain a good and sufficient fence on either or both sides of their property; and in case any company do not make and maintain such fence, if their engine or cars shall kill, maim, or destroy any cattle, or other domestic animals, when they stray upon their line of road, where it passes through or alongside of the property of the owners thereof, they shall pay to the owner or owners of such cattle, or other domestic animal, a fair market price for the same, unless the owner or owners of the animal or animals so killed, maimed or destroyed, shall be negligent or at fault. In any case, where the railroad company have heretofore, or may hereafter, pay to the owner or owners of the land, through which, or alongside of which, their road is or may be located, an agreed price for making and maintaining such fence, or whenever the cost of such fence has been or may be included in the amount of damages allowed and paid for the right of way for such railroad, such company shall be entirely relieved and exonerated from all claims and awards of damages arising out of the killing or maiming any animals, as aforesaid, in favor of all persons, or their successors or assigns, who shall thus fail to construct and maintain such fence. And the owner or owners of such animals shall become responsible to the railroad company for any damage or loss which may accrue to such company from such animals being upon their railroad track, by reason of the nonconstruction of such fence by said owner, unless it can be proven that such loss or damage accrued by reason of the negligence of such company, its officers, agents, or employees.

The liability of railroad companies for injuries to domestic animals is founded only upon negligence or omission of duty on the part of the company. Walsh v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 8 Nev. 110, 111, 117.

If, in the prosecution of a lawful act, an accident, which is purely an accident, arises, no action can be maintained from an injury resulting therefrom. Idem.

A railroad company has the right to the possession of the land taken for the purpose of its road, and that possession is the right to its exclusive enjoyment, and to exclude all persons and beasts therefrom at any and all times. Idem.

In an action against railroad company for killing a domestic animal, which has strayed upon its track from land not belonging to its owner, it is incumbent on the plaintiff to show negligence on the part of the company. Idem.

The mere killing of a domestic animal by a railroad train is not evidence of negligence on the part of the company. Idem.

That portion of the above section in regard to fences in connection with the further provision that railroads shall be liable for the killing of domestic animals "when they stray upon their line of road where it passes through or alongside of the property of the owners thereof," simply requires companies to fence their road where it may run through or alongside of the land of private individuals; that is, on either or both sides, as occasion may demand; and even then the fencing is only for the protection of adjoining owners, and no other person can complain of the want of it. Idem.

This section does not require railroad companies to fence their road where it passes through public land. Idem.

If cattle stray upon the railroad directly from the land of their owner and by reason of the failure of the company to fence its road at that point, and are killed, the company will be liable under this section on the simple showing of the facts of such killing and neglect to fence, without any further showing of negligence; but it is otherwise when they stray from public land or from land not belonging to their owner. Idem.

3552. Bell to be rung—Crossings—Penalty.

SEC. 41. A bell of at least twenty pounds weight shall be placed on each locomotive engine, and be rung at a distance of at least eighty rods from the place where the railroad shall cross any street, road or highway, under a penalty of one hundred dollars for every neglect, to be paid by the corporation owning the railroad, one-half thereof to go to the informer and the other half to the state; and said corporation shall also be liable for all damage which shall be sustained by any person by reason of such neglect.

Penalties payable to school fund, sec. 355.

See sec. 6584.

A railroad company, when moving its locomotives or trains upon the public streets of a city, is bound to use due care and give some signal of their approach. Solen v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 13 Nev. 106, 122.

A person walking along a track on a public street in a city has a right to presume, and act on the belief, that the railroad company will not move its locomotives or cars along such track without giving the usual signal. Idem.

Case of conflicting evidence in regard to ringing of bell or blowing of whistle. Bunting v. C. P. R. R. Co., 16 Nev. 277.

3553. Checks on baggage—Refusal—Penalty—Failure to deliver baggage—Damages—Evidence.

SEC. 42. A check shall be affixed to every package or parcel of baggage, when taken for transportation, by the agent or employee of such railroad company, and a duplicate thereof given to the passenger or person delivering the same in his behalf; and if such check be refused on demand, the railroad company shall pay to such passenger the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered in an action for debt, and, further, no fare or toll shall be collected or received from such passenger; and if such passenger shall have paid his or her said fare, the same shall be returned by the conductor in charge of the train; and if, on producing said check, his or her baggage shall not be delivered to him or to her by the agent or employee of said railroad company, he or she may, himself or herself, be a witness in any suit brought by him or her to recover the value thereof, to prove the contents and value of said baggage.

3554. Map to be filed with secretary of state.

SEC. 43. Every railroad company in this state shall, within a reasonable time after their road shall be finally located, cause to be made a map and profile thereof, and of the land taken and obtained for the use thereof, and the boundaries of the several counties through which said road may run, and file the same in the office of the secretary of state; and also like maps of the parts thereof located in different counties, and file the same in the office of the clerk of the county in which said parts of said road shall be, there to remain as of record forever. The said maps and profiles shall be certified by the chief engineer, the acting president, and secretary of such company, and copies of the same, so certified and filed as aforesaid, shall be kept in the office of the secretary of the company, subject to examination by all parties interested.

3555. Annual reports—To be verified—What to contain.

SEC. 44. Every railroad company operating its line or lines of railroad wholly or in part in this state shall make an annual report to the secretary of the State of Nevada, or to such other officer as may be provided by law, of the operations of such railroad company during the year ending on the thirtieth day of June in each last preceding year, which report shall be verified by the oath of the president, vice-president, or managing officer having charge of the operations and business of such railroad company, and also by the oath of the auditor or other person having charge of the accounts of such railroad company, and shall file such report in the office of the secretary of state aforesaid, on or before the first day of October in each year, and shall state in each report:

First—The capital stock of such company, and the actual cash capital paid in on such stock by the members of such company.

Second—The amount of cash expended for the purchase of lands for the construction of the road of such company, the cost of the construction of such road, and the cost of buildings, engines and cars, respectively, used by such company in this state.

Third—The amount and the nature of indebtedness of such company and the amount due to such company.

Fourth—The amount received by such company for the transportation of all passengers, and all freight, property, mails and express matter over the road or roads of such company, together with all amounts received by such company from all other sources in connection with such road.

Fifth—The amount of freight of all kinds transported over the road or roads of such company, specifying the quantity of such freight in tons.

Sixth—The amount paid by such company for the repairs of engines, cars, buildings, and other expenses, in gross, showing the current expenses of running such road.

Seventh—The number and amount of dividends declared by such company and when such dividends were paid.

Eighth—The number of engine houses and shops, together with the number of engines and cars, and the character of the same.

Ninth—The net profits of such company during such year.

Tenth—It shall be the duty of the secretary of state of the State of Nevada to prescribe the form of such report, making said form conform as nearly as practicable with the form prescribed in similar cases by the interstate commerce commission, and on or before the thirtieth day of June in each year, it shall be the duty of said secretary of state, or the duty of the officer by whom such report may be from time to time required, to furnish to every such railroad company, in duplicate, blanks of the form required and prescribed by him for the making of such reports, which blanks and a demand for the return thereof, properly filled out, shall be forwarded to such railroad company by sending same to the resident agent within the state, by United States registered mail, and such officer shall serve such forms or blanks and demand the return thereof in such manner (keeping a record in his office of the date of forwarding the same), and shall require a receipt to be furnished to him by every such railroad company, showing the date at which such blank forms and demand were received by such railroad company; provided, if such railroad has no resident agent, said form shall be deposited with the secretary of state, and such deposit shall be deemed a service.

Eleventh—If any such railroad company shall neglect or fail to comply with the requirements of this act and he shall fail to make, execute and return the reports hereby required of it by such demand of the secretary of state or other officer charged by law with the duty of requiring such reports for more than thirty days after the first day of October in each year, said railroad company shall be liable for, and shall forfeit and pay to the State of Nevada for such neglect, a penalty of twenty thousand dollars. And it shall be the duty of the attorney-general of the state to commence an action in the name of the State of Nevada for the recovery of such penalty, and the court shall render judgment therefor against such company and such action shall not be dismissed or compromised except upon the full payment of the sum of such penalty, together with all costs of such action, and execution shall issue against the property of such company until such judgment shall be fully satisfied.

Duty of railroads to make annual report to railroad commission, sec. 4568.

See sec. 3567.

3556. Idem—Failure of secretary of state to furnish forms—Penalty.

(SEC. 2.) If the secretary of state or such other officer whose duty it may be to furnish such forms shall fail or neglect to furnish and serve the same as herein provided, he shall be liable to the State of Nevada on his official bond in each case to the amount of the penalty herein prescribed to be imposed on such railroad for failure to file the herein prescribed report.

3557. Not to conflict with railroad commission act.

(SEC. 3.) Said section 44 as heretofore existing, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed; provided, that nothing contained herein shall be construed as repealing or in any way conflicting with or impairing any of the provisions of an act entitled "An act to regulate railroads, telegraph and telephone companies and other common carriers in this state, creating a railroad commission, constituting the governor, lieutenant-governor, and the attorney-general a railroad board for the appointment and removal of the railroad commissioners, prevent the imposition of unreasonable rates, prevent unjust discrimination, insure an adequate railway service and fixing maximum freight charges." In case of any conflict with said act, then all the provisions of this act in conflict with said act shall be null and void. As amended, Stats. 1879, 54; 1889, 117; 1907, 199.

Railroad commission act, secs. 4549-4585.

3558. Regulation of time and accommodations.

SEC. 45. Every such company shall start and run their cars for the transportation of persons and property, at such regular times as they shall fix by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodation for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, offer or to be offered, for transportation at the place of starting and the junction of other railroads, and at siding and stopping places, established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freight, and shall take, transport, and discharge such passengers and property at, from, and to such places, on the due payment of tolls, freight, or fare therefor.

3559. Idem—Damages for violation.

SEC. 46. In cases of refusal by such company, or their agents, so to take and transport any passengers or property, or to deliver the same at the regular appointed places, such company shall pay to the party aggrieved all damages which shall be sustained thereby, with costs of suit.

3560. Idem—Company not liable, when—Negligence of passenger.

SEC. 48. In case any passenger on any railroad shall be injured on the platform of a car, or any baggage, wood, gravel, or freight cars, in violation of the printed regulations of the company, posted up at the time in a conspicuous place inside of its passenger cars then in the train, or in violation of verbal instructions given by any officer of the train, such company shall not be liable for the injury; provided, said company, at the time, furnished room inside of its passenger cars sufficient for the accommodation of its passengers.

3561. Conductor may eject passengers.

SEC. 49. If any passenger shall refuse to prepay his fare, or toll, upon demand, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train, and the employees of the company, to put him out of the cars at any stopping place the conductor may elect.

3562. Conductor and other officers to wear badge—Authority.

SEC. 50. Every conductor, baggage master, engineer, brakeman, or other employee of any railroad company employed in a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat, or cap, or in some conspicuous place on the breast of his coat, a badge which shall indicate his office or station, and the initial letters of the name of the company by which he is employed. No conductor, or collector, without such badge, shall demand, or be entitled to receive, from any passenger, any fare, toll, or ticket, or exercise any of the powers of his office, or station, and no one of said officers or employees, without such badge, shall have any authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger or property.

Penalties for violations of duty, see secs. 6583-6585.

3563. Maximum rate for freight and fares—Proviso.

SEC. 51. It shall be unlawful for any such railroad company to charge more than ten cents per mile for each passenger, and twenty cents per mile for each ton of freight transported on its road; and for every transgression of such limitation the company shall be liable to the party suffering thereby treble the entire amount of fare or freight so charged to such party; provided, that in no case shall the company be required to receive less than thirty-five cents for any one lot of freight for any distance.

See sec. 6737.

3564. Penalty for intoxication.

SEC. 52. If any person, while in charge of a locomotive engine running upon any railroad for such company, or while acting as a conductor of a car, or train of cars, on any such railroad, be intoxicated, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months.

See sec. 6583.

3565. Injuries to works of company—Penalty—Unlawful to excavate under without consent.

SEC. 53. If any person or persons shall wilfully do, or cause to be done, any act or acts whatever, whereby any building, construction, or work of any kind of any such company, or any engine, machine, or structure, or any matter or thing appertaining to the same, or track of said road, or any property or thing belonging to or appertaining to such railroad, shall be stopped, obstructed, impaired, weakened, injured, or destroyed, such person or persons so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall forfeit and pay to said company treble the amount of damages sustained by means of such offense, besides a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court; and if, by reason of any unlawful act, any accident should happen to life or limb of any person riding or being in the cars of such railroad, then such person or persons shall be guilty of felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for any term not less than three nor more than ten years. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons engaged in mining or other pursuits, to tunnel, drift, or in any manner excavate under or upon any land belonging to any railroad company, without the consent of such company; and any person so offending shall be liable to the fine and imprisonment hereinbefore mentioned, whether injury results to any person by reason thereof or not.

See secs. 6586, 6748, 6749.

3566. Time granted for operation—Charter, when void.

SEC. 54. If such railroad company shall not, within four years after the filing of its original articles of association, begin the construction of its road and expend thereon at least five per cent of the amount of its capital stock, and finish the road and put it in full operation within six years, its act of incorporation shall be void. As amended, Stats. 1893, 87.

3567. False notice or report—Liability for—Disqualification for company office.

See secs. 4575, 4576.

3568. Payment of dividends when insolvent—Liability—Existing companies may take advantage of this act—Acceptance to be filed in office of secretary of state.

SEC. 56. If the directors of such company shall declare and pay any dividend when the company is insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would make it insolvent, they shall be jointly and severally responsible for all the debts of the company then existing, and for all that shall thereafter be contracted, so long as they shall respectively remain in office; provided, that if any of the directors shall be absent at the time of making the dividends, or shall object thereto, and shall, within thirty days thereafter, or after their return, if absent, file a certificate of their absence, or objections, with the secretary of the company, and with the clerk of the county or district court of the county in which the principal office of said company is located, they shall be exempt from all liability. All the existing railroad companies in this state may acquire and may be possessed of all the powers, rights, and benefits conferred by this act, fully and completely, by filing a written acceptance thereof in the office of the secretary of state, signed by all the directors of said company, and attested by the president and secretary thereof, with the seal of such company affixed thereto; and the acceptance of any part of this act shall be deemed and taken to be an acceptance of the whole act, and a surrender of the act or acts under which the company may be organized. Thereupon such company shall possess all of such powers, rights and benefits so accepted, and be subject to all of the obligations and restrictions herein specified, as fully and completely as they would have had and been if organized under this act.

3569. Kind of rail to be used in construction—Not to apply to street railroads.

SEC. 57. Approved March 18, 1911, 106

3617. Ad valorem state tax of 60 cents—How apportioned.

SECTION 1. For the fiscal year commencing January first, nineteen hundred and eleven, and annually thereafter, an ad valorem tax of sixty cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property is hereby levied and directed to be collected for state purposes, upon all taxable property in the state, including net proceeds of mines and mining claims, except such property as is by law exempted from taxation:

General fund, thirty-nine and six-tenths cents; state interest and sinking fund, three cents; territorial interest fund, three cents; general school fund, six cents; contingent university fund, five cents; contingent university fund, 1905, No. one, one-tenth of one cent; contingent university fund, 1905, No. two, three-tenths of one cent; state prison interest and sinking fund, three cents.

The statute of 1885, § 5, sec. 21, is not repealed by this act, this act being simply a reenactment of the revenue law of 1865, except that it omits its provisions for liability of the state for part of certain county officers' salaries, and is not intended as a repeal of said act of 1885. State ex rel. Westerfield v. Tyrrell, 22 Nev. 421, 425 (41 P. 145).

Cited, State ex rel. Holley v. Boerlin, 30 Nev. 473, 474 (98 P. 402).

Referring to a previous act: This section levies a state tax of $1.25 and authorizes a county tax not exceeding $1.50. This is clearly in accordance with the constitution. State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 173, 179, 180.

Different revenue acts should, as far as possible, be construed as one act, but the later one must control, if there be any conflict or inconsistency. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Ormsby Co., 5 Nev. 341.

Cited, State ex rel. Williams v. Fogus, 19 Nev. 248 (9 P. 123).

3618. County tax fixed, how.

SEC. 2. The board of county commissioners of each county shall, on or before the first Monday of March, of each year, fix the rate of county taxes for such year, designating the number of cents on each hundred dollars of property levied for each fund; and shall levy the state and county taxes upon the taxable property of the county.

See secs. 3762, 3818.

The amount of taxes for county purposes must be fixed and levied by the board of county commissioners; and without their action no county tax can be collected.

The levy of state taxes by the board of county commissioners, though provided for in the revenue law, is an idle ceremony, for the reason that the levy is made by the legislature. State v. Manhattan S. M. Co., 4 Nev. 318.

3619. All levies a lien on real property.

SEC. 3. Every tax levied, under the provisions or authority of this act, is hereby made a lien against the property assessed, and a lien shall attach upon the real property for the tax levied upon the personal property, of the owner of such real estate, which lien shall attach upon the day on which the taxes are levied in each year, on all property then in this state, and on all other property whenever it reaches the state, and shall not be satisfied or removed until all the taxes are paid, or the property has absolutely vested in the purchaser under a sale for taxes.

Cited, State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 176; State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 9 Nev. 90; State v. Y. J. S. M. Co., 14 Nev. 230; State v. C. & C. R. R. Co., 29 Nev. 487, 500, 503 (91 P. 932).

3620. Special tax for cities, towns, schools, a lien.

SEC. 4. All special taxes levied for city, town, school, road or other purposes throughout the different counties of this state, shall be a lien on the property so assessed, and shall be assessed and collected by the same officers, at the same time, and in the same manner as the state and county taxes are now or may hereafter be assessed and collected.

3621. Property exempt—Exceptions.

SEC. 5. All property of every kind and nature whatsoever, within this state, shall be subject to taxation except:

First—All lands and other property owned by the state, or by the United States, or by any county, municipal corporation, town or village in this state, and all public schoolhouses, with lots appurtenant thereto, owned by any legally created school district within the state; provided, that when any of the property mentioned in this subdivision is used for any other than public purposes, and a rent or valuable consideration is received for its use, the same shall be taxed.

Second—Unpatented mines and mining claims; provided, that nothing in this section shall be so construed as to exempt from taxation possessory claims to the public lands of the United States, or of this state, or the proceeds of the mines; and provided, further, that nothing herein shall be so construed as to interfere with the primary title to the lands belonging to the United States.

Third—Churches, chapels and other buildings used for religious worship, with their furniture and equipments, and the lots of ground on which they stand, used therewith and necessary thereto; provided, that when any such property is used exclusively for any other than church purposes, and a rent or other valuable consideration is received for its use, the same shall be taxed.

Fourth—The funds, furniture, paraphernalia and regalia owned by any lodge of the Order of Free and Accepted Masons, or of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, or of any other similar charitable organization, or by any benevolent or charitable society, so long as the same shall be used for the legitimate purposes of such lodge or society, or for such charitable or benevolent purposes; provided, that such exemption shall in no case exceed the sum of five thousand dollars to any one lodge, society or organization.

Fifth—All cemeteries and graveyards set apart and used for and open to the public for the burial of the dead, when no charge is made for burial therein.

Sixth—The property of widows and orphan children, not to exceed the amount of one thousand dollars to any one family; provided, that no such exemption shall be allowed to any but actual bona fide residents of this state, and shall be allowed in but one county in this state to the same family, and the party or parties claiming such exemption, or some one in their behalf, shall make an affidavit before the county assessor of such residence, and that such exemption has been claimed in no other county in this state for that year. As amended, Stats. 1909, 125.

Subdivision 3 above was also amended 1909, 18, but enacting clause omitted.

Y. M. C. A. buildings exempt, sec. 3842.

Hospitals and asylums exempt in certain cases, sec. 1396.

Property of cemetery association, exemption, sec. 1407.

Possessory rights to mining claims are property and as such taxable. H. & N. G. & S. M. Co. v. Storey Co., 1 Nev. 104; People v. Taylor, 1 Nev. 109.

All tangible property within this state is subject to one and only one annual tax. Each acre of land and each piece of coined money is liable to this tax. State v. Earl, 1 Nev. 394.

But property which was taxed in the hands of A, on the first day of May, could not subsequently, that year, be taxed in the hands of another. Idem.

A tax on money at interest secured by mortgage on land, is neither a tax on the pieces of money loaned, the land on which the mortgage security is given, nor upon the paper on which the promise to pay is written. But it is a tax on the chose in action or right to collect the debt. Idem.

Choses in action follow the person of those having the right. When the holder of such right resides out of the state, this state has no jurisdiction over the person nor over the thing proposed to be taxed, and cannot tax either. Idem.

The state can only tax choses in action belonging to its own citizens or residents. Idem.

When property is in the state at the time a levy is made thereon for taxes, the owner thereof becomes liable for the tax, although he may have removed the property before the value thereof is assessed. State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 173, 179, 180.

Possessory rights to public lands are subject to taxation. Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 352.

The notes, bills, bonds, of the national banks are the commodity in which those banks deal in the ordinary course of their business. State taxes upon them are state taxes upon the business of the banks, and such taxes the state cannot impose. State v. Bank of Nevada, 4 Nev. 348.

Property in transitu through a county not properly in it for taxation purposes. Where wood cut in California and belonging to a citizen of that state was thrown into the Carson river and simply passed through Douglas County to find a market in Ormsby County, for which it was destined: Held, that in so passing through Douglas County it was not properly in it for purposes of taxation. Conley v. Chedic, 7 Nev. 336; State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 63.

Cited, State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 221.

A debt secured by mortgage is subject to taxation, although the mortgagee is indebted to an amount equal or exceeding the amount of his mortgage. Drexler v. Tyrrell, 15 Nev. 114; State v. Carson Savings Bank, 17 Nev. 146.

The taxing of money at interest secured by mortgage, when the property mortgaged is taxed, is not double taxation and is not in violation of the constitution. State v. Carson City Savings Bank, 17 Nev. 150, 151, 155 (30 P. 703).

The constitution declares that all money shall be taxed, except mines and other property for certain enumerated purposes. The legislature cannot exempt any taxable property not enumerated. Idem.

Cited, Barnes v. Woodbury, 17 Nev. 391 (30 P. 1068).

To constitute goods properly in a particular county, so as to make it legally assessable therein within the meaning of the revenue laws, it must be in such a situation as to make it a part of the wealth of that county; it must belong in it and be incorporated with the other property of the county. Idem. Robinson v. Longley, 18 Nev. 71.

By act of July 26, 1866, Congress delegated to the states and territories the right to tax the lands granted to railroad companies, though the latter had not paid the cost of surveying and selecting such lands. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 20 Nev. 372, 378, 379 (22 P. 237).

Unsurveyed public lands acquired under acts of Congress of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864, are exempted from taxation by this state. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 94 (25 P. 442).

A description of unsurveyed lands as certain odd-numbered sections "as their designation will appear when the surveys of the government are extended over them," is insufficient for their identification for taxation and is not such a description as is required by revenue laws. This principle applies equally when it is only the possessory claim to land that is assessed. Idem.

The law permits and the taxpayer has the right to pay the tax on subdivisions of his property without paying taxes on his entire property. Idem.

In an action to recover delinquent taxes and penalties an answer denying a possessory claim to the lands and stating facts showing that the rights claimed are untaxable, presents a good defense, although it does not deny all claim, title or interest in the property assessed. Idem.

It is the duty of the tax receiver to receive the full taxes on the least subdivisions entered on the assessment roll, when properly tendered, and to give his receipt therefor. Idem.

Since the act of Congress of July 10, 1886, the surveyed but unpatented lands within the grant to the C. P. R. R. are no longer exempt from taxation by reason of the government lien thereon for the costs of surveying, etc. The conditions contained in that act to the effect that the lien shall continue, and that the United States may become the preferred purchaser at any tax sale of such land control such sales, and there is no necessity for a legislative acceptance by the states of the conditions of the act. State v. C. P. R. R., 21 Nev. 247 (30 P. 686, 162 U. S. 512).

Congress having full control over the public domain, may make it subject to state taxation upon such conditions as are deemed proper, and then if so taxed, it must be one subject to those conditions. Idem.

The said act is a grant to the states of the right to tax lands in which the United States has such an interest as renders them exempt, and being beneficial, its acceptance by the grantee will be presumed. Idem.

The title or interest of the United States in public lands will not be affected where only the possessory claim to the land is assessed. Such assessment will only reach the taxpayer's interest in the land. Idem.

The possessory claim to public land which may be taxed as something separate or distinct from the title in fee is an actual possession, and not a constructive possession or a mere claim to the land. Mortgaging and leasing public land do not constitute actual possession thereof. Idem.

Where upon payment of taxes the statute requires the tax receiver to give a receipt, a tender of taxes is not rendered invalid because such receipt is demanded. Idem.

Former cases to the effect that surveyed lands within the Pacific railroad grants are subject to taxation, and that unsurveyed lands are not, followed. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260 (30 P. 689).

Ordinarily a single cause of action cannot be split up, and several actions brought upon it. This is a rule of the common law, which, however, may be changed by statute. In tax cases this change was made when the legislature provided that only certain defenses can be made to such actions, among which this defense is not included. Idem.

The right of taxation, inherent in every form of government, is vested in the legislature, and is unlimited in that body except as restrained by constitutional provisions. The legislature may fix the amount, the time and the manner of imposing taxes, and may regulate the processes by which they are to be collected. Idem.

See citation from this case under sec. 237, p. 66, ante.

The legislature has the power to provide that a former recovery shall not constitute a defense to an action to recover taxes. Idem.

In an issue as to appellant's liability to assessment for taxes on personal property in Nevada, which liability he seeks to avoid by a claim that he is a resident of another state, evidence that he escaped taxation in the latter state by declaring that his property was situated in Nevada is admissible as rebutting the presumption that he paid taxes on his personal property at the place of his claimed residence. Bowman v. Boyd, 21 Nev. 281 (30 P. 823).

National banks are only subject to taxation upon the shares of stock owned by the shareholders therein, and upon their real estate. Mortgages held by such banks are not subject to taxation. First Natl. Bank v. Kreig, 21 Nev. 404 (32 P. 641).

3622. "Real estate," "personal property" and "full cash value" defined.

SEC. 6. The term "real estate," when used in this act, shall be deemed and taken to mean and include, and it is hereby declared to mean and include all houses, buildings, fences, ditches, structures, erections, railroads, toll roads and bridges, or other improvements, built or erected upon any land, whether such land be private property, or property of the state or of the United States or of any municipal or other corporation, or of any county, city or town in this state, the ownership of, or claim to, or possession of, or right of possession to any lands within the state, and the claim by or the possession of any person, firm or corporation, association or company to any land, and the same shall be listed under the head of "Real Estate."

The term "personal property," whenever used in this act, shall be deemed and taken to mean, and it is hereby declared to mean and include all household and kitchen furniture, all law, medical and miscellaneous libraries, all goods, wares and merchandise, all chattels of every kind and description, all money on hand or on deposit in bank or banks, or with individuals, all moneys at interest, secured by mortgage or otherwise, gold dust, gold and silver bars, bullion, solvent debts, other than those mentioned in this section, when the amount exceeds the same character of indebtedness of the party assessed, stocks of goods on hand, horses, mules, oxen, calves, beef cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, jacks and jennies, and cattle of every description, wagons, carriages, buggies, omnibuses, stages, stage coaches, sulkies, carts, drays and all other vehicles, whether for use, pleasure or hire; also, all locomotives, cars, rolling stock and other personal property used in operating any railroad within the state; all machines and machinery, all works and improvements, all steamers, vessels and watercraft of every kind and name navigating or used upon the waters of any river or lake within this state, or having a general depot or terminus within this state; all capital loaned, invested or employed in trade, commerce or business whatsoever; the capital stock of all corporations (except the capital stock of corporations organized for mining purposes), companies, associations, ferries, or individuals doing business or having an office within this state; the money, property, and effects of every kind, except real estate, of all banks, banking institutions or firms, bankers, money lenders and brokers, and all property of whatever kind or nature not included in the term "real estate," as said term is defined in this act; provided, that gold and silver-bearing ores, quartz or minerals, from which gold or silver is extracted, when in the hands of the producers thereof, shall not mean, nor be taken to mean, nor be listed and assessed, under the term "personal property," as used in this section of this act, but are specially excepted therefrom, and shall be listed, assessed and taxed, as provided by law.

The term "full cash value" means the amount at which the property would be appraised if taken in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor.

Upon a review of the testimony it was held sufficient to show that the mortgage, sought by plaintiff to be foreclosed, was, at the request of the mortgagee, executed to a citizen of California for the sole purpose of preventing an assessment and evading the payment of taxes in this state upon the money at interest secured thereby. (Hawley, J. dissenting.) Drexler v. Tyrrell, 15 Nev. 114.

The mortgage in question, having been so executed at the instance and request of the mortgagee, was illegal and void. Idem.

The fact that the mortgagee afterwards paid the full amount of taxes upon the money at interest secured by the mortgage, is immaterial. The mortgage contract was void when executed, and proof that the state suffered no injury would not change the result. Idem.

A debt secured by a mortgage is subject to taxation, although the mortgagee is indebted to an amount equaling or exceeding the amount of his mortgage. Idem.

If a contract is illegal it will not be enforced by the courts in favor of the party at whose instance and for whose benefit it was entered into. Courts are as incapable of enforcing such contracts as if the act were prohibited in terms and a penalty imposed in case of violation. Idem.

It is the policy of the revenue laws that all property within the state, except such as is in terms exempted, shall be taxed; and any mortgage or contract entered into for the sole purpose of placing property, otherwise taxable, beyond the operation of the revenue law, is opposed to that policy, and therefore illegal. Idem.

Under this act as amended, mandamus lies to compel commissioners to consider a petition to reduce a tax levy, but not to control exercise of their discretion in making a levy within the limitations prescribed by statute, where some tax must be levied. *State ex rel. 3623. Commissioners to furnish books—Property assessed full cash value.

SEC. 7. The board of county commissioners of each county shall, prior to the first Monday of March of each year, cause to be prepared, suitable and well-bound books for the use of the assessor, in which the county assessor shall enter his tax-list and assessment roll, as hereinafter provided; and in which list and assessment roll shall be assessed and included all taxes levied by authority of law for county purposes. Said book shall contain suitable printed heads, and be ruled to conform with the form of the assessment roll, as provided by this act. All property must be assessed at its full cash value.

3624. Assessment by assessor—Penalties for neglect or refusal to make statement—Unknown owners, how rated.

SEC. 8. Between the date of the levy of taxes and the first Monday of September in each year, the county assessor, except when otherwise required by special enactment, shall ascertain, by diligent inquiry and examination, all property in his county, real or personal, subject to taxation, and also the names of all persons, corporations, associations, companies, or firms, owning the same; and he shall then determine the true cash value of all such property, and he shall then list and assess the same to the person, firm, corporation, association, or company, owing [owning] it. For the purpose of enabling the assessor to make such assessments, he shall demand from each person and firm, and from the president, cashier, treasurer, or managing agent of each corporation, association, or company, including all banking institutions, associations, or firms within his county, a statement under oath or affirmation of all the real estate or personal property within the county, owned or claimed by such persons, firm, corporation, association, or company. If any person, officer, or agent shall neglect, or refuse, on demand of the assessor or his deputy to give, under oath or affirmation, the statement required by this section, or shall give a false name, or shall refuse to give his or her name, or shall refuse to swear or affirm, he or she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be arrested upon complaint of the assessor, or his deputy, and upon conviction before a justice of the peace of the county, he or she shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not less than ten days nor more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. If the owners of any property not listed by another person shall be absent or unknown, or fail to make the statement under oath or affirmation, as herein provided, within five days after demand is made therefor, the assessor shall make an estimate of the value of such property and assess the same accordingly. If the name of such absent owner is known to the assessor the property shall be assessed in his or her name; if unknown to the assessor the property shall be assessed to unknown owners. It is hereby made the duty of the assessor, at the end of each month to report to the district or prosecuting attorney of the county the names of all persons neglecting or refusing to give the statement as required by this section of this act, and it is hereby made the duty of such district or prosecuting attorney to prosecute all persons so offending. As amended, Stats. 1893, 44.

The statute does not require a separate assessment or valuation of lands and improvements where both belong to the same owner; nor does it require the value per acre to be given. Where the land is described by its common designation or name, it is not necessary also to give the metes and bounds. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 48.

The rule of strict compliance with every form of law required in cases where property is sold for taxes without a judgment, is not applicable in suits for delinquent taxes in the courts where jurisdiction has once been acquired. Idem.

The cash value of a railroad is measured by the amount of cash required to procure it, provided its utility is commensurate with its cost, and the amount of cash required to procure a railroad is the necessary cost of its construction. Idem.

The provisions for a delinquent list are merely directory; the omission to comply with them does not avail the defendant in a tax suit. Idem.

The attorney-general is authorized to bring a suit for the collection of taxes due the state. Idem.

Neither the board of county commissioners nor the district attorney have any authority to make any compromise or composition with delinquent taxpayers or to release them from the payment of their taxes. Idem.

The provisions of this section are intended for the benefit of the state and not for that of the taxpayer; the assessor is not obliged to demand a sworn statement before making his assessment, and is not bound by it if delivered to him. Idem.

Where property is visible and open to inspection the assessor should exercise his own judgment in the valuation, and not be governed by the opinion of the taxpayer. Idem.

No court of equity will allow an injunction to issue to restrain the collection of a tax, except when actually necessary to protect the rights of citizens who have no plain, speedy and adequate remedy at law. Wells, Fargo & Co. v. Dayton, 11 Nev. 161, 166.

Before the injunction will be granted, it must appear that the enforcement of the tax would lead to a multiplicity of suits or produce irreparable injury, or if the property is real estate, throw a cloud upon the title of complainant, or there must be some allegation of fraud. Idem.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the assessor to make the assessment on petitioner's property in compliance with his demand on a particular day, though the petitioner alleged that the assessor had refused and could continue to refuse to make any assessment, the writ never being awarded in anticipation of a supposed omission of duty. Hardin v. Guthrie, 26 Nev. 246 (66 P. 744).

Mandamus will not lie to compel an assessor, after once making a valuation of property for the purpose of taxation, to make a revaluation, though the court finds the valuation fixed to be excessive. Idem.

Sworn statement should be received by assessor without dictation as to what value should be inserted, but, if he thinks it too low, it is his duty to raise it. State v. Wright, 4 Nev. 251; State v. W. U. Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

As the law requires an honest and just estimate of the value to be placed upon property for the purposes of taxation, an excessive valuation made by an assessor contrary to his official judgment and with intent to injure, is a fraud against which the law will afford relief. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 7 Nev. 99.

Failure to furnish statement—Exorbitant valuation. The fact that a taxpayer fails to make a statement as required by law, does not authorize the assessor to impose a valuation which he knows to be exorbitant and unjust. Idem.

In the absence of any statute upon the subject, the assessor, in specifying the value of assessable property, must be guided by those general principles which everywhere determine the valuation of property independent of any statutory rules. State v. C. P. R. R., 10 Nev. 47.

Home ranch. Held, that the situs of cattle, for the purpose of taxation, was at the home ranch, where they belonged. Idem.

Where cattle are bred, born, branded and raised in a certain county, their habitat is in such county, and they are assessable there, notwithstanding some of them occasionally wander into other counties, or are driven temporarily into other counties, and also notwithstanding the home ranch of their owner is situated in another county, and they are managed and controlled from such home ranch. State v. Shaw, 21 Nev. 222 (29 P. 321).

It is the duty of the assessor to assess all property at its true cash value, but if he errs in this respect the taxpayer's proper remedy is that designated by law, and he cannot avoid payment of his taxes on the ground that his property was valued at a higher rate than that of other persons similarly situated. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13 (23 P. 799).

In assessing property not taxable the assessor acts ministerially and not judicially, and is personally liable. Ford v. McGregor, 20 Nev. 446 (23 P. 508).

If an owner is dissatisfied with the valuation placed upon property, by the assessor, his remedy is by an application for reduction to the board of equalization. State v. Wright, 4 Nev. 251.

When obligation of taxpayer becomes fixed. When an assessment for taxes is made, and the board of equalization has acted thereon, an obligation immediately arises to pay the state the amount of taxes fixed; and it is idle to inquire into irregularities in the conduct of officers after the liability of the taxpayer is thus determined. State v. W. U. Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

3625. Assessor liable for taxes, when—Duties of auditor—Duties of district attorney—Neglect of assessor, how excused—Double taxes levied, when.

SEC. 9. The assessor and his sureties shall be, and they are hereby made liable for the taxes on all taxable property within the county, which is not assessed through the assessor's wilful or inexcusable neglect; and proof of the nonassessment of any taxable property within the county, shall be prima facie evidence of such neglect. It shall be the duty of the county auditor and county treasurer to inform the district attorney of the county of the nature and value of all property not assessed, naming the owner or owners thereof, whenever they, or either of them, shall know or have good reason to believe any property within the county has not been assessed according to law.

It shall be the duty of the district attorney of the several counties of this state, on the first Monday of January of each year, to report in writing to the board of county commissioners of his county, a list of all taxable property, real and personal in the county, unassessed, at which time the assessor of such county may appear, and by testimony under oath or other sworn proof, explain to the board the reason of such nonassessment. If, after hearing such proofs, the said board shall be satisfied that such nonassessment was excusable in the assessor, it shall cause an order to that effect to be entered upon the minutes, and if the said board shall be satisfied that any nonassessment was not excusable, then said board shall cause an order to that effect to be entered on its minutes, when it shall be the duty of the district attorney of such county to demand of the assessor thereof all the state and county taxes due and payable upon such property for the preceding year, and if the same shall not be paid by such assessor within ten days from such demand, then said district attorney shall forthwith commence an action in a court of competent jurisdiction against such assessor and his sureties, for the collection, in one suit, of all sums payable by such assessor as aforesaid; provided, however, if it can be proven that any nonassess-ment was caused by the refusal of the owner, agent or claimant of such property, or of the person or persons having it in possession or under his control or charge, to give a list of it to the assessor, the assessor shall not be liable; but the person or persons whose refusal to give the assessor such list (and whose duty it was under the law to give such list) caused the omission, shall pay double the amount of the taxes that would have been imposed upon the property had it been assessed.

The mere allegation of the insolvency of the assessor is not sufficient to authorize the court to grant an injunction to restrain the collection of a tax. Wells Fargo & Co. v. Dayton, 11 Nev. 161, 167.

3626. Lists under oath shall describe property.

SEC. 10. At the same time and in the same manner as other lists of property, herein required, are given, each and every person shall deliver, under oath or affirmation, to the assessor, a similar list of all real estate, with the improvements thereon, and all personal property which he, and the firm of which he is a member, and the corporation of which he is president, cashier, treasurer, secretary, trustee or managing agent, owns, claims or has the charge, possession or control of, in any other county of the state, which he does not, of his own personal knowledge, know has been assessed in such other county for that year, which list shall particularly describe each tract of land and each city or town lot contained therein (so that the same may be found or known by such description), and all vessels, steamers and other water craft, and shall also specify each and all deposits, if any, and persons with whom such deposit or deposits are made, and the places in which the same may be found, unless he shall have included all such money, gold dust, gold and silver bars and bullion in the list of property in his county, which it shall be lawful to do; and shall also specify the kind and nature of all other personal property in such county belonging to or under the charge, control or in the possession of him or them.

3627. Property in other counties—Assessor to report.

SEC. 11. Every assessor, as soon as he shall have received a list of any property in another county, under the foregoing section, shall make out from the list delivered to him a list for each county in which any such taxable property may be, and shall transmit the same, by mail or express, to the assessor of the proper county, who shall assess the same as other taxable property therein, if it has not been before assessed for the same year.

The placing of the monuments by the surveyor-general required by the act of 1887, 97, does not change the boundary from the line originally established by the counties jointly since said act does not authorize the establishment of new county lines or the changing of county lines already established. Humboldt Co. v. Lander Co., 24 Nev. 461 (56 P. 228).

The fact that for six years after the placing of the monument the county within whose limits the original boundary located the tract did not assess it, and acquiesced in its assessment by the other county, did not estop it from claiming the original line as the correct boundary, where it continued to assess all other property within the disputed tract. Idem.

3628. Property assessed in several counties.

SEC. 12. When real property is assessed by the county assessors of two counties on territory claimed by both, the owner of the real estate assessed is hereby authorized to pay said taxes in either county that he may select, and in case of suit being brought for the nonpayment of said taxes in the county in which said suit may be brought, the production of a tax receipt for the current year on said property, signed by the proper officer, although in an adjoining county claiming jurisdiction, of a date prior to the commencement of said action, shall entitle said taxpayer to a dismissal of said suit, free of cost.

Where two counties assessed the same real property, each claiming it to be within its limits, and the taxes were paid to the wrong county, they may be recovered from such county by the county within whose limits the property is situate. Humboldt Co. v. Lander Co., 24 Nev. 462 (56 P. 228).

3629. Property of partnership and incorporations—Estates of deceased persons, how assessed.

SEC. 13. The owner or holder of any stock, in any firm, incorporated company or association, the entire capital of which is invested in property which is assessed, or the capital of which is assessed, shall not be assessed individually for his stock in such company or association, nor shall any person having an interest in any partnership or firm be individually assessed for the partnership or firm property, if such property is assessed to the partnership or firm. The property of every firm, incorporated company or association shall be taxed in the county where the property is situated; provided, that whenever any portion of the property of any such company shall be assessed and taxed in the county wherein the same is located, then, upon presentation at the principal office of such company, of the certificate or receipt of the collector of said county, that such taxes have been paid in another county, the same shall be deducted at the principal office from the aggregate amount of taxes imposed upon, or paid by said company, for the same property, in the county wherein the principal office of said company is situated.

The undivided property of deceased and insane persons may be listed to the heirs, guardians, executors or administrators, as the case may be, and a payment of taxes made by either, shall bind all the parties in interest for their equal proportions. It is hereby made the duty of every district judge, from time to time, to direct each and every administrator, executor and guardian (which direction may be especially given in each case or by general order) to pay, out of the funds of the estate, all taxes that have attached or accrued against such estate after the passage of this act; and no order or decree, for the distribution of any property of any decedent among the heirs or devisees, shall be made until the taxes which have been attached to or accrued against the estate shall have been paid.

3630. Falsely listing property, perjury.

SEC. 14. If any person shall wilfully make or give, under oath or affirmation, a false list of his, her or their taxable property, under his or her control, such person shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished therefor as is by law provided for the punishment of perjury.

Two contiguous lots owned by the same individual may be jointly assessed and only one valuation fixed for the two lots. Idem.

Where an assessment is made of the value of a town lot, it implies the total value and not the mere value of a possessory claim. Idem.

An assessment of the gross value of government land makes it absolutely void. The second column in the assessor's table should distinctly state when only the possessory claim is assessed. Idem.

An assessment for taxes is not vitiated by the fact that the assessor omitted to demand a sworn statement. Idem.

When an assessment is made and the board of equalization has acted thereon, an obligation immediately arises to pay the amount of the taxes fixed. Idem.

In a suit for delinquent taxes it is sufficient on the part of the state to show a regular assessment, without being required to prove a delinquency. The only defenses that can be made to resist a judgment are affirmative, in their character and must be specially pleaded and affirmatively made out by the defendant. Idem.

A taxpayer is not in default until he has had an opportunity to pay his taxes; if there is no person authorized to receive the taxes until the delinquent list goes into the hands of the district attorney, the taxpayer on receiving notice of that fact ought to be allowed to pay the tax without any penalty being imposed. Idem.

A slight error in the name of the taxpayer made by the assessor, when the property is correctly described and the owner is not misled by the name, will not avoid the owner's liability for the taxes, provided he can be identified by competent testimony. State v. D. V. L. & L. Co., 21 Nev. 90 (25 P. 448).

It is the duty of a taxpayer to call the attention of the assessor to any error or mistake appearing upon the face of the statement, which he observes, and if he fails to do so, he will not be permitted to take advantage of his own wrong. Idem.

If a taxpayer or his agent fails or refuses to swear to the statement made by the assessor of his taxable property or give the assessor his list of taxable property under oath the board of equalization is prohibited from reducing the assessor's valuation and the taxpayer cannot question such valuation. Idem.

3632. Assessors to prepare list—Cost of printing.

SEC. 16. It shall be the duty of the assessor in each of the respective counties of the state on or before the second Monday in September in each year to prepare a printed list of all the taxpayers in the county and the total valuation of property on which they severally pay taxes. A copy of said list shall be by the said assessor delivered in person or mailed to each and every taxpayer in the county; provided, that the cost of printing the aforesaid list shall not exceed twenty cents for each name for as many copies as there are names on the list. The several boards of county commissioners in the state are authorized and empowered to allow the bill contracted by the assessor under this section, and the several county auditors are authorized to draw their warrants in payment for the same. As amended, Stats. 1893, 45.

3633. Assessment roll—Property described and listed.

SEC. 17. It shall be the duty of the assessor to prepare a tax-list, or assessment roll, indexed or alphabetically arranged, in the book or books furnished by the board of county commissioners for that purpose, in which book or books shall be listed all the real estate, improvements on real estate, including improvements on public lands and other personal property within the limits of the county, and in said book or books there shall be set down in separate columns:

First—The names of the taxable inhabitants, firms, incorporated companies, or associations, in alphabetical order, if known; if unknown, the property shall be assessed to unknown owners, and if any person shall refuse to make a statement of his property under oath, as required by this act, that fact shall be noted under his name.

Second—All real estate, including the ownership or claims to, or possession of, or right of possession to any land and improvements, taxable to each inhabitant, firm, incorporated company, or association, described by metes and bounds, or by common designation or name, if situated within the limits of any city or incorporated town, described by lots or fraction of lots; if without said limits, giving the number of acres, as near as can be conveniently ascertained, and the location and township where situated; all improvements on public lands, describing as nearly as possible the location of said improvements; provided, that when two or more parties claim, by description, the same land, it shall be assessed to each party making such claim or giving such description, according to the estimated value of the claims of each.

Third—The cash value of real estate, including the possessory claim to lands and the improvements thereon.

Fourth—The cash value of all improvements on real estate, including possessory claims, where the same is assessed to a person other than the owner of said real estate.

Fifth—The cash value of all personal property except improvements on real estate or on public lands, taxable to each and exclusive of money and solvent debts.

Sixth—Amount of money and solvent debts.

Seventh—The total value of all property taxable to each. And no further description of personal property than that required by the foregoing provisions of this section shall be needed or requisite to render the assessment binding and effective. The form of the assessment roll shall be substantially as follows:

When tax paid	Real estate.	Number of acres
Taxpayer's name	Section
Description of property	Number of lot
	Number of block

3634. Assessor to prepare map.

SEC. 18. The assessor shall also, when directed by the board of county commissioners, in a book, make a map or plan of the various blocks within any incorporated city or town, and shall mark thereon the various subdivisions, as they are assessed; and in such subdivision he shall mark the names of persons to whom it is assessed.

3635. Completion of assessment roll—Oath of assessor.

SEC. 19. On or before the second Monday of September in each year the assessor shall complete his tax-list or assessment roll, and he or his deputy, as the case may be, shall take and subscribe to an affidavit written therein to the effect that he has made diligent inquiry and examination to ascertain all the property within the county subject to taxation, and that he has assessed it on the assessment roll equally and uniformly, according to the best of his judgment, information and belief, at its full cash value; but the failure to take or subscribe to such affidavit shall not in any manner affect the validity of any assessment contained in said assessment roll. As amended, Stats. 1893, 46.

Certificate of assessor to assessment roll. There is no particular form required for the certificate of the assessment roll, nor does it have to be a sworn certificate. State v. W. U. Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

The assessor has no authority to alter the assessment roll after it has passed out of his hands, not even to correct a mistake. State v. Manhattan S. M. Co., 4 Nev. 318.

Under the provisions of sections 17 and 19, it is the duty of the assessor, on or before the first Monday of September of each year, to complete the assessment roll, which must contain a list of all the property in the county, real and personal, subject to taxation. In the absence of a showing to the contrary, it will be presumed that the assessor obeyed the law, in this respect, and that the property in question was properly listed upon the assessment roll. State v. Meyers, 23 Nev. 274.

The provision of the statute as to the time for completing the assessment roll is merely directory, and any irregularity in that respect is a defense in an action for the taxes only to the extent that the taxpayer has been injured thereby. State v. Northern Belle M. & M. Co., 15 Nev. 385.

The time described by this section within which the assessor is to complete his assessment roll, is only for the convenience of other officers; if the assessor is dilatory he may render himself liable on his bond, but his dilatoriness furnishes no matter of which a taxpayer can complain or on account of which he can defeat the tax. State v. W. U. T. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

3636. Notice of meeting of board of equalization.

SEC. 20. As soon as completed, the assessment roll, together with the map book, and all statements made by taxpayers, shall be delivered to the clerk of the board of county commissioners, who shall immediately give notice thereof, and of the time the board of equalization will meet to equalize assessments, by publication in one newspaper, if any be printed in the county, and if none, then in such manner as the board of county commissioners shall direct; and in the meantime the assessment roll shall remain in the office of said clerk for public inspection.

The notices prescribed to be given of the fact that the assessment roll is in the hands of the clerk of the board of county commissioners and of the time of the meeting of the board as the board of equalization, are only to enable parties to appear and contest the accuracy of the assessment; so that if a party appear before the board, he cannot complain of the want of notice, or that no notice was given as required by law. State v. W. U. T. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

3637. Basis of taxation.

SEC. 21. The assessment made by the county assessors, as apportioned by the boards of county commissioners, shall be the only basis of taxation for city, town, school, road, or other districts, in their respective counties. As amended, Stats. 1893, 47.

[Sec. 22 repealed, Stats. 1893, 47.] .

Limitation of tax rate for town and city purposes, see secs. 975-983.

3638. Board of equalization—Rights of taxpayer when valuation has been added.

SEC. 23. The board of county commissioners of each county shall constitute a board of equalization, of which board the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall be clerk. The board of equalization of each county shall meet on the third Monday in September in each year, and shall continue in session from time to time until the business of equalization presented to them is disposed of; provided, however, that they shall not sit after the first Monday of October, except as in this section provided. The board shall have power to determine the valuation of any property assessed, and may change and correct any valuation, either by adding thereto or deducting therefrom, such sum as shall be necessary to make it conform to the actual cash value of the property assessed, whether said valuation was fixed by the owner or assessor; except that in case where the person complaining of the assessment has refused to give the assessor his list under oath, as required by this act, no reduction shall be made by the board in the assessment made by the assessor. If the board find it necessary to add to the assessed valuation of any property on the assessment roll, they shall direct the clerk to give notice to the person so interested, by letter deposited in the postoffice or express, or otherwise, naming the day when they shall act in that case, and allowing a reasonable time to appear. As soon as possible after the adjournment of the board in September its clerks shall make out a list of all persons who have not appeared before the board, the valuation of whose property has been added to on the assessment roll, and shall state the amount so added, and list of all property, the valuation on which has been added to on the assessment roll, with the amounts so added, the owners of which have not appeared before the board; and the board of county commissioners shall cause the same to be published in one newspaper in the county, if there be any, and if not, then by posting one copy of the same in a public place in each election precinct in the county, and any person, to the assessed value of whose property there was an amount added, not appearing before the board of equalization in September, may appear before it in October, and upon making affidavit that he had no knowledge of such increased valuation of his property, he shall be given a hearing and the final judgment of the board, and the clerk of the board shall note all changes made and report the same to the auditor, who shall make the changes required on the original assessment roll. The assessor, either in person or by deputy, shall be present, also any deputy whose testimony may be required by the parties appealing to the board, and they shall have the right to make any statement touching such assessment and to produce evidence relating to questions before the board. The recorder of the county shall be also present and attend on the board with an abstract of all unsatisfied mortgages and liens remaining on record in his office, arranged in alphabetical order, for which service he shall receive no compensation, and the board of equalization shall make use of such abstract and of all other information that they can procure from the recorder in the recorder's office or otherwise in equalizing the assessment roll of the county, and may require the assessor to enter upon such assessment roll any mortgage or lien or other property which has not been assessed, and the assessment and equalization so made shall have the same force and effect as if made by the assessor before the delivery of the assessment roll by him to the clerk of the board of county commissioners. On the second Monday in October the board of county commissioners shall meet as a board of equalization to equalize the assessment roll and hear complaints in the excepted cases mentioned in this section. As amended, Stats. 1893, 47.

Equalization, proceeds of mines, sec. 3693.

Property assessed by state board of county assessors cannot be equalized by county board of equalization, sec. 3797.

See sec. 3844, live stock.

The board of equalization has no power to reduce an assessment when the person complaining has refused to give the assessor a statement under oath of his property. State v. Washoe Co., 5 Nev. 317, 318, 321.

Cited, V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Comrs. of Ormsby Co., 5 Nev. 347.

The board of equalization is of special and limited jurisdiction and its record must show affirmatively the necessary jurisdictional facts. State v. Washoe Co., 5 Nev. 317, 319.

Where a railroad company failed to furnish a proper statement of its taxable property within the time prescribed by law, and in default thereof the assessor placed a valuation thereon which the board of equalization thereafter reduced, it was held that the action of the board was unauthorized and should be annulled. State ex rel. Thompson v. Washoe Co., 7 Nev. 83.

If the board of equalization acts without jurisdiction in raising an assessment, that is a good defense pro tanto in any suit for the tax, and in such case the writ of certiorari ought not to be issued to review the action of the board. State ex rel. Lake v. Washoe Co., 14 Nev. 140, 143.

The law does not require that a written complaint shall be filed in order to authorize the board of equalization to raise an assessment. Idem.

The law requiring a list of persons, the valuation of whose property has been raised by the board of equalization, is merely directory. It is not a defense in a tax suit unless it has actually injured the defendant. Idem.

Cited, State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 17 Nev. 271 (30 P. 887).

It is the duty of the assessor to assess all property at its true cash value, but if he errs in this respect the taxpayer's proper remedy is that designated by this section, and he cannot avoid payment of his taxes on the ground that his property was valued at a higher rate than that of other persons similarly situated. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13, 16, 17 (23 P. 799).

An allegation that the property was assessed "in an amount greatly in excess of that authorized by law," is not sufficient to raise any issue as to the true cash value of the property, and to raise such issue such value should be alleged. Idem.

An allegation that defendant made application to the board of equalization for a reduction of his assessment must include the averment that the sworn statement was furnished to the assessor or that no demand for it was made, in order to constitute a defense to an action for the taxes. Idem.

The dollar mark placed at the head of columns of figures is sufficient and need not be repeated before each item. Idem.

The acts required of officers "between the assessment and commencement of suit" are merely directory, and their omission will not release the taxpayer from his obligation to the state. Idem.

Cited, State v. D. V. L. S. & L. Co., 21 Nev. 93 (25 P. 448).

A board of equalization is of special and limited jurisdiction, having only such powers as are specially conferred upon it. The statute confers upon it the power to determine all complaints concerning the assessment of property, but after the determination of such complaints its action is final and it has no power to reconsider and change its action. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 172 (26 P. 225).

In the absence of fraud, the statute makes the action of a board of equalization in equalizing the valuation of property final, and an allegation of fraud upon the part of the assessor in fixing values, when it is not claimed that the board of equalization acted fraudulently in confirming the assessor's valuation, is no ground for disturbing the valuation. Idem.

Boards of equalization can only exercise such powers as are expressly granted, and when the law prescribes the mode which they must pursue in the exercise of those powers, it excludes all other modes of procedure. State v. C. P. R. R., 21 Nev. 270 (30 P. 693).

Boards of equalization are not required to remain in continuous session during the time fixed for hearing complaints against the assessor's valuation, unless there is business before them to transact. Idem.

When a board of equalization meets on the day fixed by law and, there being no business before it, adjourns to a day subsequent to the last day fixed by law for hearing complaints, its powers cease for the remainder of the year, except to examine the particular cases designated by the statute. Idem.

Under this section, the board has power and jurisdiction to equalize all property without qualification or condition. State v. Meyers, 23 Nev. 274 (46 P. 512).

An agreed statement that the assessor made a uniform and equal valuation of the kind, character and species of merchandise to which defendant's belonged does not show that the valuation of defendant's property, as made by the assessor, was uniform with other kinds of personal property on the assessment roll, or that it was not equalized by the board at its true cash value, and is therefore insufficient to show that the raised valuation made by the board was unjust. Idem.

It is not necessary that a complaint be made to give the board jurisdiction of the subject. Idem.

The board of equalization has no authority to make an original assessment, or to assess property to a person who is not shown to be the owner of it. State v. Ernst, 26 Nev. 113 (65 P. 7).

This section providing for the publication of notice of the increased valuation of taxable property by board of equalization is merely directory. State v. C. & C. R. R. Co., 29 Nev. 487 (81 P. 932).

Under the rule that a finding supported by evidence will not be disturbed, the trial court's findings in a tax suit that the property taxed was defendant's and that proper notices were given a railroad company of an increased valuation of its property is conclusive. Idem.

A complaint made by any person to the board of equalization, orally or in writing, that an assessment is too high or too low, and asking that it be reduced or raised, is sufficient to authorize the board to act. State v. Northern Belle M. Co., 12 Nev. 89, 93.

If the complaint is of undervaluation, the board must give reasonable notice to the party assessed when it will act upon the complaint. Idem.

The board of county commissioners have no power to compromise and settle suits instituted by the state for the collection of delinquent taxes. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 9 Nev. 79.

Boards of county commissioners are inferior tribunals of special and limited jurisdiction, and their action must affirmatively appear to be in conformity with some provision of law giving them power or it will be without authority. Idem.

The only authority giving county commissioners power to reduce or in any manner change taxes as assessed is vested in them as boards of equalization; and when acting in that capacity they must comply literally with the plain provisions of the statute. Idem.

When taxes are levied they become a lien, and when the board of equalization has acted an obligation immediately arises on the part of the party taxed to pay the state the amount due; and thereafter county commissioners can neither release the property from the lien nor discharge the party from his obligation. Idem.

County commissioners have no power to discriminate as to the character of the property which should be subject to taxation. That is a question for the legislature, subject to the provisions of the constitution. State v. Gracey, 11 Nev. 223.

When a railroad company claims that its taxes, as assessed by the county assessor, SEC. 24. A quorum of the board of county commissioners shall be sufficient to constitute the board of equalization, and a majority of the members present shall determine the action of the board.

3640. Clerk to enter changes.

SEC. 26. During the session, or within five days after the adjournment of the board of equalization, its clerk shall enter upon the assessment roll all the changes and corrections made by the board, and shall immediately deliver said corrected roll, with his certificate attached, to the county auditor. As amended, Stats. 1893, 48.

Where a county board of equalization illegally reduced the assessments for revenue purposes on the proceeds of mines, and the county auditor extended on the assessment roll the assessment so reduced, it was held that he and his sureties were not liable as for a breach of official duty. State v. Fish, 4 Nev. 216.

A suit against a county auditor on his official bond is not the way to remedy wrongful acts of a county board of equalization in illegally reducing assessments for taxes. Idem.

The county board of equalization being authorized to equalize taxes, if they make 3641. Auditor to add up tax roll.

SEC. 27. The county auditor, as soon as the assessment roll is delivered to him by the clerk of the board of equalization, shall proceed to add up the valuations and to enter the total valuation of each kind of property and the total valuation of all property on the assessment roll, and he shall, on or before the fourth Monday in October [first Monday in November, see sec. 3795] of each year, deliver the same to the ex officio tax receiver, with his certificate attached, together with the maps or plat book. As amended, Stats. 1893, 48.

See, also, sec. 3794.

[Secs. 28 and 29 repealed, Stats. 1893, 48.]

Though this section is seemingly in conflict with the statute directing the auditors to place the changes on the rolls, it being the latest expression of the legislative will, it is proper for the clerks to enter the changes. State v. C. & C. R. R. Co., 29 Nev. 488, 505 (91 P. 932).

The law does not require an equalization of any assessment roll unless someone complains of injustice in the assessment; so that a party assessed, who has not complained of an injustice, cannot object that the assessment was never equalized. Idem.

3642. Auditor to charge tax receiver with amount of taxes.

SEC. 30. On delivering the assessment roll to the ex officio tax receiver, the auditor shall charge him with the full amount of the taxes levied, and he shall forthwith transmit by mail to the state controller a statement showing the assessed valuation of all property in the county and the amount of taxes levied thereon for state and county purposes.

3643. County treasurers to be tax receivers.

SEC. 31. The several county treasurers of this state shall be ex officio tax receivers, under the provisions of this act, for their several counties, and they shall receive all taxes on real and personal property and receipt for the same.

Cited, Humboldt Co. v. Lander Co., under sec. 12; Sawyer v. Dooley, 21 Nev. 394 (32 P. 437).

3644. Notice to taxpayers, how given—Taxes delinquent.

SEC. 32. Upon receiving the assessment roll from the auditor, the ex officio tax receiver shall proceed to receive the taxes, and shall forthwith give notice by publication in some newspaper published in his county, and if none be so published, then by posting notices in three public and conspicuous places in the county, that taxes will be delinquent on the first Monday in December, and that unless paid prior thereto ten per cent will be added to the amount thereof; and he shall forward by mail a postal card to each taxpayer whose residence is outside of the county-seat, if the postoffice address of such taxpayer is known to him, notifying him or them of the amount due.

Taxes may be paid in two equal installments on or before first Mondays of December and June, secs. 3864-3866.

Cited, State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 24 Nev. 87 (49 P. 945).

3645. Duties of tax receiver when tax is paid.

SEC. 33. Whenever any tax is paid to the ex officio tax receiver he shall mark the word "paid" and the date of payment in the assessment roll opposite the name of the person or description of the property liable for such taxes, and shall give a receipt therefor, specifying the amount of the assessment and the amount of the tax and a description of the property assessed. But no ex officio tax receiver shall receive any taxes for any portion less than the least subdivision entered upon the assessment roll; provided, always, that an owner of undivided real estate may pay the proportion of taxes due on his interest therein.

The law permits and the taxpayer has a right to pay the tax on subdivisions of his property without paying the taxes upon his entire property. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 94, 100 (25 P. 442).

It is the duty of the tax receiver to receive the full taxes on the least subdivisions entered on the assessment roll, when properly tendered, and to give his receipt therefor. When a public officer has been clothed by statute with power to do an act which concerns the rights of third persons, the execution of the power may be insisted on, though the phraseology of the statute be permissive merely, and not peremptory. Idem.

Cited, State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 260 (30 P. 686), affirmed, 162 U. S. 512.

3646. Taxes delinquent—Delinquent tax list—Notice to be given.

SEC. 34. On the first Monday in December the ex officio tax receiver, at the close of his official business on that day, shall enter upon the assessment roll a statement that he has made a levy upon all the property therein assessed, the taxes upon which have not been paid, and shall immediately ascertain the total amount of taxes then delinquent, and file in the office of the auditor the list of all persons, and property then owing taxes, verified by oath of himself or deputy, which shall be completed by the second Monday in December and shall be known as the delinquent list; and the auditor shall immediately cause said list to be published in at least one newspaper in his county for not less than one nor more than four weeks, and if no newspaper be published in the county, then a copy thereof shall be posted by the auditor in at least five conspicuous places within the county; provided, that the cost of publication in each case shall be charged to the delinquent taxpayer and shall, in no case, be a charge against the state or county; and provided, further, that such publication shall be made at not more than legal rates.

See secs. 3862, 3863.

The provisions of the statute for a delinquent list are merely directory; the omissions to comply with them do not avail the defendant in a tax suit. State v. C. P. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47.

An objection to the introduction of the delinquent tax roll in evidence, on the ground that it is not properly verified by the county treasurer, is immaterial, when the defendant, after his objection is overruled, cured the error, if any existed, by introducing the original assessment roll, which gives the true assessment of his property. There is no necessity of proving a delinquency, as it is the duty of the taxpayer, when his assessment is once properly made, to seek the proper officer and pay his taxes. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13 (23 P. 799).

The dollar mark placed at the head of columns of figures is sufficient and need not be repeated before each item. Idem.

The acts required of officers "between the assessment and commencement of suit" are directory merely, and their omission will not release the taxpayer from his obligation to the state. Idem.

State v. Eureka Con. M. Co., 8 Nev. 15; State v. Northern Belle M. Co., 15 Nev. 385.

The original list which the tax receiver is required to file in the office of the auditor, is admissible without the certificate of the auditor which is required when a copy is issued. State v. N. C. R. R. Co., 26 Nev. 357 (68 P. 294).

3647. Money, how and when apportioned.

SEC. 35. The county treasurer shall, on Monday in each week, apportion all the money that shall have come into his hands, as ex officio tax receiver, during the preceding week into the several funds, as provided by law, and shall make out a statement, under oath, of the same, and transmit said statement to the auditor, to be by him filed in his office.

Cited, State ex rel. Drake v. Hobart, 12 Nev. 413.

3648. Assessment roll turned over, when and how.

SEC. 36. On the second Monday in December in each year, the ex officio tax receiver shall attend at the office of the county auditor with the assessment roll, and the auditor shall then and there administer to the ex officio tax receiver an oath, which shall be written and subscribed on the assessment roll, to the effect that each person and all property assessed in said roll on which taxes have been paid to him has the word "paid" marked opposite the name of such person, or the description of such property, and the auditor shall then foot up the amount of taxes remaining unpaid, and shall make a final settlement with the ex officio tax receiver of all taxes charged against him on account of said assessment roll.

3649. Delinquent list sent to controller.

SEC. 37. Within ten days after such final settlement, the auditor shall transmit, by mail or otherwise, to the state controller a statement, in such form as the controller may require, of all and each particular kind of property delinquent, and the total amount of delinquent taxes.

3650. Neglect of treasurer, penalty—Duty of district attorney.

SEC. 38. If any treasurer and ex officio tax receiver shall refuse, for a period of five days, or wilfully neglect to make the settlement with, and statement to the auditor of his county, as in this act required, he and his sureties shall be liable to pay the full amount of taxes charged upon the assessment roll, and the district or prosecuting attorney, of his own volition, or on being instructed to do so by the state controller or the board of county commissioners, shall cause suit to be brought against said treasurer and ex officio tax receiver and his sureties for the full amount due on the auditor's books. And if such suit is commenced, no credit or allowance whatever shall be made to such refusing or neglecting treasurer and ex officio tax receiver for the taxes outstanding.

Cited, Thorpe v. Schooling, 7 Nev. 15.

3651. When notice of sale given and what to specify—Redemption—Civil practice act applicable.

SEC. 39. Immediately after the second Monday in December of each year, the county treasurer and ex officio tax receiver shall advertise the property, upon which delinquent taxes are a lien, for sale, in all cases where the delinquent tax, exclusive of poll taxes and penalties, does not exceed the sum of three hundred dollars, such sale to be made at the court-house door of the county, on the third Monday in January next succeeding. Such notice shall be published in a newspaper, if there be one in the county, at least once a week from the date thereof until the time of sale, and if there be no newspaper in the county, such notice shall be posted in at least three public places in each township where delinquent property is situated, such posting to be at least twenty days prior to the day of sale; provided, that the cost of such publication shall not exceed two dollars for each or any case of delinquency. Such notice shall specify and give:

First—The name of the owner, if known.

Second—The amount of taxes due from him, together with the penalty and costs.

Third—The description of the property on which such taxes are a lien and which will be sold for the payment thereof.

Fourth—And that ten per cent on such taxes and costs of advertising will be collected in addition to the original tax, or the property sold for all of said sums, specifying the time and place of said sale, and that such sale is subject to redemption within six months after the date of sale by payment of all of said sums with three per cent per month thereon from date of sale until paid; provided, that such redemption may be made in accordance with the provisions of the civil practice act of this state in regard to real property sold under execution, except as to percentage of redemption as in this section provided. The bidding at tax sales under the provisions of this section shall be for the smallest quantity of property that will pay the taxes, penalty and costs.

Redemption of property sold under execution, see sec. 5300, et seq.

See sec. 3865.

The power of taxation carries with it the right and power of collecting taxes by summary process. Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 283.

The summary process provided by statute for the sale of property for delinquent taxes amounting to less than three hundred dollars does not deprive a person of property without due process of law. Sawyer v. Dooley, 21 Nev. 390 (32 P. 437).

Such summary proceedings do not deprive a person owing less than three hundred dollars of the equal protection of the laws; although, where the amount is more than that sum, there must be a regular action in court for its collection. This is only a reasonable exercise by the legislature of the right to classify the taxpayers. Idem.

One taxpayer cannot be allowed to escape payment of his taxes because the collector has improperly failed to collect from another from whom taxes are due. State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 173.

A taxpayer is not in default until he has an opportunity to pay the taxes assessed against him. State v. W. U. Tel. Co., 4 Nev. 338.

3652. What certificate of sale shall recite—Treasurer may buy.

SEC. 40. After receiving the amount of taxes, penalty and costs, the treasurer shall make out in duplicate a certificate, dated on the day of sale, stating (when known) the name of the person assessed, a description of the land sold, the amount paid therefor, that it was sold for taxes, giving the amount and year of the assessment, and specifying the time when the purchaser will be entitled to a deed, if the land is not sooner redeemed; provided, that if no one else shall bid upon any piece of land at such sale, the treasurer shall bid the same in for the benefit of the county and state, and file a certificate thereof with the county recorder; and the same shall be subject to redemption from the treasurer the same as from a private purchaser; and if not redeemed, the title thereto shall vest in the county for the benefit of the county and state, and may be disposed of as provided by law. One of the duplicate certificates of sale issued by the treasurer, in case of a private purchaser, shall be filed in the office of the county recorder.

Sale of property acquired by county, see secs. 3667, 3670, 3767.

Where property is sold for taxes in a summary manner, without any regular proceedings in a court of justice, it is essential that all the requirements of the law should be strictly complied with. Ward v. Carson River W. Co., 13 Nev. 44.

The sale of property acquired by the county, the assessed value whereof is $100 or more, can be made only by the board of county commissioners at public auction after 30 days' previous published notice. Lyon Co. v. Ross, 24 Nev. 102, 109, 110 (36 P. 1).

The title to property bid in by the treasurer for the benefit of the county and state at a tax sale for delinquent taxes, upon the expiration of the right of redemption, vests absolutely in the county. Idem.

The restrictive provisions of the statute, requiring sales of property belonging to a county by the commissioners to be at public auction with previous notice, were inserted for the protection of the general public and were intended to guard against favoritism, fraud and corruption in the sale of public property. Idem.

3653. Treasurer's deed to recite what—Fee of clerk.

SEC. 41. If the property is not redeemed within the time allowed by law for its redemption, the treasurer, or his successor in office, must make to the purchaser, or his assignee, a deed of the property, reciting in the deed substantially the matters contained in the certificate of sale, and that no person has redeemed the property during the time allowed for its redemption. The treasurer shall be allowed a fee of three dollars for making such deed, which, together with the cost of acknowledging the same, shall be paid by the purchaser; provided, that when the deed is made to the county as the purchaser, the treasurer shall make the deed and the county clerk shall take the acknowledgment without charge.

3654. Delinquents may pay, when and how—Penalty added.

SEC. 42. At any time after the second Monday of December and before the institution of suit, as in this act provided, where the amount of taxes exceeds three hundred dollars, and before the sale of property where the amount of taxes does not exceed three hundred dollars, any delinquent taxpayer, upon a certificate from the auditor giving a description of the property and the taxes thereon, may pay to the ex officio tax receiver the taxes assessed against said delinquent, with ten per centum addition by way of penalty thereon, taking from the ex officio tax receiver duplicate receipts for the amount paid, one of which shall be filed with the county auditor and the other, in cases where the amount of taxes, exclusive of the penalty for delinquency and exclusive of poll tax, exceeds three hundred dollars, shall be filed with the district or prosecuting attorney of the county.

The penalty for delinquency follows the tax; five-thirteenthths of the penalty belongs to the state and eight-thirteenthths to the county. State ex rel. Hobart v. Huffaker, 11 Nev. 300, 303.

The percentum penalty imposed by this section does not apply to suits brought for the collection of delinquent taxes on the proceeds of mines. State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 203, 217, 220-223.

3655. District attorney not to begin suit, when.

SEC. 43. After having been served by any person with the duplicate tax receipt of the ex officio tax receiver for the total amount of taxes due from such person or upon a piece of property, with ten per centum additional, the district or prosecuting attorney shall not commence the suit authorized by this act against such person or property; provided, that if any person shall fail to serve said receipt, said person shall pay all costs that may result from his or her negligence.

3656. Disposal of penalty.

SEC. 44. The additional ten per centum herein provided for shall be paid into the county treasury for the use of the county.

3657. Duties of auditor when tax exceeds three hundred dollars—Notice, how given.

SEC. 45. The auditor shall, within three days after receiving the delinquent list, make out and deliver to the district and prosecuting attorney of his county, a list duly certified to by him of all delinquencies, where the delinquent tax, exclusive of poll taxes and penalties, exceeds the sum of three hundred dollars, charging him therewith, and shall at the same time give notice by publication in some newspaper in the county, if there be any, and if not, then by posting notices in three public places in the county, that the said list has been deposited with the district or prosecuting attorney, and that unless the delinquent taxes therein specified are paid to the treasurer, as ex officio tax receiver, within twenty days from the publication or posting of such notices, action will be commenced by the district or prosecuting attorney for the collection of said taxes and costs. The auditor shall make, or procure and file with the district or prosecuting attorney, an affidavit stating the contents of said notice and the manner and time of such publication or posting as required by this section.

3658. Additional bonds of district attorney—Delinquent list evidence.

SEC. 46. The district or prosecuting attorney, before receiving the delinquent list, as provided in the preceding section, shall enter into such additional bonds as may be required by the board of county commissioners. The said delinquent list, or a copy thereof, certified by the county auditor, and showing unpaid taxes against any person or property, shall be prima facie evidence in any court to prove the assessment, property assessed, the delinquency, the amount of taxes due and unpaid, and that all the forms of law in relation to the assessment and levy of such taxes have been complied with.

Where, in an action to collect delinquent taxes, the state has put in evidence the delinquent tax list, it need not prove that the board of county commissioners had authority to levy the tax or introduce evidence of such levy, it being incumbent on the defendant in order to successfully attack the levy to introduce the proceedings of the board making it and specifically point out its illegal features and fatal defects. State v. N. C. R. R. Co., 26 Nev. 358 (68 P. 294).

3659. Suit for delinquent taxes may be begun, when—Jurisdiction of court.

SEC. 47. The district or prosecuting attorneys of the several counties of this state are hereby authorized and directed, immediately after the time specified in section 45 of this act, to commence action in the name of the State of Nevada against the person or persons so delinquent, and against the real estate and improvements assessed so delinquent, and against all owners known or unknown, to recover such delinquent taxes in all cases where the delinquency, exclusive of poll tax and penalties, exceeds the sum of three hundred dollars. Such actions may be commenced in the county where the assessment is made, before any court in said county having jurisdiction of the amount thereof, and such jurisdiction shall be determined solely by the amount of delinquent taxes, exclusive of poll taxes and penalties sued for, without regard to the location of the lands or other property as to townships, cities, or districts, and without regard to the residence of the person or persons, or owner or owners, known or unknown.

3660. Costs and penalties.

SEC. 48. In all suits brought for the collection of delinquent taxes, as provided for in the preceding section, the complaint and summons shall demand, and the judgment shall be entered for twenty-five per centum in addition to the tax of ten per centum thereon and costs; and such tax, penalty and costs shall not be discharged, nor shall the judgment therefor be satisfied except by the payment of the tax, original penalty, costs, and the additional penalty herein prescribed in full.

Neither the board of county commissioners nor the district attorney have any authority to make any compromise or composition with delinquent taxpayers, or to release them from the payment of their Taxes due the state on the proceeds of mines for the different quarters of each year cannot be united in the same cause of action. Every quarterly or yearly tax constitutes a separate and independent liability. (Beatty, C. J., dissenting.) Idem.

Taxes are not debts in the sense that they are obligations or liabilities arising out of contracts express or implied. They are the enforced proportional contribution of each citizen and of his estate, levied by the authority of the state for the support of the government. They owe their existence to the action of the legislature, and do not depend for their validity or enforcement upon the individual assent of the taxpayer, but operate in invitum. (Beatty, C. J., dissenting.) Idem.

In a suit for delinquent taxes and penalties, the attorneys for the state consented to withdraw the claim for penalties from the consideration of the court, and take judgment for the amount of the tax. The judgment was so entered. This was held error. It was the duty of the court to include the amount of the penalties in its judgment. State v. Cal. M. Co., 15 Nev. 234.

Neither the district attorney, nor any of the state officers, are clothed with any authority to give consent to a judgment for delinquent taxes, without including the penalties. Idem.

As no consent could be given to the entry of the judgment, an appeal lies, in favor of the state, from the same. Idem.

The district attorney has no power to stipulate that, in consideration of a payment of a tax and costs, if a judgment appealed from should be affirmed as to the penalty, or any part thereof, then a stay of execution until a certain day would be granted. State v. Cal. M. Co., 15 Nev. 308.

taxes. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47.

The complaint in this action shows that an action was commenced by the state to recover the delinquent taxes and penalties due on the proceeds of defendant's mine, and thereafter, while said suit was pending and undetermined, the plaintiff, at the instance and by the consent of the defendant, in open court withdrew from the consideration of the court the question of plaintiff's right to recover the penalties in addition to said tax, without prejudice to plaintiff's right to bring an action for said penalties; that thereafter plaintiff brought this suit to recover said penalties: Held, upon a demurrer to said complaint, that this action might, although a part of the same cause of action, under the special facts alleged, be maintained for the penalties. State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 289.

Withdrawal of penalties not a dismissal of the action. Held, that the complaint in this action does not show that the former action was dismissed, and that the demurrer upon the ground that there is another action pending for the same cause of action is well taken. Idem.

The rule of strict compliance with every form of law, required in cases where property is sold for taxes without a judgment, is not applicable to suits for delinquent taxes in the courts where jurisdiction has been once acquired. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47.

Division of twenty-five per centum penalty. Hobart v. Huffaker, 11 Nev. 300.

The tender of a portion of the money due for taxes, on condition that it be received for the whole, does not relieve a party from payment of the entire penalties upon the full amount. State v. Carson City Savings Bank, 17 Nev. 150, 151 (30 P. 703).

The penalties imposed by this section are enforceable, although the assessment was excessive as shown by the verdict of the jury, and although the defense interposed was that the assessment was out of proportion to and above the actual cash value of the property assessed. State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 24 Nev. 54, 81, 87, 96 (49 P. 945).

If a taxpayer wishes to be relieved of the penalties fixed by law, by a legal tender of the amount of taxes due, when that amount, under the issues and the law, is to be determined by a court or jury, it is incumbent upon such taxpayer to make a sufficient tender. Idem.

If a tender, duly made, of a part of the taxes levied on property, is sufficient to pay what should have been legally assessed against the property it will save any penalties and costs attaching; but if not sufficient, it will not prevent penalties and costs attaching upon the entire amount of the taxes. *State v. 3661. Form of complaint.

SEC. 49. The complaint in said action may be as follows in form: State of Nevada, County of [Title of court.]

The State of Nevada v. A. B. & Co., and the real estate and improvements in [describing them]. The State of Nevada, by C. D., district or prosecuting attorney of the county of, complains of A. such other judgment as to justice belongs, and for all costs subsequent to the assessment of said taxes and of this action.

If the property be assessed to an unknown owner, then any fictitious name may be inserted to represent such owner as defendant.

3662. Additional recitals in complaint.

SEC. 50. In all suits brought by the district or prosecuting attorney of his county, or the attorney of incorporated cities and towns, for delinquent taxes, the said district attorney is hereby authorized and empowered to make, in the summons and complaint, additional and more certain description than that contained in the assessment roll of the real property assessed and upon which suit is brought for the taxes due thereon, as he may deem proper, whether the same is an estate in fee, possessory claims, or claim to or right of possession to any lands; and where such additional description is made, evidence may be introduced to prove that the property described in the summons and complaint is the same property as that described in the assessment roll; provided, that the complaint and summons shall aver such fact, and the judgment and execution, and all proceedings thereafter, shall follow the description given in the assessment roll, and the additional description given in the summons and complaint.

When the complaint does not contradict the assessment, but merely gives a more particular description, it is proper to admit testimony to show the property described in the assessment roll and the complaint are identical. State v. R. D. M. M. Co., 1 Nev. 523.

3663. Style of process—Procedure—Notice to delinquents, form of—Fees—Summons.

SEC. 51. Upon a complaint in a district court, a summons shall be issued as provided in other civil cases, except that it shall require the defendant and all owners of or claimants to any real estate or improvements described in the summons, known or unknown, to appear and answer the complaint filed in said court on a day certain, which day shall not be less than thirty, nor more than forty days from the date of the summons. The summons so issued shall be served by the sheriff, as follows:

First—As to the personal defendant, by delivering to and leaving with him a copy of the summons if found within the county. If the personal defendant cannot, after diligent search, be found within the county, then service may be made upon such personal defendant by publishing a notice, substantially in the form hereinafter prescribed, in some newspaper published in the county, if there be one, once each week for three successive weeks; and in case no newspaper is published in the county, or in case a newspaper is published in the county, and, from any cause whatever, the proprietor, manager or chief clerk of such newspaper refuse to publish the same (such facts to be shown by affidavit of the officer serving said summons), then the notice hereinafter prescribed may be posted at the courthouse door of the county in which the said suit is commenced, for twenty-one days, and no order of court shall be necessary for such publication or posting, but it shall be the duty of the sheriff to publish or post said notice as herein provided, when the personal defendant cannot be found within the county, and to return the manner of service on the summons.

Second—As to real estate and improvements thereon, or improvements when assessed to a person other than the owner of the real estate, and as to all owners of or claimants to the same, known or unknown, service of the summons may be made by posting a copy of the summons in some public place on the real estate, or improvements, when assessed separately, for twenty-one days, and also by publishing or posting a notice in the same manner and for the same time as required in cases where the personal defendant cannot be found in the county. The last publication of the notice, and the last day of the twenty-one days, which the copy of the summons is required to be posted, shall expire at least ten days before the return day named in the summons. No other or further service shall be required, and the return of the officer, showing a service of the summons as herein required, shall be conclusive evidence of the due service of the summons upon the defendant named, the real estate and improvements thereon, when assessed separately, and upon all owners of and claimants to the same, known or unknown. If, on the return day named in the summons, the personal defendant fail to appear and answer the complaint, his default may be entered and final judgment entered by the clerk, as in other civil cases, for the amount of taxes with ten per cent, damages, twenty-five per centum additional penalty and costs; and if, upon the return day, no person appear and answer for the real estate and improvements thereof [thereon], or for the improvements when assessed separately, then the default of the said real estate and improvements thereon, or of the improvements, when assessed separately, and of all owners of or claimants to the same, known or unknown, may be entered, and final judgment rendered as in other civil cases. The notice required to be published or posted shall be substantially in the following form, and may include any number of cases in which the return day of the summons shall be the same:

State of Nevada, County of; District or prosecuting attorney's office.

C. D., district or prosecuting attorney, County.

It shall be the duty of the district or prosecuting attorney to file in the office of the county recorder a copy of each notice published or posted, with the affidavit of the publisher or foreman in the office, setting forth the date of each publication of the notice, the paper in which the same was published; and the officer shall file a copy of the notice posted, with an affidavit of the time and place of posting, which copies so filed as aforesaid, or certified copies thereof, shall be prima facie evidence of all facts therein contained, or contained in the affidavit, in all courts in this state. The publisher shall be entitled to two dollars for each case for publishing said notice, including the making of the affidavit. 3664. Answer of defendant, what may set up.

SEC. 52. The defendant may answer, which answer shall be verified:

First—That the taxes have been paid before suit.

Second—That the taxes with costs have been paid since suit, or that such property is exempt from taxation under the provisions of section 5 of this act.

Third—Denying all claim, title or interest in the property, assessed at the time of the assessment.

Fourth—That the land is situate in and has been duly assessed in another county, and the taxes thereon paid.

Fifth—Fraud in the assessment, or in failing to comply with the provisions of this act; or that the assessment is out of proportion to and above the actual cash value of the property assessed; provided, however, that in such last mentioned case, where the defense is based upon the ground that the assessment is above the value of the property, the defense shall only be effectual as to the proportion of the tax based upon such excess of valuation, but in no such case shall an entire assessment be declared void. As amended, Stats. 1895, 39.

Cash value defined, sec. 3622.

Where property is claimed for taxation by two different counties, its regular assessment by one of the counties, and the payment of the taxes to that county prior to the commencement of the action for delinquent taxes in the other county, is a complete defense to the latter action. State v. C. P. R. Co., 21 Nev. 172 (26 P. 225).

The defendant in a suit brought for the collection of delinquent taxes has a right to interpose a demurrer to the complaint upon any of the grounds set forth as a cause of demurrer in the civil practice act. State v. Yellow Jacket S. M. Co., 14 Nev. 220.

An allegation that property was assessed "in an amount greatly in excess of that authorized by law" is not sufficient to raise any issue as to the true cash value of the property, and to raise such issue such value should be alleged. State v. Sadler, 21 Nev. 13 (23 P. 799).

The statute expressly provides that "where the person complaining of the assessment has refused to give the assessor his list under oath, as required under this act, no reduction shall be made by the board of equalization in the assessment made by the assessor." Held, that an allegation that defendant made application to the board of equalization for a reduction of his assessment must include the averment that the sworn statement was furnished to the assessor, or that no demand for it was made, in order to constitute a defense to an action for the taxes. Idem.

In an action to recover delinquent taxes and penalties an answer denying a possessory claim to the lands and stating facts showing that the rights claimed are untaxable, presents a good defense, although it does not deny all claim, title or interest in the property assessed. State v. C. P. R. R., 21 Nev. 94 (25 P. 442).

Cited, Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 349; State v. W. U. T. Co., 4 Nev. 342, 346.

Where, in answer to a tax suit, the defense was fraud in the assessment, and it was alleged that in a certain statement furnished to the assessor (but which was informal) the property was "set down as of the value of $6000 per mile, which was a fair valuation thereof, and so known and believed by the assessor," it was held that this amounted to an allegation that $6000 per mile was a just and fair value, and consequently that an assessment of $15,000 per mile was excessive. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 7 Nev. 99.

As the law requires an honest and just estimate of value to be placed upon property for purposes of taxation, an excessive valuation made by an assessor contrary to his official judgment and with intent to injure, is a fraud against which the law will afford relief. Idem.

The fact that a taxpayer fails to make a statement as required by law, does not authorize the assessor to impose a valuation he knows to be exorbitant and unjust. Idem.

In a suit to recover taxes under an assessment made in the absence of a legal statement, defendant set up an answer that the assessment was made by the assessor fraudulently and contrary to his official judgment at a sum nearly three times greater than the fair value of the property; it was held that such answer stated good matter of defense and was not demurrable. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 7 Nev. 99, 101.

In a suit to recover a certain amount of delinquent taxes, where defendant pleaded that he had paid plaintiff a certain less sum and that plaintiff had accepted and received the same in full satisfaction and discharge, it was held that the pleading did not amount to an answer that the taxes had been paid or constitute a defense to the action. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 9 Nev. 79.

Where a corporation owing a certain amount of taxes for three years entered into a compromise with the board of county commissioners, whereby it paid a certain less amount and received a receipt purporting to be in full for all taxes, it was held that such receipt was not evidence of payment in full for the tax of any one year. Idem.

The board of county commissioners have no power to compromise and settle suits instituted by the state for the collection of delinquent taxes. Idem.

The right of the state to collect taxes upon the lands embraced in the grants to a railroad company cannot be defeated by the delay of the corporation in applying for patents, nor by the neglect or delay of the secretary of the interior to take proper steps to determine the character of the land—whether mineral or nonmineral. The identification of the land and its character, if raised by the pleadings could be determined by the state court upon the trial. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 20 Nev. 373, 383 (22 P. 237).

In an action to recover delinquent taxes on unpatented lands an averment in the answer "denying all ownership except such as the defendant may have, obtain, or secure, as yet unknown and uncertain on account of the nonaction of the government" is evasive and uncertain, raises no issue, and is not such an averment as the defendant is permitted to make under the provisions of this section. Idem.

It is a good answer for a defendant when assessed for a possessory claim to land to deny such claim, and plead that whatever claim it has is exempted from taxation. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 248 (30 P. 686). Affirmed, 162 U. S. 512.

Prior to the amendment of this section (Stats. 1895, 35) the defense by a defendant, sued for delinquent taxes, "that the assessment is out of proportion to and above the actual cash value of the property assessed," could not have been made. State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 23 Nev. 283 (46 P. 723, 35 L. R. A. 759).

The actual cost of a railroad is prima facie its value; but if it appears that the actual cost was in excess of the necessary cost, the necessary cost is its proper standard. If it further appears that the net income of the road does not amount to current rates of interest on its necessary cost, and is not likely to do so, or if the business of the road is likely to be destroyed or impaired by competition or other cause, or if the utility of the road is not equal to its cost, then its value is less than its cost, and must be determined by reference to its utility alone. If, in a suit to recover disputed taxes, defendant desires to raise an issue of excessive valuation he should prepare his answer under this section. State v. C. & C. R. R. Co., 29 Nev. 487 (91 P. 932).

A defense that the property belonged to another when the county board of equalization increased the valuation is not available where defendant failed to allege that at the time of assessment the property was not its property. Idem.

3665. Character of judgment and how entered—Taxes for personal property a lien on real property—Answer—Costs and penalties as liquidated damages.

SEC. 53. In case judgment is rendered for the defendant, it shall be general, without costs, and may be entered in favor of some one or more of them, and against others, as in other civil cases; but when defendants have no claim or title to the property at the time of assessment, judgment, may, notwithstanding, be entered against the property by continuing the suit, and summoning the owner, known or unknown, as provided in section 51 of this act. In case judgment is rendered for plaintiff, it may be entered against such defendant, or defendants, as are found liable for the tax, and for such portions as he or they may be found liable for. Judgment may be entered against the real estate, improvements, and personal property, for the taxes and costs severally due thereon; and when it appears on the assessment roll, and is not disproved at the trial, that the real estate, improvements, and personal property belong [belonged] to the same person or persons at the time assessments were made, then the whole tax of such person or persons for that year may be recovered out of any of such real estate, improvements, or personal property, or out of any other property of the defendant or defendants, at the time of levy under execution; provided, that upon such real estate and improvements assessed, lien shall attach thereon for the taxes due upon the personal property, and shall not be released from such lien until all taxes are paid, as provided in section 3 of this act. Such judgments shall be a lien as aforesaid, as in other civil cases where judgments are rendered in the district court. Such liens shall not be extinguished until the delinquent tax and cost of sale for the same shall have been paid. The clerk of the district court may issue execution upon judgments rendered in his court as in other civil cases. Judgment may be rendered by default, for want of an answer, as in other civil cases. In case any person shall be sued for taxes on any lands or improvements, of which he was the owner, or in which he had a claim or interest at the time of the institution of suit, and shall be discharged from personal liability, under an answer in conformity with the third subdivision of section 52 of this act, and such lands or improvements shall be sold under a judgment obtained against it, and shall thereafter be redeemed by such discharged defendant, or if he shall pay the taxes and costs to prevent a sale, then such personally discharged defendant shall have, and is hereby given the right of recovery over against the owner at the time of the assessment, or any subsequent purchaser, for the full sum of taxes and costs, or redemption money paid. And in every case of such recovery, the judgment shall, in addition to the taxes and costs, or in addition to the redemption money paid, include twenty-five per centum of the amount of taxes and costs of redemption money as liquidated damages; and the receipt of the district or prosecuting attorney for taxes and costs, or of the ex officio tax receiver for the redemption money, shall be prima facie evidence of the debt and of its amount.

3666. Possession of property obtained, how—Redemption—Property of persons under legal disability—Exceptions.

SEC. 54. An act to regulate proceedings in civil cases in the courts of justice in the State of Nevada, approved March 9, 1869, and the several amendments thereto, or amendments which may hereafter be made thereto, or laws passed under the government of the State of Nevada, so far as the same are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby made applicable to the proceedings under this act, and any deed derived from the sale of real property under this act shall be conclusive evidence of the title, except as against actual frauds or the payment of the taxes, by one not a party to the action or judgment in or upon which such sale was made, and shall entitle the holder thereof to possession of such property, which possession may be obtained by action in a justice's court for the unlawful withholding thereof in the same manner as where tenants hold over after the expiration of their lease; provided, that the officer in selling such property shall only sell the smallest quantity that will pay the judgment and all costs. All sales of real estate sold for taxes shall be subject to redemption at any time within six months after date of sale, by the payment of all costs connected with the suit and sale, together with interest at the rate of three per cent per month from date of sale up to time of redemption. When property is sold belonging to minors or persons under legal disability, they shall have until six months after such disability is removed to redeem such property, as in other civil cases, by paying the whole amount of the judgment and all subsequent taxes and interests paid by and due to the purchaser at such sale, and fifty per cent in addition thereto. But this provision shall not apply when the executor or administrator of the estate, or the father, or, in case of his death, the mother or guardian of such minor children, or insane person, has been personally served with process.

That portion of this section declaring that "the deed derived from the sale of real property shall be conclusive evidence of title" is of doubtful validity; but even if binding, it cannot be held to mean more than that the recitals of the deed shall be conclusive; not to be contradicted by other evidence. If the deed shows on its face that the assessment was illegal and void it can convey no title. Wright v. Cradlebaugh, 3 Nev. 342, 357.

A tax deed, admitted to have been executed by the tax collector when offered as of itself conclusive evidence of title, was held not sufficient without proof of a judgment and order of sale. Bolan v. Bolan, 4 Nev. 150.

The record itself or a copy of a judgment properly authenticated is the best evidence of its existence, and the only admissible, unless in case of the loss or destruction of the record. Idem.

The recital of a judgment in a tax deed is a mere assertion by the tax collector, and can no more prove the existence of a judgment than the assertion of any other person. Idem.

After a judgment has been shown and an execution thereon regularly issued and placed in the hands of a proper officer, his return on the execution, and his recitals on the deed which he executes in carrying out the commands of the writ, are proof of his official acts. Idem.

3667. Treasurer may buy as trustee—No fees for services—How sold.

SEC. 55. It shall be the duty of the treasurers of the several counties of this state to attend all sales of property for delinquent taxes, and in case there shall be no bidders for any parcel or parcels of property offered for sale, to pay such tax and costs thereon, then such treasurers may bid for and buy in such parcel or parcels of property as others will not buy; and such treasurers shall take certificates of sale, or deeds, for such property, as other private buyers, specifying the trust aforesaid; and such treasurers, and their successors in office, shall hold the property so bought in by them in trust for the use and benefit of the state and county, and any officers having fees due them in such cases, subject to redemption provided for by law, and subject in all cases to the trust aforesaid. Redemption may be made from such treasurers in the same manner and upon the same terms as from any private buyer. When the time allowed by law for redemption shall have expired, and no redemption shall have been made, the officer who made such sale shall execute and deliver to such treasurer who bought in such property a deed of the same, in trust as aforesaid; and such treasurer, and his successors in office, upon obtaining a deed of any property, in trust as aforesaid, under the provisions of this act, shall hold such property in trust until the same is sold, when, upon an order entered upon the record of the proceedings of the board of commissioners of his county, such treasurer, or his successor in office, for a consideration mentioned in such order, shall make, execute and deliver, upon the payment of such consideration to him, to any purchaser an absolute deed, discharged of any trust, of the property mentioned in such order of the commissioners.

See Lyon Co. v. Ross, under sec. 40 of this act.

3668. Property held in trust may be rented—Rents, how apportioned—Treasurer to make statement.

SEC. 56. While such property is held in trust, as in this act provided, such treasurer, or his successor in office, shall collect any rents arising from the property purchased by him, as other private persons do, during the time such property is subject to redemption; and after the time of redemption has expired, until such property can be sold, he may rent the same, with the approval of the board of commissioners, for a price to be fixed in their minutes. Such rents shall be paid out by the treasurer, or his successor in office, as follows:

First—To the payment of the costs and taxes for which it was sold, with the percentage allowed for redemption.

Second—To the payment of any taxes afterward accruing upon such property.

Third—Any balance shall be paid into the general fund of his county. The price for which any property shall be sold shall be appropriated in the same manner as the rents are directed to be paid in this section. The treasurer, or his successor in office, shall file in the office of the county auditor a monthly statement, on the first Monday in each month, of the amount of property sold and rents collected during the past month; and upon any money being paid him for purchase or rent, shall give a statement of the amount thereof to the person, who shall file the same with the county auditor; and such auditor shall give the person paying such money a receipt for the same, as having been paid to the treasurer, and expressing the purpose or consideration upon which such payment was made.

3669. Property to be included in certificate of sale—Duty of recorder.

SEC. 57. The officer selling any property to a county treasurer, in trust, as provided in this act, shall embrace in one certificate of sale all property bid off by such treasurer in any one day; and, at the expiration of the time for redemption, shall in one deed convey, in trust, to the treasurer who bought such property, or to his successor in office, all property sold to such treasurer and remaining unredeemed at any time after the expiration of the time for redemption; and the recorder of the county shall record such certificates and deeds without payment of his fees until such property shall be sold or rented to pay the same.

3670. Property held in trust to be assessed—Taxes paid from rent, when.

SEC. 58. During the time any property is held in trust, under the provisions of this act, it shall be annually assessed to such treasurer, and his successors in office, in the same manner that the taxable property of private persons is assessed, except that such assessment shall express that it is made against him as a trustee. But no proceedings shall be taken to enforce the collection of such taxes against the trustee. When the property is sold or rented for sufficient to pay the taxes and costs legally chargeable against such property, then the same shall be, by the trustee, fully paid; and in case any parcel of property shall not be of sufficient value to pay all the tax, costs and percentage legally chargeable against the same, then the board of commissioners, upon a sale of such property, may remit the balance of such taxes over and above its value.

3671. Allowance to treasurer—Redemption money, how distributed—No fees from county.

SEC. 59. The county treasurer, for his services under this act, shall be allowed, upon the sale of any parcel of property held by him in trust or out of its rents, a reasonable compensation for his trouble, to be fixed by the board of commissioners in each case; and out of the sale price or rents of any property of which he is trustee, the treasurer shall pay the costs due any officer for the enforcement of the tax upon such parcel of property, and all taxes owing thereon; and upon the redemption of any property from him as trustee, shall pay the redemption money over to any officers having fees due them from such parcels of property, and pay the tax for which it was sold and redemption percentage according to the proportion such fees respectively bear to such tax. In no case shall any service rendered by any officer under this act become or be allowed as a charge against the county, nor shall the sale price or rent, or redemption money of any one parcel of property be appropriated to pay any cost or tax upon any other parcel of property than that so sold, rented or redeemed; and after paying all the tax and costs upon any one parcel of property, any balance remaining in the hands of the trustee shall by him be paid into the general fund of the county.

3672. Treasurer liable on his bond.

SEC. 60. Every county treasurer and his successor in office, becoming trustees under the provisions of this act, shall be liable upon his and their official bond for any misfeasance, malfeasance, failure or neglect to perform faithfully all the duties of their trust.

3673. Amount of fees—Costs may be apportioned by court—Fees, how collected.

SEC. 61. There shall be allowed to all officers, except district or prosecuting attorneys, the same fees as are allowed in other civil cases. All officers shall perform such services as may be required of them under this act without the payment of fees in advance. All costs shall be taxed and entered in the judgment against the person and the real estate and the improvements, when the judgment is the same against all; but if the judgment against the person and the property is for different sums, then the costs may be apportioned by the court as the same may be deemed just; provided, that no fees or costs shall be paid to any officer unless the same be collected from the defendant, except when property sold for taxes is purchased by the county, in which case the said county shall pay all fees and costs properly charged or taxed against such property, and the board of commissioners shall allow the fees and costs provided for in this section, and direct the same to be paid out of the general fund of the county.

3674. Duties of district attorney on collection of taxes.

SEC. 62. The district or prosecuting attorney shall, on the receipt of any money for taxes, enter the same on his delinquent list, opposite the description of the property, and shall, on Monday in each week, after the time fixed in this act for the commencement of actions against delinquent taxpayers, pay to the county treasurer all moneys collected by him for taxes, taking duplicate receipts for the amounts so paid, one of which receipts he shall on the same day file with the auditor, and shall at the same time file with said auditor a list of all judgments obtained by him up to that date for taxes under the provisions of this act, stating therein the names of the defendants, if known, or if unknown, a description of the property, the amount of each judgment and the name of the court in which said judgment was obtained. He shall, on the Saturday next preceding the first Monday in April in each year, pay to the county treasurer all moneys received by him for taxes and not previously paid over, taking duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall in like manner be filed with the auditor, and shall at the same time file with the auditor a list of all judgments obtained by him and not previously filed, as herein provided. He shall also, on the day last mentioned, make and file with the county auditor an affidavit stating that he has paid to the county treasurer all moneys collected by him for taxes prior to that date, and file the receipts therefor, and that the several lists filed by him, as herein directed, contain all judgments obtained by him under the provisions of this act.

3675. Idem—Taxes uncollected.

SEC. 63. On the first Monday of April and September in each year, the district or prosecuting attorney shall attend at the office of the county auditor with the delinquent list or lists, and the auditor shall then carefully compare the same with the treasurer's receipts and statements filed by the district or prosecuting attorney; and if the same shall be found to be correct, the auditor shall give to the district or prosecuting attorney a receipt specifying the same. The district or prosecuting attorney shall at the same time deliver to the auditor a written statement of all delinquent taxes upon said delinquent list or lists remaining uncollected, or for which suit has not been brought, with his reason in detail for not being able to collect the same, or for not bringing suit; and the auditor shall immediately file the said delinquent list or lists and statement with the clerk of the board of county commissioners, and the board of county commissioners shall revise the same by striking off such taxes as cannot be collected. The delinquent list or lists shall then be returned to the auditor, who shall note the changes made, and shall then return the same to the district or prosecuting attorney, taking his receipt therefor. The county auditor shall, in his report to the state controller, state the amounts stricken off the delinquent list or lists by the board of county commissioners. As amended, Stats. 1907, 358.

See secs. 3862, 3863.

The object of this section is to provide a means of balancing the account between the auditor and district attorney. The delinquent taxpayer cannot claim any advantage from it. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 87, 90.

The district attorney is authorized to commence suit for delinquent taxes stricken off the list by a void order of the board of county commissioners. Idem.

3676. Penalties for failure of district attorney to pay over.

SEC. 64. If any district or prosecuting attorney shall fail or refuse to pay to the county treasurer, as provided in this act, any money collected by him for taxes, he shall forfeit his office, and be forthwith removed therefrom, and shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine in any sum not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

3677. Fee in tax suit.

SEC. 65. The district or prosecuting attorney shall be entitled, on each suit for the collection of delinquent taxes, to a fee of five dollars, with five per cent on the amount delinquent. Said fee and percentage shall be taxed and collected as costs, but in no case to be charged against the county or state.

See secs. 1603, 3709.

The district attorney is entitled to five per cent on the tax and penalty. State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 289.

3678. Duties of assessor as to personal property.

SEC. 66. The county assessor in the several counties in this state, when he assesses the property of any person or persons, company or corporation liable to taxation, who do not own real estate within the county of sufficient value, in the assessor's judgment, to pay the taxes on both his or their real and personal property, shall proceed immediately to collect the taxes on the personal property so assessed; but the party paying such taxes shall not be thereby deprived of his right to have such assessment equalized, and if, upon such equalization, the value be reduced, the taxes paid shall be refunded to such party from the county treasury, upon the order of the board of county commissioners, in proportion to the reduction of the value made.

See sec. 3866.

An agreed statement that the assessor made a uniform and equal valuation of the kind, character, and species of merchandise to which defendant's belonged, does not show that the valuation of defendant's property, as made by the assessor, was uniform with other kinds of personal property on the assessment roll, or that it was not equalized by the board at its true cash value, and is, therefore, insufficient to show that the raised valuation made by the board was unjust. State v. Meyers, 23 Nev. 274 (46 P. 512).

3679. Assessor may sell on summary process—Certificate to purchaser—Court may issue citation—Fees, how collected—Unlawful acts, penalties for.

SEC. 67. If the person or persons, company or corporation so assessed shall neglect or refuse to pay such taxes on demand of the assessor, the assessor, or his deputy, shall seize sufficient of the personal property of the person or persons, company or corporation so neglecting or refusing to pay, to satisfy the taxes and costs, and shall post a notice of such seizure, with a description of the property, in three public places in the township or district where it is seized, and shall at the expiration of five days, proceed to sell, at public auction, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, to the highest bidder, for gold or silver coin of the United States, a sufficient quantity of said property to pay the taxes and expenses incurred; and for this service the assessor shall be allowed from the delinquent party a fee of three dollars. Upon payment of the purchase money, he shall deliver to the purchaser of the property sold, with a certificate of the sale, the amount of taxes or assessment, and the expenses thereon, for which the property was sold, whereupon the title of the property so sold shall rest absolutely in the purchaser. If, in any instance, the county assessor shall be unable to find, seize and sell sufficient of the property of such person, persons, company or corporation to pay such taxes and costs of sale; and such person, persons, company or corporation shall neglect or refuse on request of the assessor, to pay the same, or neglect and refuse to turn out to the assessor property sufficient to pay such taxes and costs of sale, it shall be the duty of the assessor, if the sum exceed three hundred dollars, to go before the district court or the judge thereof, at chambers, and in cases of three hundred dollars and less sums, then before a justice of the peace of the township wherein such party may reside, and make affidavit of the fact of assessment, the amount of taxes, the inability to find and seize property sufficient to pay such taxes and costs of sale; also, the fact of neglect or refusal to pay the same, or turn out property sufficient to pay the same and costs of sale. And on the filing of such affidavit, the court or judge, or justice of the peace, as the case may be, shall issue a citation, ordering the party to appear forthwith, or at a subsequent period not to exceed five days, before such court, judge or justice of the peace to answer under oath concerning his property. Such citation may be served by the assessor, sheriff, or any constable of the county, and shall be served by delivering a copy thereof to such party personally. On the examination, if it shall appear that such party or parties have any money, goods, chattels or effects, the judge or justice of the peace shall order sufficient thereof to be turned out to the assessor to satisfy such taxes and costs of sale, and also costs of proceeding on the citation; and in case of a wilful neglect or refusal by such party either to obey the order of citation or the order to pay, or to turn out property aforesaid, such party or parties shall be deemed in contempt of such court, judge or justice of the peace, and may be proceeded against as in other cases of contempt, in civil cases in the courts of justice in this state. For service under the provisions of this section, such fees shall be allowed as for similar services in civil cases, to be collected only from parties owing such taxes. In other respects than herein provided, the proceedings under this section shall be conducted as provided in the civil practice act of this state regulating proceedings supplemental to executions; and in case it appears from the affidavit of the assessor that such person or persons owing such taxes is about to abscond from the county, or is about to convey his property with intent fraudulently to evade the payment of such taxes, in such cases the citation herein mentioned may direct the officer serving the same, to arrest such party or parties and bring him, her or them before the court, judge or justice of the peace issuing the same. It shall not be lawful for a party served with the citation mentioned in this section, to sell or transfer his, her or their property or effects, so as to defeat the collection of taxes mentioned, or costs, or any part thereof. And any person or persons so doing shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall pay a fine not to exceed two hundred dollars; and should the said taxes fail to be collected by such process, then no future liability shall attach to said assessor therefor.

3680. Assessor to pay over.

SEC. 68. The assessor shall, on the first Monday of each month, return to the auditor a list of all collections made under the provisions of the preceding section, under oath, and shall, at the same time, return all the original schedules of assessment of such property made the previous month, which schedules, after comparing with the sworn list of collections, the auditor shall file in his office, and shall enter upon the assessment roll of his county for that year, when the same shall have come into his hands, and mark the word "paid" opposite the name of each party whose taxes are so paid. It shall also be the duty of the assessor, on the first Monday of each month, to pay over to the treasurer of the county all moneys collected under the provisions of the preceding section, taking duplicate receipts from said treasurer for the amount so paid, one of which receipts the assessor shall file with the auditor.

Cited, State v. Meyers, 23 Nev. 277 (46 P. 512).

3681. Penalty for assessor's neglect—Duties of district attorney and auditor.

SEC. 69. Should the county assessor neglect or refuse to make the monthly statements of his collections of movable personal property tax, as required by law, or to file the original schedules of his assessments of such property, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in office, and shall, on conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars, and imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten and not more than one hundred days, or both such fine and imprisonment, and shall be removed from office. In case of such neglect and refusal, the county auditor shall immediately inform the district attorney of his county of such facts, whose duty it is hereby made to commence proceedings against the assessor under this section.

3682. Controller to prepare blank receipts.

SEC. 70. It is made the duty of the state controller to prepare suitable blank receipts, to be issued by the several county assessors on the payment to them of the taxes on movable personal property. Such blank tax receipts shall be of the form selected by the controller, and shall be consecutively numbered by him for each county, and shall be countersigned by the county auditor.

3683. Controller to send receipts to auditor.

SEC. 71. Before the first of March in each year, the state controller shall transmit to the several county auditors a sufficient number of said blank tax receipts for use in each county. The county auditor, on receiving such tax receipts, shall receipt to the controller for the number so received, and shall immediately countersign and deliver them to the county assessor, taking his receipt for the number so delivered.

3684. Penalties imposed on assessors.

SEC. 72. Should the county assessor give any other receipt on the payment to him of any tax on movable personal property than that provided for in this act, he shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for a term of not less than one year or more than five years, and shall be removed from office.

3685. Penalties imposed on county auditors for neglect—Controller may bring suit to enforce—Funds.

SEC. 73. The county auditor shall be liable on his official bonds for double the amount of the loss that the state and county may sustain through the defalcation of the assessor, or otherwise, in cases where he has not notified the district attorney of the neglect or refusal of the assessor to make his monthly statement, under oath, of collection of the tax on movable personal property, as required by law. The state controller shall have direction and control of all suits brought against the county auditor under this act, and a copy of the statement of amount lost by the state and county, made out and certified by the controller, with the official seal affixed thereto, shall be sufficient evidence to support an action in any court of competent jurisdiction for the amount of such loss, without proof of the signature or official character of such controller, subject, however, to the right of the defendant to plead and give in evidence as in other actions, all such matters as shall be legal and proper for his defense or discharge. All moneys recovered under such suit against the county auditor shall go, one-half into the general fund of the state, and one-half into the general fund of the county.

3686. Assessor to return unused blanks.

SEC. 74. On the first Monday in December of each year, the assessor shall return to the county auditor all blank receipts for taxes on movable personal property received by him and not used, and also all stubs of the receipts used; and the county auditor, after comparing the stubs of the receipts used with the monthly sworn statement made by the assessor, and the original schedules of assessment of movable personal property on file in his office, shall immediately return such unused receipts and said stubs to the state controller.

3687. Payments quarterly same rate as other taxes.

SEC. 75. All proceeds of mines, including ores, tailings, borax, soda and mineral-bearing material, of whatever character, shall be assessed for purposes of taxation, for state and county purposes quarterly in the manner following: From the gross yield returned, or value of all ores, tailings, borax, soda or mineral-bearing material of whatever character, there shall be deducted the actual cost of extracting said ores or mineral from the mine; the actual cost of saving said tailings; the actual cost of transportation to the place of reduction or sale, and the actual cost of reduction or sale; and the remainder shall be deemed the net proceeds, and shall be assessed and taxed at the same rate ad valorem, as other property is taxed, as provided in this act; provided, that there shall be no allowance made for expenses incurred prior to the quarter for which the assessment is made, excepting tailings and mines producing not more than one ton of ore or mineral-bearing material per day, for which expenses may be deducted for the four consecutive quarters preceding the quarter for which the assessment is made; and, provided further, that the net proceeds shall not a second time be assessed for taxation so long as such proceeds, in the form produced, remain in the possession of the person, firm or corporation producing the same.

See state license and bullion tax agent, secs. 4240-4248.

Proceeds of mines are personal property, and as such are subject to taxation. Virginia City v. Chollar-Potosi G. & S. M. Co., 2 Nev. 91.

In construing the act providing for the taxation of the net proceeds of mines: Held, that there is nothing to prevent the collection of such taxes quarterly. (State v. Eureka M. Co., 8 Nev. 16, affirmed.) State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 203; Virginia City v. C. P. Co., 2 Nev. 86; State v. Manhattan S. M. Co., 4 Nev. 318.

Whether this is held as a substitute for the tax levied in the first section, or in addition thereto, it is equally void and unconstitutional. Products of the mines can neither be taxed more nor less than other taxable property. That portion of this section declaring that three-fourths of the value shall be subject to taxation, is manifestly unconstitutional, the value once being established, the whole is liable to taxation. State v. Eastabrook, 3 Nev. 173, 176, 179.

See State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178, under sec. 352.

All ad valorem taxes whether on the proceeds of the mines or other property must be equal. State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178.

The provisions for quarterly assessment on the proceeds of mines and quarterly payment of taxes do not impose more than a regular pro rata of taxation upon the proceeds of mines nor require the same property to be paid for more than once. Idem.

The entire annual proceeds of mines are subject to taxation, and not the mere proceeds on hand when the assessor happens to visit the mine. Idem.

The taxation of the proceeds of mines is more favorable than if taxes were imposed directly on the mines. Idem.

3688. Tax on proceeds of mines a lien on mines.

SEC. 76. Every tax levied under the authority or provisions of this act on the proceeds of mines, is hereby made a lien on the mines or mining claims, from which ores or minerals bearing gold, silver, or other valuable metal or material is extracted for sale or reduction; which lien shall attach on the first day of January, April, July and October of each year, for the quarter year commencing on those days respectively, and shall not be removed or satisfied until such taxes are all paid, or the title to such mines or mining claims shall have absolutely vested in a purchaser under a sale for said taxes.

3689. Time and manner of making assessment—Assessed and collected, where.

SEC. 77. Between the first Monday in January and the first Monday in February, also between the first Monday in April and the first Monday in May, also between the first Monday in July and the first Monday in August, also between the first Monday in October and the first Monday in November, in each year, the county assessor shall ascertain, by diligent inquiry and examination, the name, title, and location of all mines and mining claims in his county, from which ores, minerals, or tailings are being extracted or worked, and also the names of all persons, corporations, associations, companies or firms owning, claiming or having possession or control thereof, and he shall then ascertain and determine, as provided in this act, the number of tons and the value per ton of all ores, quartz, minerals or tailings extracted for reduction or sale from the said mines or mining claims as aforesaid, and shall list and assess the same to the person, firm, corporation, association or company extracting the ores or minerals as aforesaid, or owning or having possession, charge or control of said mine or mining claim. The taxes shall be assessed and collected in the county where such mines or tailings are situated.

Under this section, assessors may call for sworn statements of the amount and value of the proceeds of mines, but they are not bound by such statements in making their assessments. State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178, 179, 205-215.

The requirement of this section that the value of the proceeds of mines shall be ascertained "as provided in this act," has reference to the mode of allowance for the cost of working.

Taxes on proceeds of mines for the first quarter of the year cannot be assessed, levied or collected before the first Monday of April of such year; and they are to be assessed, levied, and collected by the officers of the county in which the mines are then situated, though they may have been during such quarter in another county. White Pine Co. v. Ash, 5 Nev. 279, 280.

3690. Statement furnished assessor—Penalty for false statement.

SEC. 78. For the purpose of enabling the assessor to make such assessment, he shall demand from the president, secretary, superintendent, treasurer or managing agent of each corporation or association, and from each firm or persons engaged in extracting ores or minerals, or working tailings within his county, a statement under oath or affirmation, of the total number of tons extracted, or worked, or sold by him or them during the preceding quarter year; the gross yield or value of the same in dollars and cents; the actual cost of extracting the same from the mine or tailings deposit; the actual cost of transportation of the same to place of reduction or sale, and the actual cost of reduction or sale of the same, for the last preceding three months respectively. If any person shall knowingly make or give, under oath or affirmation, as aforesaid, a false statement to the assessor, such person shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished therefor as provided by law for the punishment of that crime.

Irrelevant matter in statement goes for nothing. State v. Eureka Con. M. Co., 8 Nev. 15.

The revenue laws require the sworn statement of the product of a mine to show the amount of such product in weight, and not merely the amount in dollars; both are to be given. State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178.

3691. Books open to inspection—Penalty for refusal to show books.

SEC. 79. The account books relating to or used in the transaction of the business [of] any person, firm, company, association or corporation, engaged in working tailings or in extracting ores or minerals for reduction or sale, shall, on demand of the assessor or his deputy, be open to his inspection. If any such person, or the president, superintendent, treasurer, secretary or managing agent or person having charge of said books of such person, firm, company, association or corporation shall neglect or refuse to give, on demand, to the assessor or his deputy access to the books aforesaid, he or they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, shall be complained of by the assessor or his deputy, thereupon arrested and tried, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

3692. Failure to make statement, penalty.

SEC. 80. In case of neglect or refusal of any person, firm, association, president, secretary, treasurer, superintendent or managing agent, or the person having charge of the books or mines of any person, firm, company, association or corporation, engaged in working tailings or in extracting ores or minerals, for reduction or sale, to give under oath or affirmation the statement required by this act, the assessor or his deputy shall make an estimate, from the best sources within his reach, of the number of all tons of tailings, ores or minerals worked or extracted by such person, firm, company, association or corporation, for the preceding quarter, and assess the same to him or them without making any deduction for actual costs of any kind, and such assessment shall be as binding, effectual and lawful as if made upon a sworn or affirmed statement.

3693. Equalization.

SEC. 81. Any person, firm, company, association or corporation, except such as shall have wilfully refused to give to the assessor or his deputy, on demand, access to the books of said person, firm, company, association or corporation, feeling aggrieved on account of the assessment made as in this act provided, may appear before the board of county commissioners, at any regular session or special session thereof, called for that purpose, and ask to have such assessment equalized; and such board may proceed to hear the allegations of the party complaining, and of the assessor or his deputy, and such other evidence as may be produced by either party, and by an order entered in the minutes of their proceedings, equalize such assessment by adding to or deducting therefrom, as may seem just, and such action shall be final.

3694. Account of ores to be kept by mill owner—Assessor to demand exhibition of books—Penalty for refusal.

SEC. 82. The owner, agent or person owning or having charge or control of any mill, arastra, smelting furnace, or any process by which gold or silver, or other taxable products, are extracted, shall keep, or cause to be kept, an accurate account of the number of tons of ores, quartz, or minerals reduced or smelted, the name of the mine or mining claim from which said ore, quartz, or mineral was taken, the amount and value of the bullion or other taxable product derived by smelting or reduction from the ore, quartz or mineral from such mine or mining claim, and shall, upon demand of the assessor, or his deputy, give him a statement of the same, under oath or affirmation. And if the owner, agent or person, as aforesaid, neglect or refuse to give the statement as required in this section, the assessor, or his deputy, shall have the right to demand, and it [is] hereby made his duty to demand access to and inspection of all books of said owner, agent or person owning or having the charge or control of any mill, arastra, smelting furnace or other process by which gold and silver or other taxable products are extracted, relating to the business of such mill, arastra, smelting furnace or other process, as aforesaid, and if such owner, agent or person, as aforesaid shall, on demand of the assessor, or his deputy, neglect or refuse to give a statement, under oath or affirmation, as provided in this section, or refuse to give access to the assessor, or his deputy, to the books, as aforesaid, such owner, agent or person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be arrested on complaint of the assessor, or his deputy, and on conviction before a justice of the peace, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than twenty nor more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

3695. Statement of yield to be made by assessor.

SEC. 83. From the statements or information so received, it is hereby made the duty of the assessor to make out immediately, a certified statement or statements of the number of tons of ores, quartz, or minerals, with the yield thereof per ton reduced by such mill, arastra, smelting furnace or other process, from the mine or mining claim of any person, firm, corporation, association or company, situated in any other county in this state, stating particularly therein the number of tons, and the value per ton, so reduced for such person, firm, corporation, association or companies, and transmit such certified statement immediately, by mail or express, to the assessors of the county wherein the mine or mining claim of such person, firm, corporation, association or company is located.

3696. Quarterly statement to be made by assessor, form of.

SEC. 84. It shall be the duty of the several county assessors within this state to prepare and complete quarterly, on or before the second Monday in February, May, August and November in each year, a tax-list or assessment roll of the proceeds of the mines for the preceding quarter year, alphabetically arranged in books furnished them by the county commissioners for that purpose, in which books shall be listed or assessed the proceeds of all mines in their respective counties, as provided in this act. The form of the assessment roll shall be substantially as follows:

Names of owners	Description and location of mine	Number of tons extracted for the quarter	Gross yield or value of the same in dollars and cents	Actual cost of extracting same from mine	Actual cost of transportation to place of reduction or sale	Actual cost of reduction or sale	Net yield, value in dollars and cents	Total amount of tax

The quarterly payments of taxes on the proceeds of mines are so arranged that the annual proceeds do not pay a larger pro rata, even as to interest account, than if one annual tax for the annual proceeds were imposed, payable at the time other annual taxes are payable. State v. Kruttschnitt, 4 Nev. 178.

The taxation of the proceeds of mines is more favorable to mining interests than if taxes were imposed directly upon the mines as upon other real property. Idem.

The clause in this section, requiring the auditor to ascertain that the assessments on the assessment roll comply with the sworn statements, must be read in connection with sec. 101 and other parts of the act, and does not authorize him to alter the assessments so as to make them conform to the sworn statements; its object was merely for the detection of errors in calculation and clerical mistakes in transferring the result of statements accepted as correct to the assessment roll. 3697. Assessor to deliver sworn statement—Auditor to report to controller.

SEC. 85. On the completion of his tax-list or assessment roll for each period of three months, the assessor shall attach his certificate thereto and deliver it, and the sworn or affirmed statements provided for in this act, to the county auditor, who shall examine said assessment roll and ascertain that the assessments therein entered comply with the sworn or affirmed statements relating thereto; and that in case of neglect or refusal to give the statement herein required, that fact is noted under the name of the firm, corporation, company or association so neglecting or refusing. The county auditor shall then add up the columns of valuation as set down in the assessment roll, and shall prepare a statement (which shall be under oath) of the number of tons of ore, quartz or mineral, bearing gold and silver, and other taxable products listed upon said assessment roll, the total value thereof, the total amount on which the taxes were levied, and the total amount of taxes on the same, which statement he shall immediately forward to the state controller.

3698. Assessor to collect.

SEC. 86. After adding up the columns of valuation and extending the taxes as provided in the preceding section, the county auditor shall attach his certificate thereto, and shall, on or before the fourth Monday in February, May, August and November, in each year, deliver the assessment roll for the last preceding quarter, respectively, to the county assessor for collection, and shall charge the assessor with the full amount of taxes levied.

He shall use all due diligence, and make personal demand for taxes, if possible, on all persons, firms, corporations or companies owing the same, on or before the second Mondays in March, June, September and December, after which he need not make such personal demand, but shall retain the assessment roll in his office, and receive the taxes offered to be paid thereon until the close of his official business on the third Monday in March, June, September, and December in each year. After said dates it shall be unlawful for him to receive or receipt for any taxes due on the assessment for the preceding quarter respectively; but he shall immediately ascertain the total amount of taxes then delinquent on the assessment of the immediate preceding quarter, and file in the office of the auditor a statement of said amounts, verified by the oath of himself or deputy, and shall proceed to make out a copy of the quarterly assessment roll as far as relates to delinquent taxpayers. If any assessor shall refuse, for the period of five days, to make the payments and settlements with the treasurer and auditor of his county, as in this act specified, he and his sureties shall be held liable to pay the full amount of taxes charged upon the assessment roll for that quarter, and the district or prosecuting attorney, of his own volition, or on being instructed to do so by the state controller, or the board of county commissioners of the county, shall cause suit to be brought against such assessor and his sureties for the full amount due on the auditor's books, on account of such quarterly assessment; and if such suit is brought, no credit or allowance whatever shall be made to such refusing or neglecting assessor for the delinquent taxes outstanding.

3705. Additional bond, when.

SEC. 93. The board of county commissioners of each county shall exact an additional bond from the assessor in such penal sum (not to exceed twenty thousand dollars) as the said board shall believe to be necessary to insure the prompt and faithful payment to the county treasurer of all moneys received by such assessor for taxes on the proceeds of the mines.

SEC. 94. The auditor shall, within three days after receiving the delinquent list on the assessment of the proceeds of the mines for any quarter year, deliver the same to the district or prosecuting attorney. Such action may be commenced in the county where such assessment is made, before any justice of the peace or court in said county having jurisdiction thereof, and such jurisdiction shall be determined solely by the amount of delinquent taxes sued for, not regarding the location of the mine or mining claim as to township, nor the residence of the person, firm, corporation, company or association, as to town, township, county or state. Ten per cent additional, by way of penalty, shall be collected on all delinquent taxes.

3786. Taxation of mortgages and deeds of trust.

SECTION 1. All taxable property must be assessed at its full cash value. Land and improvements thereon shall be separately assessed. A mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or other obligation by which a debt is secured, shall, for the purposes of assessment and taxation, be deemed and treated as an interest in the property affected thereby, except as to railroad and other quasi-public corporations. In case of debts so secured, the value of the property affected by such mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or obligation, less the value of such security, shall be assessed and taxed to the owner of the property, and the value of such security shall be assessed and taxed to the owner thereof, in the county, city, or district in which the property affected thereby is situated. The taxes so levied shall be a lien upon the property and security, and may be paid by either party to such security; if paid by the owner of the security, the tax so levied upon the property affected thereby shall become a part of the debt so secured. If the owner of the property shall pay the tax so levied on such security, it shall constitute a payment thereon, and, to the extent of such payment, a full discharge thereof. If any such security or indebtedness shall be paid by any such debtor or debtors after assessment and before the tax levy, the amount of such levy may likewise be retained by such debtor or debtors, and shall be computed according to the tax levy for the preceding year; and every contract by which a debtor is obliged to pay any tax or assessment on money loaned, or on any mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien, shall, as to any interest specified therein, and as to such tax or assessment, be null and void.

3787. Taxes, against whom levied.

SEC. 2. The owner of a mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or other obligation whereby land or real property, situated in this state, is made security for the payment of a debt, and also the debt so secured, shall for the purpose of assessment and taxation, be deemed to be the person or persons to whom the security was given in the first instance, unless it appears on the record of the security that some other person is the owner; and all assignments or transfers of a debt secured as mentioned in this act shall, for the purposes of assessment and taxation, be null and void, unless such transfer or assignment is made in writing upon the margin of the record of the security, and the name of the person to whom such debt is assigned or transferred given; and in all cases such debt and security shall be assessed and taxed to the person or persons who appear on the record of such security to be owner or owners thereof; and a mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or other obligation whereby land or real property situated in no more than one county in this state is made security for the payment of a debt, together with such debt, shall be assessed and taxed to the owner of such security and debt in the county, city or district in which the land or real property affected by such security is situated. The taxes so assessed and levied on such security and debt shall be a lien thereon, and the debt, together with the security, may be sold for the payment of any taxes due thereon, in the same manner and with like effect that real property or land is sold for the payment of taxes.

3788. Manner of assessment for taxation.

SEC. 3. For the purposes of assessment and taxation no payment on any debt secured as hereinbefore mentioned in this act shall hereafter be taken into consideration by any assessor in this state, when assessing such debt and security as herein provided, unless such payment is endorsed in writing on the margin of the record of such security by the owner thereof, or his authorized agent, before the delivery by the county recorder to the board of equalization of the abstract of all unsatisfied mortgages and liens remaining on record in his office. And in all cases the assessor shall assess such debt and security for the full amount of such debt, that appears from the record of such security to be owing, unless in the judgment of the assessor the land or real property by which such debt is secured is not worth as many dollars as still appears unpaid of such debt, and then, in that case, he shall assess such debt and security at whatever sum he thinks to be their real cash value.

3789. Duties of county recorders.

SEC. 4. It is hereby made the duty of the several county recorders in this state to record in the margin of the record of all mortgages on land and real property, when requested so to do by the mortgagee or owner of the mortgage, all assignments thereof, or of the note or other evidence of debt thereby secured, and also all payments made thereon or the note or other evidence of debt secured thereby, and copies thereof certified by such recorder shall be received in evidence in all courts of this state with like effect as a certified copy of such mortgage. And all persons who now have mortgages recorded in this state, upon which partial payments have been made, are hereby allowed sixty days after this act takes effect to cause to be recorded in the recorder's office of the proper county such payments with the dates thereof.

3790. Taxation in cases of banks and trust companies.

SEC. 5. Where any bank or trust company is assessed in this state upon its shares or capital stock, and such bank or trust company is the owner of mortgages or trust deeds assessed to it upon lands within this state, the amount or value of such mortgages or trust deeds shall be deducted from the amount which it is assessed upon its shares or capital stock; and such bank or trust company shall only be assessed upon such sum for its shares or capital stock after deducting the value of the mortgages or trust deeds owned by it.

3791. Method of assessing property and franchises of express companies.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of assessment and collection of taxes on the property and franchises of any express company the cash value thereof shall not be less than the largest amount on which the net profit of the company for the calendar year previous to the assessment or levy of the taxes will pay interest or dividends at the rate of eight per cent per annum. This net profit shall be the difference between the average gross annual earnings per mile on the mileage operated in this state on local and through business, including receipts for the transportation of parcels and property carried into, out of or through this state and the necessary annual average expense per mile on such mileage operated in this state in such transportation, carrying and operation of the express company under reasonable, economical and prudent management, estimated for the last calendar year previous to the levy. The actual annual deterioration of property used in the business shall be considered a part of the annual expense.

3792. Express companies to make complete report.

SEC. 2. Every express company shall include in the list or statement of taxable property now required by law to be made a statement of the gross receipts and expenses and the net income of the company, the amount paid in dividends and the amount held or carried over as surplus, for the last calendar year, and a statement of the total number of miles operated by such express company on any through lines which run through this state, and of the gross receipts and expenses thereon, and of the total number of miles operated by such express company exclusively in this state, and of the gross receipts and expenses thereon. Such list or statement shall be in no way conclusive or binding upon any officer, board or authority empowered by law to fix assessments or to collect taxes.

3793. Board of equalization.

SEC. 3. The board of county commissioners of each county in this state, shall meet as a board of equalization on the third Monday of September in each year, to examine the assessment roll and equalize the assessment of property appearing upon the assessment roll in their respective counties, and shall continue in session from time to time until the business of equali-

See sec. 3641.

3795. Auditor to deliver corrected roll.

SEC. 6. On or before the first Monday in November in each year, the auditor shall deliver the corrected assessment roll with his certificate attached thereto, together with the maps or plat books, to the ex officio tax receiver.

3796. Tax receiver to settle.

SEC. 9. On the second Monday of December in each year the ex officio tax receiver shall also attend at the office of the county auditor with the assessment roll, and the auditor shall then and there administer to the ex officio tax receiver an oath, which shall be written and subscribed on the assessment roll, to the effect that each person and all property assessed in said roll, or [on] which taxes have been paid to him, has the word "paid" marked opposite the name of such person or a description of such property, and the auditor shall then foot up the amount of taxes remaining unpaid, and shall make a final statement with the ex officio tax receiver of all taxes charged against him on account of said assessment roll. The auditor shall then immediately transmit, by mail or otherwise, to the state controller a statement in such form as he may require, of all and each particular kind of property delinquent, and the total amount of delinquent taxes.

3800. Valuations to fix.

SEC. 4. The valuation fixed at such annual meetings shall be the actual cash value of all such property as may be designated, as now provided by law, taking into consideration the locality of such property, and the assessors of the several counties shall assess and enter upon the assessment rolls of their respective counties all such property at the valuation designated by such meeting of county assessors, and shall fix the value and assess all property not so valued at said meeting in the manner now provided by law. As amended, Stats. 1903, 96.

3802. Tax levy.

Immediately after the auditor's statement of valuation, provided for in section 10 of this act, shall have been received by the state controller, the governor, state controller, and attorney-general shall meet and ascertain the aggregate valuation of all the taxable property in the state, as reported by the several county auditors. They shall then proceed to fix the state rate of taxation (not to exceed eighty cents on each one hundred dollars) in proportion as the amount required to conduct the state government for the year stands to the whole property valuation in the state; but in no case shall they fix a rate which will give the state more revenue than necessary to meet the total amount of appropriations made by the last preceding legislature.

3809. Assessor—Penal provisions.

SEC. 13. Should any assessor in this state neglect to assess property in accordance with the provisions of this act, or laws now in force or effect, or place a greater or less valuation on any property that has been fixed at said meeting of assessors, the state board of revenue, which is hereby created, consisting of the governor, state controller and attorney-general, shall instruct the district attorney of said assessor's county to bring suit against such assessor and his bondsmen for the sum of five hundred dollars as a penalty therefor, which said sum when collected, shall be paid into the general fund of the state treasury, and such board may instruct the attorney-general to request the district attorney of said assessor's county to institute suit against such assessor for his removal from office for such neglect or refusal. 3811. Expenses—Printing.

SEC. 15. Neither the governor, state controller or attorney-general shall receive any additional compensation for their services imposed by this act; but shall be allowed their actual traveling expenses when absent from the capitol

An Act to provide revenue for the support of the government of the State of Nevada.

Approved March 6, 1893, 109

3814. How railroads are to be assessed.

SECTION 1. In all cases where a railroad is located and is being or has been constructed in or through one or more counties of this state, the president, secretary, general superintendent or managing agent of the corporation, company or person owning the same, or managing agent thereof, within the county, shall within a reasonable time after demand by the county assessor of any county in or through which such road is being or has been constructed, furnish to such assessor a statement under oath or affirmation, which shall be in writing, duly subscribed and sworn to before some officer authorized by the laws of this state to administer oaths, setting forth the length of said road in such county and the value thereof, with a list of the property, real and personal [except rolling stock], pertaining thereto, also the whole length of said road within the state, and the number and value of all locomotives and cars, commonly known as rolling stock, used on said road within this state, and an apportionment of the value of such rolling stock to such county, the same to be estimated according to the proportion which the true portion in said county bears to the whole length of said railroad within the state. But in the event that any portion of the rolling stock or personal property of a railroad company, operated wholly within this state, shall not be used or employed in all the counties through or into which such railroad runs, then such portion of said rolling stock or personal property shall only be assessed in the county or counties where used or employed, and shall not be considered in any apportionment of the value of the rolling stock or personal property of such railroad in counties where not used or employed. The statement, however, shall not be conclusive, nor shall the value therein fixed bind the assessor; but he shall, notwithstanding, proceed to value and assess said property according to his official judgment.

See sec. 3794.

When a railroad company claims that its taxes, as assessed by the county assessor, have been reduced, it must affirmatively show the jurisdictional fact that a complaint was made by it to the board of equalization of the assessor's valuation on the property. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 17 Nev 259 (30 P. 887).

The records of the board must show that the complaint was made; the oral testimony of the members of the board is inadmissible. Idem.

The board has the right to amend its record so as to make it conform to the truth, and an amendment made by order of the board of county commissioners after it had ceased to sit as a board of equalization was admissible to show the facts upon which the board of equalization acted in reducing an assessment. Idem.

There is nothing in the constitution which indicates that it was intended to confer upon county assessors the sole right to assess property, or upon county commissioners the sole right to equalize its valuation. Sawyer v. Dooley, 21 Nev. 390 (32 P. 437).

The right of a de facto member of the board of assessors and equalization to exercise the duties of his office cannot be collaterally questioned. Idem.

See citation of this case under Const., sec. 325, p. 106, ante; also Const. sec. 278, p. 82, ante.

This act (Stats. 1891, 56) authorizes the board to equalize the value of railroads, as well as other property, and to raise the assessed value of the same, without regard to whether the owner applies for a reduction of the valuation. Idem.

Where the admitted net profits of a railroad were $8,500, an assessment of the road for taxation at $175,000 was justified by evidence that the current rate of interest for loans of large amount was from 4 to 6 per cent. State v. N. C. R. R. Co., 26 Nev. 357 (68 P. 294).

The cash value of a railroad for purposes of taxation must be determined mainly by its net earnings, capitalized at the current rate of interest, taken in consideration with any immediate prospect of any increase or decrease in earning capacity; and if the utility of the road, as so determined, is not equal to the cost, which is prima facie its value, the value must be determined by utility alone. State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 23 Nev. 283, 293 (35 L. R. A. 759, 46 P. 723); State v. N. C. R. R. Co., 28 Nev. 186 (113 A. S. 834, 81 P. 99).

The fiscal year for the purpose of taxation of railroads, the same as for all other property, commences on January first. State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 24 Nev. 53 (49 P. 945).

The rule being that the value of a railroad, for the purpose of taxation, should be determined, mainly, by its net earnings capitalized at the current rate of interest, a jury is justified in finding that the rate to be used in the computation is the rate of interest which investments command, and not that on temporary loans. Idem.

The net income of a railroad for purposes of taxation is the difference between the gross receipts and the expenses as they would have been under reasonably economical and prudent management. Idem.

On an issue as to the earning capacity of a railroad for purposes of taxation, classifications of items of expense by the company in its ledger or other accounts are not evidence in its favor, except as they are substantiated by the original entries of the transactions in its books. Idem.

On such an issue it would be presumed, in the absence of a contrary showing, that charges for things essential to the operation of the road represented reasonable and economical expenditures. Idem.

On such an issue taxes actually paid should be added to the operating expenses and deducted from the gross income. Idem.

In the absence of proof that a county levying a tax in excess of $1.50 per $100 is not indebted for liabilities contracted prior to the year of the levy, it would be presumed in support of the levy that it was so indebted. Idem.

Evidence held insufficient to support assessment. State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 23 Nev. 283, supra.

3815. Definition of the word "railroad"—Personal property assessed, how.

SEC. 2. The word "railroad" shall be held to include, in addition to the track of said railroad, including the rails, couplings, spikes, ties, bridges, culverts, tunnels, cuts, fills, embankments, and the land owned by the right of way of such railroad, all the structures, fixtures, improvements and buildings of said railroad owned thereon or used in connection therewith. The personal property belonging to said railroad, or used in connection therewith, and in operating the same, including the rolling stock, furniture, tools, implements, wood and coal, shall be valued and assessed separately from the track of said road, and shall be listed and entered on the assessment roll under the head of personal property; all buildings and superstructures belonging to or used in connection with said railroad, except such as form a part or the track of said road, including depots, storehouses, woodsheds, machine shops and round-houses, shall be assessed separately from the track and listed as real estate.

3816. Portion to be assessed as part of whole.

SEC. 3. In ascertaining, assessing and fixing the value of any railroad for taxation the assessor shall assess it the same as other property, and shall consider, treat and assess the portion thereof at its value within his county as an integral part of a complete, continuous and operated line of railroad, and not as so much land covered by the right of way merely, nor as so many miles of track consisting of iron rails, ties and couplings.

3817. Failure to furnish statement.

SEC. 4. If any corporation, company, or person owning such railroad failing, neglecting, or refusing, after being notified, to furnish a statement for assessment and taxation, as provided in this act, the county assessor may proceed to make the assessment in the same manner as in other cases, and as provided in an act to provide revenue for the support of the government of the State of Nevada, approved March twenty-three, eighteen hundred and ninety-one.

Sworn statement of railway company must show affirmatively that the person making it is one of the persons named in the statute, and be subscribed by him. State v. Washoe Co., 5 Nev. 317.

On failure of assessor to demand statement, held that the burden of proof was upon the railroad company desiring equalization to show the fact of neglect to make the demand. Idem.

See State v. Washoe Co., 7 Nev. 83.

Failure to make statement—Excludes from equalization—Sufficiency of statement—Description of property—Verification of statement good when intention is clear—Delivery of statements proven orally. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 17 Nev. 259 (30 P. 887).

Since the act of Congress of July 10, 1886, the surveyed but unpatented lands within the grant to the Central Pacific railroad are no longer exempt from taxation by reason of the government lien thereon for the costs of surveying, etc. The conditions contained in that act to the effect that the lien shall continue, and that the United States may become a preferred purchaser at any tax sale of such land, control such sales, and there is no necessity for a legislative acceptance by the states of the conditions of the act. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247 (30 P. 686, affirmed, 162 U. S. 512).

The cash value of a railroad is measured by the amount of cash required to procure it, provided its utility is commensurate with its cost; and the amount of cash required to procure a railroad is the necessary cost of its construction. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47.

An Act in relation to levying and assessing taxes for state and county purposes.

Approved March 19, 1891, 189

3818. Duties of commissioners—Levy of taxes—May raise or reduce.

SECTION 1. All state and county taxes required to be levied by the boards of county commissioners of the several counties of this state in pursuance of the revenue laws of this state, shall hereafter be levied by such boards of county commissioners on or before the first Monday of March in each year; provided, that if after the equalization of taxes in the several counties of this state, it shall appear that the levy previously made by the board of

The actual cost of a railroad is prima facie its value; but if it appears that the actual cost was in excess of the necessary cost, the necessary cost is its proper standard. If it further appears that the net income of the road does not amount to current rates of interest on its necessary cost, and is not likely to do so, or if the business of the road is likely to be destroyed or impaired, by competition or other cause, or, in short, if the utility of the road is not equal to its cost, then its value is less than its cost, and must be determined by reference to its utility alone. (State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 10 Nev. 47, affirmed.) State v. V. & T. R. R. Co., 23 Nev. 283 (35 L. R. A. 759, 46 P. 723).

Under Stats. 1891, pp. 137, 138, providing that all property shall be assessed at its actual cash value, and that the term "cash value" means the amount at which the property would be appraised if taken in payment of a just debt from a solvent debtor, the value of a railroad for the purpose of taxation must be determined mainly by its net earnings, capitalized at the current rate of interest, taking into consideration any immediate prospect of an increase or decrease in the earning capacity of the road. Idem.

The omission of the assessor to state the number of acres of land assessed to a railroad company where the number of miles of the road is stated—where it is not shown that the railroad company was injured by the failure to state the number of acres—does not make the assessment void. county commissioners of any county of this state for county purposes will result in the collection of a revenue, either in excess or a deficiency of the requirements of such county for the current year, then, and in such event, the board of county commissioners in any such county shall have the power, and it is hereby made the duty of such board of county commissioners, to immediately meet and either reduce or raise the rate of taxation, so previously levied, to such a sum as such board in its judgment may consider sufficient to insure the collection of such an amount of revenue as will answer all the requirements of such county for such current year. As amended, Stats. 1893, 119.

Act of 1867, 111:

The board of county commissioners while sitting to equalize assessments as provided in this act are not controlled by the restrictions imposed upon the board of equalization under the general revenue act, and it could not, like the board of equalization, refuse to equalize an assessment because a sworn statement had been refused on demand of the treasurer. V. & T. R. R. Co. v. Ormsby Co., 15 Nev. 340-342, 345-348.

This act was intended to authorize summary proceedings; but it gives to all persons so assessed, without conditions, a right to have their assessments equalized by the board of county commissioners. Idem.

The board of county commissioners, sitting to equalize assessments for taxes made by the tax receiver under this act, is entirely distinct from the board of equalization provided by the general revenue law, though composed of the same persons. Idem.

Under this act the right is expressly given to all persons without exception to have their assessments equalized upon making application within the proper time to the board of county commissioners; and if the board refuses to act it may be compelled to do so by mandamus. Idem.

Under the provisions of this act a railroad company applied to the county commissioners to have the "subsequent assessment roll" as to its property, equalized; the commissioners thereupon ordered the entire subsequent roll to be stricken out and remitted. It was held that the act was beyond their powers and that the order was void. State ex rel. Swift v. Ormsby Co., 6 Nev. 95-97.

The commissioners had no power to interfere with the subsequent assessment roll, except upon application of some person feeling aggrieved and even then, in granting relief, not to go beyond the application made. Idem.

The evident object of this act is to make all assessments made by the treasurer final or, at least, exempt them from any supervision by the county commissioners, except in cases where application might be made by a person aggrieved. Idem.

Under this act the board of county commissioners are empowered to modify, equalize or discharge any supplemental assessments therein provided for, upon proper application of the party in interest. State ex rel. Mason v. Ormsby Co., 7 Nev. 392, 393, 395, 396.

This act does not limit the power of the board of county commissioners in reference to the modifying, equalizing or discharging of supplemental assessments; but is evidently intended to enlarge it in distinction to the restrictions imposed on the commissioners sitting as a board of equalization under the general revenue law. Idem.

Action may be taken by the board of county commissioners to modify, equalize or discharge such assessments irrespective of the particular character of session of the board; nor is there any limitation imposed by the statutes as to the time of application. Idem.

The exercise of the functions of the board of county commissioners in the discharge of a supplemental assessment is not obnoxious to the constitutional division of powers (ante, sec. 258). Idem.

The discharge of a supplemental assessment under this act is entirely different to an equalization of the same. Idem.

Where application was made to board of county commissioners to equalize a supplemental assessment under this act, which was denied, and afterwards an application was made to discharge the same assessment, it was held that the board had not exhausted its power in reference to the assessment by its action on the application to equalize. Idem.

Act of 1867, 163: Cited, Gibson v. Mason, 5 Nev. 312; State v. Y. J. S. M. Co. 14 Nev. 230.

Act of 1869, 184—Sec. 3: This section does not confer a discretion upon the board of equalization to determine whether there is a legal excuse or not, nor authorize equalization when no such statement is furnished. State ex rel. Thompson v. Washoe Co., 7 Nev. 84.

The "legal excuse" mentioned in this section is only to be considered in case of a criminal prosecution as provided by act of 1866, 168, sec. 6, and not in proceedings before the board of equalization. Idem.

Act of 1871, 87—Sec. 1: This section does not authorize the exemption of $15 per ton on all ores so worked in addition to the actual cost of working them, but only where such actual cost exceeds 60 per cent of the gross yield. State v. Eureka Con. M. Co., 8 Nev. 15.

In the passage of this act the legislative intent obviously was, first, to tax all the gross yield less the actual cost, and, second, to limit a maximum beyond which not even actual cost should be deducted; in other words, only to exempt the actual cost, provided it did not exceed 60 per cent of the gross yield in cases of ores worked by wet process and 60 per cent, together with $15 per ton in case of ores worked by dry process. Idem.

The admission of the original assessment roll, notwithstanding there was no dollar mark attached to the figures purporting to indicate the amount of the tax due or assessed, was held not error. Idem.

Matters inserted in the statements of the proceeds of a mine, the insertion of which is not authorized by the statute, go for nothing, and the assessor is not bound to pay any regard to them. Idem.

The mine owner working his ores under the Frieberg process is not entitled to an exemption of $15 per ton in addition to the actual cost of working the ore. (State v. Eureka Con. M. Co., 8 Nev. 15, affirmed.) State v. Northern Belle M. & M. Co., 13 Nev. 250.

Sec. 2: Cited, State ex rel. Piper v. Gracey, 11 Nev. 234; State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 216.

The provision of the statute as to the time for completing the assessment roll is merely directory, and any irregularity in that respect is a defense in an action for taxes only to the extent that the taxpayer has been injured thereby. State v. Northern Belle M. Co., 15 Nev. 386.

Sec. 6: Cited, State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 216.

Sec. 7: The written notice required by this section to be given by the assessor is not a prerequisite to liability of the producer for the tax, but only intended to hold a party reducing ores extracted by others to the extent of the value of the ores in his possession when notified. State v. Eureka Con. M. Co., 8 Nev. 16.

Sec. 10: There is nothing in the use of the word "manner" in this section to prevent the collection of such taxes quarterly—the word "manner" as there used does not mean "time." State v. Eureka Con. M. Co., 8 Nev. 16. Cited, State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 203, 215–217.

Act of 1873, 66—Sec. 1: Cited, Eureka Co. v. Lander Co., 21 Nev. 148 (24 P. 871).

Where property is claimed for taxation by two different counties, its regular assessment by one of the counties, and the payment of the taxes to that county prior to the commencement of the action for delinquent taxes in the other county, is complete defense to the latter action. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 172, 176 (26 P. 225).

A board of equalization is of special and limited jurisdiction, having only such powers as are specially conferred upon it. The statute gives it the power to determine all complaints concerning the assessment of property, but after the determination of such complaints its action is final and it has no power to reconsider and change its action. Idem.

Act of 1873, 169: Act construed, State v. Cal. M. Co., 13 Nev. 203. Cited, State v. Cal. M. Co., 15 Nev. 241, 250, 253.

This act held constitutional, it being a general law imposing the same burden upon all persons similarly situated and belonging to the same class. State v. Con. Va. M. Co., 16 Nev. 432, 441, 448, 449.

Act of 1875, 105—Sec. 1: If a written statement is not furnished to the assessor as required by this section, the board of equalization has no power to reduce the assessment. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 17 Nev. 260, 272 (30 P. 887).

The statement need not contain an itemized list of the various articles of personal property; it will be sufficient if it contains a list of property of the railroad company, real and personal, pertaining to its road. Idem.

The fact of the delivery of the statement to the assessor is not a proceeding of the board of equalization and need not be shown by its records. Idem.

Where a school district has been in existence since 1871 and has continued during that time to receive public funds for its support and has had three special taxes levied and collected for its benefit without its legal organization ever having been questioned, a taxpayer on whose property such a tax is levied is precluded from attacking the legality of the organization of the district. State v. C. P. R. R. Co., 21 Nev. 75 (25 P. 296).

Sections 2 and 4 of this act held unconstitutional for the same reason. State v. Con. Virginia M. Co., 16 Nev. 432, 448, 449.

ment of an annual poll tax. State ex rel. Wilson v. Stone, 24 Nev. 308-310 (53 P. 497).

No reward shall be offered as herein authorized until after an order shall have been made by the board and entered in the minutes of their proceedings, reciting the name of the person or persons murdered, and the amount of the reward offered, and the order shall have been approved by the board and attested in the usual manner of attesting the minutes of their proceedings in other cases.

After obtaining the above information, the mineral land commissioner shall immediately commence an inquiry, or cause an inquiry to be commenced; to ascertain:

First—If any of the land for which a patent is applied is located within any mining district or known mineral belt.

Second—If the same, or any portion thereof, has at any time been held, used, claimed or worked for minerals of any kind or character, and for these purposes he may make application to any state or county officer of this state, who shall proceed forthwith to furnish such information to said commissioner, and he shall publish a notice of such application in some newspaper nearest the land applied for.

Third—It shall be ascertained, or if the mineral land commissioner has reason to believe that the said land so applied for is mineral in character, or contains mineral sufficient to support a bona fide mining location, then it shall be the duty of the mineral land commissioner to appear in the state land office, or in the United States land office, as the case may be, and contest such application, and for this purpose he shall have power to produce witnesses, and offer evidence in support of the contest, showing that the land applied for is more valuable for mineral than for any other purpose.

4143. Persons who may lodge information—Duty of commissioner to contest.

SEC. 3. Any person having knowledge of the existence of minerals on any portion of the public domain belonging to the state or to the United States for which a patent is applied, may lodge such information before the mineral land commissioner, with the request that said commissioner appear as the attorney for such person and contest the application for such patent, either in his own name or in the name of any person who may request to be entered as a contestant for such application, and it shall be the duty of the said commissioner to appear and act as such attorney and contest such application.

4144. Record of contests kept—Report to governor.

SEC. 4. The mineral land commissioner shall keep a record of all actions or contests so instituted, either in his own name, or as the attorney for any other person, and shall carefully preserve and file copies of all evidence, data, plats, and other information, and shall on or before the first day of January of each year make and submit his report to the governor, showing the number of applications contested by him, where the land is located, and the character of the minerals alleged to be contained therein, with such other and further information as he may deem necessary.

4145. May appoint deputies—Salary of commissioner—No fees allowed.

SEC. 5. The mineral land commissioner may appoint as many deputies as he may deem necessary for the carrying out of the provisions of this act. All fees or charges of such deputies shall be paid out of the salary herein provided for the mineral land commissioner. The mineral land commissioner shall receive a salary of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum, payable in equal monthly installments, the same as the salaries of other officers of the state are paid, and the state controller is hereby authorized to draw his warrant and the state treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same out of any money not otherwise then especially appropriated. The state mineral land commissioner shall make no charge nor shall he receive any other fees than the salary herein provided.

4146. Attorney-general ex officio commissioner.

SEC. 6. The attorney-general of this state is hereby made ex officio mineral land commissioner.

4147. State mineralogist, if appointed, to furnish information.

SEC. 7. In the event of the lawful appointment of a state mineralogist, it shall be the duty of said state mineralogist to furnish to the mineral land commissioner, upon his written request therefor, the information and data specified in section 2 of this act, and if necessary, or desired, any such other information relative thereto that said state mineralogist may, by diligent search and inquiry, be able to ascertain.

The general appropriation acts passed at each biennial session of the legislature are confined to the purposes of carrying on the state government for two years, and are limited to that time, and to the liabilities incurred during these years. The unexpended balances against which no warrants have been drawn are considered as having lapsed and are carried to the general fund of the treasury. The controller therefore properly refused to settle a liability incurred during the twenty-second fiscal year from a fund appropriated for the support of the government during the twenty-third and twenty-fourth fiscal years. State ex rel. Wilkins v. Hallock, 20 Nev. 73, 74 (15 P. 472).

4157. Controller to keep accounts and receive revenue—Examine and settle accounts with county treasurers—Certify amounts to state treasurer.

SEC. 4. He shall keep and state all accounts between the State of Nevada and the United States, or any state or territory, or any individual, corporation, or public officer of this state, indebted to the state, or intrusted with the collection, disbursement, or management of any moneys, funds or interests, arising therefrom, belonging to the state, of every character and description whatsoever, where the same are derivable from or payable into the state treasury. He shall examine and settle the accounts of all county treasurers, and other collectors and receivers of all state revenues, taxes, tolls, and incomes, levied or collected by any act of the legislature and payable into the state treasury, and certify the amount or balance to the state treasurer. He shall keep fair, clear, distinct, and separate accounts of all the revenues and incomes of the state, and also, all the expenditures, disbursements, and investments thereof, showing the particulars of every expenditure, disbursement, and investment.

Treasurer to report to controller monthly, sec. 4365.

This office is one of public trust, and is conferred upon the individual for the benefit of the public. State ex rel. Drake v. Hobart, 12 Nev. 412.

If the acts which the controller refuses to perform concern the public interests and are such as the law requires to be performed by him, the writ of mandamus should issue to compel the performance of such duty. Idem.

4158. Authorized to audit and allow claims—May examine witnesses and documentary evidence—Draw warrants on treasurer.

SEC. 5. He shall audit all claims against the state, for the payment of which an appropriation has been made, but of which the amount has not been definitely fixed by law, and which shall have been examined and passed upon by the board of examiners, or which shall have been presented to said board, and not examined and passed upon by them within thirty days from their presentation; and he shall allow of said last-mentioned claims (not passed upon by the board of examiners within said thirty days after presentation), the whole, or such portion thereof as he shall deem just and legal, and of claims examined and passed upon by the board of examiners, such an amount as he shall decree just and legal, not exceeding the amount allowed by said board. And no claim for services rendered or advances made to the state or any officer thereof, shall be audited or allowed unless such services or advancement shall have been specially authorized by law, and an appropriation made for its payment. For the purpose of satisfying himself of the justness and legality of any claim, he shall be allowed to examine witnesses under oath and to receive and consider documentary evidence in addition to that furnished him by the board of examiners. He shall draw warrants on the treasurer for such amounts as he shall allow of claims of the character above described, and also for all claims of which the amount has been definitely fixed by law, and for the payment of which an appropriation shall have been made. As amended, Stats. 1869, 158.

Duty in relation to deficiency claims, sec. 4467.

Constitutional duties of controller. The official name of "State Controller," as used in the constitution, implies recognized duties appurtenant thereto, and means a supervising officer of revenue—among whose duties is the final auditing and settling of all claims against the state. State ex rel. Lewis v. Doron, 5 Nev. 399.

Concurrence of examiners and controller. So far as the examination of claims against the state is concerned, the board of examiners assist the controller, acting concurrently; but they do not deprive him of his constitutional power or any portion of it. Each moves in a designated sphere—all tending to the desired result: the protection of the revenues of the state. Idem.

See sec. 312.

See State ex rel. Drake v. Hobart, under sec. 4 of this act.

It is the duty of the controller to refuse to draw his warrant for any money that is to be used for unconstitutional purposes. State ex rel. Nevada Orphan Asylum v. Hallock, 16 Nev. 373.

Where a sum has been appropriated by the legislature providing for the payment to the lieutenant-governor of a salary in solido as ex officio adjutant-general and state librarian and another is appointed, controller is justified in refusing to audit a compensation allowed such substituted official by the board of examiners, as the appropriation has become inoperative. State ex rel. Gallup v. Hallock, 19 Nev. 372-375 (12 P. 488).

A claim for services rendered, not authorized by law and allowed by the board of examiners, cannot be paid out of the contingent expense fund, which is an appropriation for particular purposes designated in the act making the appropriation, and the payment of such claim is forbidden by this section. State ex rel. Coffin v. Horton, 21 Nev. 466, 468 (34 P. 316).

Cited, State ex rel. Cutting v. La Grave, 23 Nev. 92 (42 P. 797).

The mere fact that money is appropriated for an officer's salary does not of itself make that money payable to any particular person. There must still be some authority to justify the controller in drawing a warrant for it, or the treasurer in paying it out. State ex rel. Cutting v. La Grave, 23 Nev. 120, 126 (43 P. 470).

4159. To draw all warrants—Particular fund to express—Must be unexhausted appropriation—Keep accounts with all appropriations.

SEC. 6. He shall draw all warrants upon the treasury for money, and each warrant shall express, in the body thereof, the particular fund out of which the same is to be paid, and no warrant shall be drawn on the treasury except there be an unexhausted specific appropriation, by law, to meet the same. The controller shall keep an account of all warrants by him drawn on the treasury, and a separate account under the head of each specific appropriation, in such form and manner as at all times to show the unexpended balance of each appropriation.

See State ex rel. Drake v. Hobart, under sec. 4 of this act.

See State ex rel. Gallup v. Hallock, under sec. 5 of this act.

To constitute an appropriation of state moneys by legislative act, there must be money placed in the fund applicable to the designated purpose. An appropriation means the setting apart of a portion of the public funds for a specific public purpose. No particular form of words is necessary if the intention to appropriate is plainly manifest. State ex rel. Pyne v. La Grave, 23 Nev. 27, 28 (62 A. S. 764, 41 P. 1075).

Cited, State ex rel. Davis v. Eggers, 29 Nev. 486, 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 630, 91 P. 819; State ex rel. Fowler v. Eggers, 33 Nev. — (112 P. 701).

4160. To direct the prosecution of suits for money due state—Superintendent collections.

SEC. 7. He shall direct the attorney-general to institute and prosecute in the name of the state, all proper suits for the recovery of any debts, moneys, or property of the state, or for the ascertainment of any right or liability concerning the same. He shall direct and superintend the collection of all moneys due to the state.

See secs. 4162, 4172.

Has control of certain suits against county auditors, sec. 3685.

See State ex rel. Coffin v. Horton, under sec. 5 of this act.

The controller alone has authority to institute and prosecute actions for the collection of public revenues, and to direct and superintend the collection of all moneys due to the state. State ex rel. Coffin v. Horton, 21 Nev. 466 (34 P. 316).

4161. To state accounts against persons failing to settle—Damages and interest added.

SEC. 8. Whenever any officer, or other person or persons, or corporation, has received moneys belonging to the state, or has been intrusted with the collection, management or disbursement of any moneys, bonds, or interest, accruing therefrom, belonging in a like manner to, or held in trust by, the state, and shall fail to render an account thereof to, and make settlement with the controller, within the time prescribed by law, or where no particular time is prescribed, shall fail to render such account and make settlement, upon being required to do so by the controller, within ten days after such requisition, the controller shall state an account against such officer or person, charging twenty-five per cent damages, and interest at the rate of two per cent per month, from the time of failing to render an account and settle, as aforesaid.

This section declared unconstitutional, see State v. Hoadley, 20 Nev. 317, under sec. 275, ante.

4162. To direct the prosecution of suits for indebtedness to state—Attorney-general to bring.

SEC. 9. Whenever any officer, or other person or persons, or corporation, shall be indebted to the state, and fail or refuse to make settlement with the controller, as in this act required, and shall fail to pay over to the treasurer, on the printed or written order of the controller, according to the provisions of this act, the amount or balance to be paid by such officer, or other person or persons, or corporation, into the treasury, or to such person or persons entitled by law to receive the same, within the time prescribed by law, or if no time be prescribed by law, then within the time specified by such controller, the controller, upon being notified by such treasurer, or otherwise, of such failure, shall direct the attorney-general to institute suit for the recovery of the amount due and unpaid, with damages and interest thereon, against such officer, or other person or persons, or corporation.

See sec. 4172.

SEC. 10. A copy of the account, in such case, made out and certified by the controller, with his official seal affixed thereto, shall be sufficient evidence to support an action in any court of competent jurisdiction, for the amount or balance stated therein to be due, without proof of the signature or official character of such controller, subject, however, to the right of the defendant to plead and give in evidence, as in other actions, all such matters as shall be legal and proper for his defense or discharge.

4164. Idem—Party subject to costs, when—Deceased debtor.

SEC. 11. The party thus sued shall be subject to the costs and charges of suit, whether the ultimate decision be against him or in his favor, except in cases in which he shall have rendered a true account, and shall also have paid the full amount to the proper person authorized by law to receive the same, before the commencement of said suit, or where the suit is brought to recover against a deceased debtor to the state, before the expiration of the time prescribed by law, within which representatives are allowed by law to administer upon estates.

4165. Idem—Person subject to costs, when—Failure to inform controller.

SEC. 12. If any defendant in any suit prosecuted at the instance of the controller, under the provisions of this act, shall, at the trial, give any evidence which existed prior to the time, and within the knowledge of the defendant at the time of such adjustment and settlement of his accounts, and which was not produced to said controller at the time of said settlement, such defendant shall be subject to the costs and charges of said suit, whether the ultimate decision be against him or in his favor.

4166. Duty to keep and preserve books, records and other property of his office or of the state.

SEC. 13. It shall be the duty of the controller to keep and preserve all public books, records, papers, documents, vouchers, and all conveyances, leases, mortgages, bonds, and all securities for debts, moneys, or property, and accounts and property of any description belonging or appertaining to his office, and also to the state, where no other provision is made by law for the safe keeping of the same.

4167. To give information to either house of legislature—Other duties.

4172. Controller to keep indexed accounts with all debtors of the state—Enforce payment by suit.

SEC. 19. The controller shall charge and enter in a proper book or books, to be provided for that purpose, under distinct heads for each debtor, or disburser, or holder of public moneys, or dues to the state, of all and every description whatever, with a suitable index arranged in alphabetical order, of all such persons, corporations, states, or the United States, as soon as such liabilities or indebtedness shall come officially to his knowledge, charging such officer, person, or persons, corporations, states, or the United States, with the amount or amounts of such liabilities, stating whether such dues be in money, property, or securities of any kind; and particularly of all collectors of the public revenues of the state, and all dues to the state, whether money, property, securities, or other things, from any and all sources whatever, as soon as the same is due by law; or if no time be stipulated or fixed by law, then as soon after twenty days' notice as said controller shall require the same to be paid, said controller shall audit and state and require payment thereof; and if not paid, to proceed as directed by this act, by suit, for the collection of the same.

The act of 1887, 97, requiring the surveyor-general to make a survey of all railroads in the state, was cited in connection with the following:

The mere existence of a disputed boundary between counties is insufficient to give a court of equity jurisdiction of the question. The fact that the defendant county is claiming jurisdiction over a part of plaintiff's territory, is collecting taxes therein, and claims the right so to do, is insufficient for this purpose. Humboldt Co. v. Lander Co., 22 Nev. 248, 256 (58 A. S. 750, 26 L. R. A. 729, 38 P. 578).

The placing of the monuments by the surveyor-general, as prescribed in said act, did not change the boundary from the line originally established by the counties jointly, since said act did not authorize the establishing of new county lines, or the changing of county lines already established. Humboldt Co. v. Lander Co., 24 Nev. 461, 471, 473 (56 P. 228).

The fact that for six years after the placing of the monument the county within whose limits the original boundary located the track did not assess it, and acquiesced in its assessment by the other county, did not estop it from claiming the original line as the correct boundary where it continued to assess all other property within the disputed tract. Idem.

By Stats. 1893, 32, that portion of this act making the superintendent of public instruction ex officio librarian and clerk was repealed and these positions were attached to the office of secretary of state, but nothing was said in regard to superintendent's salary as curator and secretary. It was held that the superintendent was not entitled to receive any of the compensation attaching in solido to the four ex officio offices. State ex rel. Cutting v. La Grave, 23 Nev. 120, 123-126 (43 P. 470).

Cited, Sadler v. State, 23 Nev. 141 (43 P. 915).

The lieutenant-governor, upon the death of the governor, becomes acting governor, and entitled to receive the salary attached to that office. State ex rel. Sadler v. La Grave, 23 Nev. 216, 222-225 (35 L. R. A. 233, 45 P. 243).

Sections 2 and 3 of Stats. 1883, 78, providing that the clerk of the supreme court shall prepare the decisions of the court for publication and shall receive for his compensation as reporter of such decisions $600 a year, was not repealed, in so far as it provides compensation for the clerk's services as reporter by this statute and Stats. 1893, 32, providing that the secretary of state shall be ex officio clerk of the supreme court. State ex rel. Howell v. La Grave, 23 Nev. 373, 378-381 (48 P. 674).

Petitioner's term of office as secretary of state and ex officio clerk of the supreme court began January, 1895, hence this act and the act of 1883, 78, and the act of 1893, 32, were all passed prior to the term for which he was elected. Therefore, Const., sec. 377, ante, is not applicable to such state of facts. Idem.

The office of secretary of state, of ex officio clerk of the supreme court, and of reporter of decisions of the supreme court, are separate and distinct offices, and their being vested in the same person does not change their nature in this respect. Idem.

Petitioner's several offices being distinct, the annual compensation allowed him as reporter of supreme court decisions is not a fee or perquisite within the provisions of Const., sec. 389. Idem.

The office of clerk of the supreme court was not abolished by its omission from the amendment of 1889 to Const., sec. 290, and the failure of the legislature to reestablish it, but continued as a constitutional office under the provision made pursuant to the original constitution; and hence Stats. 1883, 32, providing that the secretary of state should be ex officio clerk of the supreme court, was effective. Idem.

An Act fixing the salaries of certain deputies in state offices.

4395. Salary of deputy secretary of state—Proviso.

SECTION 1. From and after the passage of this act the salary of the deputy secretary of state shall be two thousand four hundred dollars per annum, payable out of the general fund; provided, that the said deputy secretary of state shall not receive any additional compensation for services as clerk of the board of prison commissioners, clerk of the board of examiners, or as clerk or deputy of any other board or commission.

4396. Salary of deputy attorney-general.

SEC. 2. The salary of one deputy attorney-general is hereby fixed at twenty-four hundred dollars per annum, payable out of the general fund in the same manner as salaries of other state officers are paid.

See sec. 4392.

The intent of this section was that the deputy attorney-general should be paid monthly in the future, and an incumbent who, during the part of the year before approval of the act, had acted as stenographer in the attorney-general's office drawing a salary therefor, and had also acted as deputy attorney-general under a previous statute not providing compensation for such office, was not entitled to receive the designated salary for the portion of the year previous to its passage. State ex rel. Fowler v. Eggers, 33 Nev. — (112 P. 699).

Words in a statute simply specifying that an officer shall receive a designated compensation have no retroactive effect, unless there is something in the language indicating it. Idem.

The setting apart in a general appropriation bill of various funds to cover payment of salaries and other expenses of the state government, while it may reserve the money for that purpose, does not, in itself, authorize the payment of the money from the fund. Idem.

An Act authorizing the payment of the salaries of officers fixed by law.

4399. Salary payable monthly—Never in advance.

SECTION 1. All state officers whose salaries are fixed by law shall be entitled, from and after the passage of this act, to receive same on the first of each calendar month; provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed to mean the payment of salaries in advance.

4400. Salaries, how paid.

SEC. 2. The controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrant, and the state treasurer to pay same, in accordance with the first section of this act.

No money can be drawn from the treasury as compensation to an officer of the legislature, except when the compensation has been fixed by a law in force prior to the election of such officer (Const., sec. 286, ante). State ex rel. King v. Hallock, 16 Nev. 152.

Board of capitol commissioners may fix salaries of janitor, gardener and night watchman at amount not exceeding $110 per month, sec. 4420.

Under a previous act creating a publicity commission (Stats. 1907, 408), it was held that the act constituted a sufficient appropriation of the salary of the chairman; but, as it failed to prescribe any maximum expenditure for traveling expenses, the act was void in so far as it authorized payment of such expenses by the state, under Const., sec. 277, ante. State ex rel. Davis v. Eggers, 29 Nev. 469, 472, 485, 486, 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 630, 91 P. 819.

If it shall in a like manner be found that any regulation, measurement, practice, act or service complained is unjust, unreasonable, insufficient, preferential, unjustly discriminatory, or otherwise in violation of the provisions of this act, or if it be found that the service is inadequate, or that any reasonable service cannot be obtained, the commission shall have power to substitute therefor such other regulations, measurements, practices, service or acts, and make such order relating thereto as may be just and reasonable.

(b) When complaint is made of more than one rate, charge or practice, the commission may, in its discretion, order separate hearings upon the several matters complained of and at such times and places as it may prescribe. The commission may at any time, upon its own motion, investigate any of the rates, tolls, charges, rules, regulations, practices and service, and after a full hearing as above provided, by order make such changes as may be just and reasonable, the same as if a formal complaint had been made.

The commission and other parties defendant shall file their answers to said complaint within thirty (30) days after the service thereof, whereupon such action shall be at issue and stand ready for trial upon twenty (20) days' notice to either party.

(a) No injunction shall issue suspending or staying any order of the commission except upon application to the court or judge thereof, notice to the commission having been first given and hearing having been had thereon; provided, that all rates fixed by the commission shall be deemed reasonable and just, and shall remain in full force and effect until final determination by the courts having jurisdiction.

(b) If, upon the trial of such action, evidence shall be introduced by the plaintiff which is found by the court to be different from that offered upon the hearing before the commission, or additional thereto, the court, before proceeding to render judgment, unless the parties to such action stipulate in writing to the contrary, shall transmit a copy of such evidence to the commission, and shall stay further proceedings in said action for fifteen (15) days from the date of such transmission. Upon receipt of such evidence the commission shall consider the same, and may later modify, amend or rescind its order relating to such rate or rates, fares, charges, classifications, joint rate or rates, regulation, practice or service complained of in said action, and shall report its action thereon to said court within ten days from the receipt of such evidence.

(c) If the commission shall rescind its order complained of, the action shall be dismissed; if it shall alter, modify or amend the same, such altered, modified or amended order shall take the place of the original order complained of, and judgment shall be rendered thereon, as though made by the commission in the first instance. If the original order shall not be rescinded or changed by the commission, judgment shall be rendered upon such original order.

(d) Either party to said action within sixty (60) days after service of a copy of the order or judgment of the court may appeal or take the case up on error as in other civil actions. Where an appeal is taken to the supreme court of Nevada the cause shall, on the return of the papers to the higher court, be immediately placed on the calendar of the then pending term, and shall be assigned and brought to a hearing in the same manner as other causes on the calendar.

(e) In all actions under this act the burden of proof shall be upon the party attacking or resisting the order of the commission to show by clear and satisfactory evidence that the order is unlawful, or unreasonable, as the case may be.

4541. Notice of serious accidents given commission—Investigation.

SEC. 27. Every public utility shall, whenever an accident occurs in the conduct of its operations, causing death or personal injuries, give immediate notice thereof to the commission. If in its judgment the public interest requires it, the commission shall cause an investigation to be made forthwith, at such place and in such manner as the commission shall deem it best.

4542. Penalties for public utility violating this act.

SEC. 28. If any public utility shall violate any provision of this act, or shall do any act herein prohibited, or shall fail, or refuse to perform any duty enjoined upon it, or upon failure of any public utility to place in operation any rate or joint rate, or do any act herein prohibited, for which a penalty has not been provided, or shall fail, neglect, or refuse to obey any lawful requirement or order made by the commission or any court for every such violation, failure or refusal, such public utility shall be subject to the penalty prescribed by section 8 of this act.

4543. All reports to commission must be sworn to—False oath perjury.

SEC. 29. Every annual report, record or statement required by this act to be made to the commission shall be sworn to by the proper officer, agent or person in charge of such public utility. Any intentionally false oath as to the correctness of such report, record or statement, shall be deemed perjury, and the person making such false oath shall, upon conviction, be punished as in the case of other perjuries.

In addition to all the other remedies provided by this act for the prevention and punishment of any and all violations of the provisions thereof, and all orders of the commission, the commission may compel compliance with the provisions of this act and of the orders of the commission by proceedings in mandamus, injunction, or by other civil remedies.

SECTION 1. A railroad commission is hereby created, to be composed of three commissioners. The governor, the lieutenant-governor, and the attorney-general shall constitute a railroad board for the purpose of appointing such commissioners. A majority of the members of said railroad board may perform all the duties required of such board. Within thirty days after the passage of this act the railroad board shall appoint such commissioners and designate the term of each, and they shall hold until their successors are appointed. The term of one such appointee shall terminate on the first Monday in February, 1909; the term of the second such appointee shall terminate on the first Monday in February, 1910; and the term of the third such appointee shall terminate on the first Monday in February, 1911. On the second Monday in January, 1909, and annually thereafter, there shall be appointed, in the same manner, one commissioner for the term of three years from the first Monday in February of such year. Each commissioner so appointed shall hold office until his successor is appointed and qualified. Any vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the railroad board.

(a) One commissioner, who shall be designated as chief commissioner and shall be chairman of the commission, shall be an attorney at law, and well versed in the law of railroad regulation; one to be designated as first associate commissioner shall be a practical railroad man familiar with the operation of railroads generally; the third to be designated as the second associate commissioner, shall be a business man having a general knowledge of fares and freights, tolls and charges, as levied by the railroads, and all common carriers included within the term "railroad" as defined in this act. Each commissioner, as herein designated, shall have an equal voice and vote upon all questions whereon the commission is required to or may act as a body. A majority of said commission shall have full power to act in all matters within its jurisdiction, and in the event of two of the commissioners being disabled or disqualified from acting, or in the event of there being two vacancies at the same time in the commission, the remaining commissioner shall have power to do all the acts and things which a majority of the commission might do, and his official acts shall stand as the acts of the commission. At no time shall more than two of said commissioners be members of the same political party.

(b) The railroad board may at any time remove any commissioner for any inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office. Before such removal it shall give such commissioner a copy of the charges made against him and shall fix a time when he can be heard in his own defense, which shall not be less than ten days thereafter, and said hearing shall be open to the public. If he shall be removed the railroad board shall file in the office of the secretary of state a complete statement of all charges made against such commissioner and findings thereon, with the record of the proceedings.

(c) No person so appointed shall be pecuniarily interested in any railroad in this state or elsewhere, and if any such commissioner shall voluntarily become so interested, his office shall ipso facto become vacant; and if he shall become so interested otherwise than voluntarily, he shall, within a reasonable time, divest himself of such interest, and failing to do so his office shall become vacant and the railroad board shall proceed as provided for in section 1, subdivision b, of this act.

(d) Whenever a complaint is made to the commission of a violation of any of the provisions of this act, or of any order of the commission, it shall, within four months, commence investigation of said charge, and shall determine the same within six months, unless the person preferring said charges shall agree in writing to a longer time. A failure to comply with this provision shall ipso facto render the office of each of the commissioners vacant, and the railroad board shall appoint new commissioners as provided for by this act.

(e) Neither the chief commissioner nor the first associate commissioner shall hold any other office or position of profit, or pursue any other regular business or vocation. These limitations and restrictions shall not apply to the second associate commissioner, but none of the commissioners shall be a member of any political convention, or a member of any committee of any political party.

(f) Before entering upon the duties of his office, each of said commissioners shall take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office, and shall in addition thereto swear (or affirm) that he is not pecuniarily interested in any railroad in this state or elsewhere, or common carrier, which oath or affirmation shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state.

(g) The chief commissioner shall receive a salary of $5,000 per annum, the first associate commissioner shall receive a salary of $4,000 per annum, and the second associate commissioner shall receive a salary of $2,500 per annum, all payable in the same manner as the salaries of other state officers are paid.

(h) Said commission may appoint a secretary, who shall be an expert rate man at a salary of not more than $2,400 per annum and may employ such other clerks and experts as may be necessary to perform any service it may require of them, and shall fix their compensation.

(i) The secretary shall take and subscribe to an oath similar to that of the commissioners, and shall keep full and correct records of all transactions and proceedings of the commission, and shall perform such other duties as may be required by the commission. Any person ineligible to the office of commissioner shall be ineligible to the office of secretary.

(j) The commission shall be known collectively as the "Railroad Commission of Nevada," and in that name may sue and be sued. It shall have a seal with the words "Railroad Commission of Nevada," and such other design as the commission may prescribe engraved thereon, by which it shall authenticate its proceedings, and of which the courts shall take judicial notice.

(k) The commission shall keep its office at Carson City, and shall be provided by the board of capitol commissioners with suitable room or rooms, necessary office furniture, supplies, stationery, books, periodicals, maps, and all necessary expenses shall be audited and paid as other state expenses are audited and paid. The commission may hold sessions at any place other than its office, when the convenience of the parties so requires. The commissioners and secretary and such other clerks and experts as may be employed shall be entitled to receive from the state their necessary expenses while traveling on the business of the commission, including the cost of lodging and subsistence. Such expenditure shall be sworn to by the person who incurred the expense, and be approved by the chairman of the commission.

(l) The commission shall have the power to adopt and publish rules to govern its proceedings, and to regulate the mode and manner of all investigations and hearings of railroads and other parties before it, and all hearings shall be open to the public.

(m) The commission may confer by correspondence, or by attending conventions, or otherwise, with the railroad commissioners of other states, and with the interstate commerce commission on any matters relating to railroads. All necessary expenses incurred in attending such conventions shall be a charge against the state, and be audited and paid as other state claims are paid; provided, that all such claims shall be sworn to by the commissioner incurring the expense, and be approved by the chairman.

(n) Nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to affect the date of the beginning or ending of the term of any commissioner now in office, or to change the dates of future appointments from those now prescribed by law, but from and after the passage of this amendatory act the commissioner now designated as the one who shall not hold any other office or position of profit, or pursue any other business or vocation, or serve on or under any committee of any party, but shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office, shall be officially designated "Chief Commissioner," and be paid the salary herein prescribed and the commissioner whose term began on the first Monday in February, 1911, shall be officially designated "First Associate Commissioner," and the salary paid him as herein prescribed. The salaries herein provided for shall be deemed and considered full compensation for all services rendered by the members of the commission, whether as railroad commissioners or in any other official or ex officio capacity. As amended, Stats. 1909, 131; 1911, 376.

Const., sec. 275, ante, applies to the subject and not to the effect of a law, and if the necessary effect of a statute is to repeal previous legislation on the same subject it does no violence to such provision by failing to specifically express such repeal in its title, nor is it necessary that a general provision expressly repealing prior inconsistent legislation on the same subject should be mentioned in the title. Southern Pac. Co., et al., v. Bartine, et al., 170 Fed. 725.

The inclusion in a statute of a section foreign to the subject of the act and not mentioned in its title does not invalidate the remainder of the act, although it may itself be void. Idem.

Said section does not apply to a new act which is complete in itself and which does not purport to be amendatory of any previous act and does not require a reference to any other law to discover its scope or meaning. Such an act is not amendatory within the meaning of the provision, although in general terms it repeals all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with its provisions. Idem.

This act is not amendatory, but is a complete act covering the entire subject, which is not unconstitutional because it does not reenact or publish at length former statutes, but which supersedes and by implication repeals all former legislation on the subject. Idem.

The provision of this section that the governor, lieutenant-governor, and attorney-general of the state shall constitute a railroad board for the purpose of appointing the members of a railroad commission thereby created, is not the appointment of such state officers to a new office and a violation of the state constitution as the exercise of an executive function, but merely imposes new duties on such officers, and is a valid exercise of legislative power, especially in view of the fact that the constitution nowhere vests the governor with sole appointive power, but merely provides that he shall be the "chief executive" (ante, sec. 294), and also provides in art. 15, sec. 10, that "all officers whose election or appointment is not otherwise provided for shall be chosen or appointed as may be prescribed by law" (ante, sec. 378). Idem.

SEC. 2. The term "railroad" as used herein, shall mean and embrace all corporations, companies, individuals, associations of individuals, their lessees, trustees or receivers (appointed by any court whatsoever) that now, or may hereafter, own, operate, manage or control any railroad or part of a railroad as a common carrier in this state, or cars, or other equipment used thereon, or bridges, terminals, or sidetracks, or any docks or wharves or storage elevators used in connection therewith, whether owned by such railroads or otherwise. The term "railroad," whenever used herein, shall mean and embrace express companies, telegraph and telephone companies, and all companies which may own cars of any kind or character, used and operated as a part of railroad trains, in or through this state, and all duties required of and penalties imposed upon any railroad or any officer or agent thereof shall, in so far as the same are applicable, be required of and imposed upon express companies, telegraph and telephone companies, and companies which may own cars of any kind or character, used and operated as a part of railroad trains in or through this state, and their officers and agents, and the commission shall have the power of supervision and control of all such companies to the same extent as of railroads.

(a) The provisions of this act shall apply to the transportation of passengers and property and the transmission of messages between points within the state, and to the receiving, switching, delivering, storing and hauling of such property, and receiving and delivering messages, and to all charges connected therewith, including icing charges and mileage charges, and shall apply to all railroads, corporations, express companies, car companies, freight and freight-line companies, and to all associations of persons, whether incorporated or otherwise, that shall do business as common carriers, upon or over any line of railroad within this state, and to any common carrier engaged in the transportation of passengers and property, wholly by rail, or partly by rail and partly by water. As amended, Stats. 1909, 133.

4551. Adequate service required for reasonable charge.

SEC. 3. Every railroad is hereby required to furnish reasonably adequate service and facilities, and the charges made for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property or for any service in connection therewith, or for the receiving, switching, delivering, storing or handling of such property, shall be reasonable and just, and every unjust and unreasonable charge for such service is prohibited and declared to be unlawful.

4552. Railroads to furnish schedules—Open to public inspection—What to state and include—Copies to be kept on file in depots and offices—Joint rates—Changes not to be made without notice to commission—Notice of changes given to public—Unlawful to make greater or less charge than given in schedule—Form of schedule.

SEC. 4. Every railroad shall print in plain type, and file with the commission within a time fixed by the commission, schedules which shall be open to public inspection, showing all rates, fares and charges for the transportation of passengers and property, and any service in connection therewith, which it has established and which are in force at the time between all points in this state upon its line, or any line controlled or operated by it, and the rates, fares and charges shown on such schedules as are in effect at the date this act takes effect. The schedule printed as aforesaid shall plainly state the charges upon its line or any line controlled or operated by it in this state between which passengers and property will be carried, and there shall be filed therewith the classifications of freight in force. Every railroad shall publish with and as a part of such schedules all rules and regulations that in any manner affect the rates charged or to be charged for the transportation of passengers or property, also its charges for delay in unloading or loading cars, for track and car service, or rental, and for demurrage, switching, terminal or transfer service, or for rendering any other service in connection with the transportation of persons or property. Two copies of said schedules for the use of the public shall be filed and kept on file in every depot, station and office of such railroad where passengers or freight are received for transportation in such form and place as to be accessible to the public and where they can be conveniently inspected. When passengers or property are transported over connecting lines in this state operated by more than one railroad, and the several railroads operating such lines establish joint rates, fares and charges, a schedule of joint rates shall also in like manner be printed and filed with the commission, and in every depot, station, and office of such railroads where such passengers or property are received for transportation.

(a) No change shall thereafter be made in any schedule, including schedule of joint rates, or in any classification, except upon thirty days' notice to the commission, and all such changes shall be plainly indicated upon existing schedules, or by filing new schedules in lieu thereof thirty days prior to the time the same are to take effect; provided, that the commission, upon application of any railroad, may prescribe a less time within which a reduction may be made. Copies of all new schedules shall be filed as hereinbefore provided in every depot, station and office of such railroad ten days prior to the time the same are to take effect, unless the commission shall prescribe a less time.

(b) Whenever a change is made in any existing schedule, including schedule of joint rates, a notice shall be posted by the railroad in a conspicuous place in every depot, station and office, stating that changes have been made in the schedule on file, specifying the class or commodity affected and the date when the same will take effect.

(c) It shall be unlawful for any railroads to charge, demand, collect or receive a greater or less compensation for the transportation of passengers, property, or for any service in connection therewith, than is specified in such printed schedule, including schedules of joint rates, as may at the time be in force, and the rates, fares and charges named therein shall be the lawful rates, fares and charges until the same are changed as herein provided.

(d) The commission may prescribe such changes in the form in which the schedules are issued by the railroad as may be found expedient, and such schedules shall, as far as practicable, conform to the forms prescribed by the interstate commerce commission.

4553. Joint rates to be just and reasonable—May be less than local charge.

SEC. 5. Whenever passengers or property are transported over two or more connecting lines of railroads between points in this state, and the railroad companies have made joint rates for the transportation of the same, such rates and all charges in connection therewith shall be just and reasonable, and every unjust and unreasonable charge is prohibited and declared to be unlawful; provided, that a less charge by each of said railroads for its proportion of said joint rates than is made locally between the same points on their respective lines shall not for that reason be construed as a violation of the provisions of this act, nor render such railroads liable to any of the penalties thereof.

4554. Concentration, commodity, transit and other special contract rates.

SEC. 6. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent concentration, commodity, transit and other special contract rates, but all such rates shall be open to all shippers of a like kind of traffic under similar circumstances and conditions, and shall be subject to the provisions of this act as to the printing and filing of the same; provided, all such rates shall be under the supervision and regulation of the commission.

4555. Powers of commission to regulate freights and fares—Transmission of telegraph and telephone messages—Joint rates—Physical condition—Safety appliances—Crossings—Changes in service—Transfer tracks—Long and short haul.

SEC. 7. The commission shall have full power to prescribe just and reasonable railroad classifications of freight; and to fix just and reasonable charges for the transportation of all intrastate freight and intrastate passengers, for sleeping-car accommodations, for goods, merchandise, and all matter of every kind carried by express companies within this state, for the transmission of messages by telegraph companies, and for the use of telephone lines within the state. The commission shall also have power to make just and reasonable regulations for the apportionment of all such charges between two or more companies jointly engaged in the transportation of freight, passengers, express matter, telegraph or telephone messages.

The commission shall also have full power to investigate the physical condition of all railroad property, and, in the interest of safety or service, shall have power to determine and order repairs, reinforcements or reconstruction of property, including buildings, tracks, and equipment; also the power to determine and order the use of safety appliances in the interest of employees and the traveling public, such as crossing-gates, flagmen, bells, devices, etc., interlocking plants at railway crossings and all other modern safety devices. The commission shall have full power to determine and order the manner in which any railroad, street railway, steam or electric railway, or other common carrier, may cross another railroad, street railway, whatever the motive power, at grade, or above or below grade, and shall prescribe the safety appliances and regulations that should be adopted at such crossings or at existing grade crossings of railroads, steam, electric, or other motive power railways for the protection of the public and the prevention of accidents. The commission shall have the power whenever, in its judgment, it shall appear wise and proper to do so, to authorize and direct reasonable changes in train schedules and train service.

The commission shall have power to determine and order the construction of connecting or transfer tracks between two or more lines of railway, which may now or hereafter enter or pass through any town or city in this state. The expense of said construction of such tracks to be divided between and paid by the corporations operating said railways.

It shall be the duty of all railroad corporations whose tracks shall be so connected reciprocally to transfer cars from one railroad to the other upon demand of shippers or the railroad concerned, and for which transfer service reasonable charges may be made.

Nothing in this act shall be construed so as to allow any railroad to charge more for a shorter than for a longer haul, either for passengers or freight, when the shorter haul is included within the longer, or to authorize the commission to allow such charge to be made.

Original section 7 repealed, and new section enacted (Stats. 1909, 134).

A state has power, either through its legislature or a commission, to regulate the rates of charge of common carriers on intrastate business, subject to the limitation that such rates must be reasonable and afford to the carrier just and reasonable compensation for the services performed and for the use of the property devoted to the business, estimated at its fair valuation. Southern Pac. Co., et al., v. Bartine, et al., 170 Fed. 725.

In estimating the value of the property of a railroad company for the purpose of determining the reasonableness of rates fixed by a state, neither the market value of its stocks and bonds, the cost of construction, nor the cost of reproduction of the property is absolutely controlling, but each should be regarded as a fact tending to show fair value, and, if one only of such facts is shown, it may be assumed that it represents such value. Idem.

In determining the reasonableness of freight rates fixed by a state on intrastate business, as applied to a railroad doing both intrastate and interstate business, it must be recognized that the cost of handling local shipments is relatively greater than through shipments, and, it being impossible to determine the exact ratio of difference, the opinions of experts based upon the facts of each particular case are admissible on the question. Idem.

In a suit for an injunction in a federal court the amount in dispute for jurisdictional purposes is the value of the right to be protected, and, where the requisite value is alleged and not denied, it is immaterial how much, or whether any, actual loss has been sustained. Idem.

It does not necessarily follow that a schedule of maximum freight rates is confiscatory and unconstitutional because it fails to yield to a railroad company a reasonable return on the investment. Such rates must be reasonable, not only to the company but also to the public, and the fact that they do not prove remunerative to a new road built through a sparsely settled country where there is at present little local business, does not require the few people and the small business to pay such rates as will make the road immediately profitable to its stockholders. Idem.

In suits by various railroad companies to enjoin the enforcement of this act, evidence considered, and, except in the case of one complainant, held insufficient to show that such maximum rates, if adopted and enforced, would be unconstitutional as confiscatory. Idem.

The fixing of railroad rates by a state through whatever body, and although preceded by an investigation judicial in form, is a legislative and not a judicial act, and a statute authorizing the fixing of rates by a railroad commission is not invalid as an attempt to confer judicial power on the commission in violation of a provision of the state constitution. Idem.

This act, to fix just and reasonable rates to be charged by such company, is not unconstitutional as denying to some railroad companies the equal protection of the laws because the rates so prescribed may not be the same to all companies. Idem.

4556. Certain freight may be carried free—Passes or reduced rates allowed to certain persons—Attendants allowed on stock trains—No discrimination.

SEC. 8. Nothing herein shall prevent the carriage, storage, or handling of freight free or at reduced rates for the United States, the state or any political subdivision thereof, or any municipality thereof, or for charitable purposes, or to and from fairs and expositions for exhibition thereat, or household goods and supplies, the property of employees, or the issuance of mileage, commutation, or excursion passengers' tickets; provided, that the same shall be obtainable by any persons applying therefor, without discrimination, or of party tickets; provided, that the same shall be obtainable by any person applying therefor under like circumstances and conditions. This act shall not be construed as preventing railroads from giving free transportation or reduced rates therefor to any minister of the gospel, constable in any county of the state, officer or agent of incorporated colleges, college professors, school teachers, students attending institutions of learning, regular agents of charitable societies when traveling upon the business of the society only, destitute or homeless persons, railroad officers, attorneys, directors, employees or members of their families, or bona fide ex-railroad employees of any steam or electric railroad in search of employment, or to prevent the exchange of passes with officers, attorneys, or employees of other railroads and members of their families.

(a) Upon any shipment of live stock or other property of such nature as to require the care of an attendant, the railroad may furnish to the shipper, or some person or persons designated by him, free transportation for such attendant, including return passage to the point at which the shipment originated; provided, that there shall be no discrimination in reference thereto between such shippers, and the commission shall have power to prescribe regulations in relation thereto. As amended, Stats. 1909, 135; 1911, 375.

SEC. 9. It shall be the duty of every railroad to provide and maintain adequate depots and depot buildings at its regular stations and establish new stations wherever required, for the accommodation of passengers, and said depot buildings shall be kept clean, well lighted and warm for the comfort and accommodation of the traveling public. All railroads shall keep and maintain adequate and suitable freight depots, wherever needed, buildings, switches and sidetracks for the receiving, handling and delivering of freight transported or to be transported by such railroad; provided, that this shall not be construed as repealing any existing law on the subject; provided, further, that to remove all doubts which have arisen upon the subject, the commission is specifically invested with full power to enforce the provisions of this section, and of this entire act. As amended, Stats. 1909, 136.

4558. Duty of railroad to furnish suitable cars—No discrimination—Proviso—Commission may make regulations.

SEC. 10. Every railroad shall, when within its power to do so, and upon reasonable notice, furnish suitable cars to any and all persons who may apply therefor, for the transportation of any and all kinds of freight in carload lots. In case of insufficiency of cars at any time to meet all requirements, such cars as are available shall be distributed among the several applicants therefor in proportion to their respective immediate requirements without discrimination between shippers or competitive or noncompetitive places; provided, preference may be given to shipments of live stock and perishable property.

(a) The commission shall have the power to enforce reasonable regulations for furnishing cars to shippers, and switching the same, and for the loading and unloading thereof, and the weighing of the cars and freight offered for shipment over any line of railroad.

4559. Connecting lines—Duties to each other—Precedence to live stock and perishable freight—When may control private tracks.

SEC. 11. All railroad companies as between themselves, and all interurban and electric railroads as between themselves and each other, shall afford all reasonable and proper facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines for forwarding and delivering passengers and property, and shall transfer and deliver without unreasonable delay or discrimination any freight or cars, loaded or empty, or any passengers destined to any point on its own or any connecting lines; provided, that precedence over other freight may be given to live stock and perishable freight.

(a) The commission shall have control over private tracks in so far as the same are used by common carriers, in connection with any railroad for the transportation of freight, in all respects the same as though such tracks were a part of the track of said railroad.

4560. Commission to act on complaints—Hearings—Process for witnesses — Power of commission to remedy — May act on own motion—Railroad may be complainant.

SEC. 12. Upon complaint of any person, firm, corporation or association, or of any mercantile, agricultural or manufacturing society, or of any body politic or municipal organization, that any of the rates, charges or classifications, or any joint rate or rates are in any respect unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, or that any regulation or practice whatsoever affecting the transportation of persons or property, or any service in connection therewith, are in any respect unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, or that any service is inadequate, the commission may notify the railroad complained of that complaint has been made, and ten days after such notice has been given the commission may proceed to investigate the same as hereinafter provided, but before proceeding to make such investigation the commission shall give the railroad and the complainants ten days' notice of the time and place when and where such matters will be considered and determined, and said parties shall be entitled to be heard and shall have process to enforce the attendance of witnesses. If upon such investigation the rate or rates, or any regulation, practice or service complained of shall be found to be unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, or the service shall be found to be inadequate, the commission shall have power to fix and order substituted therefor such rate or rates, fares, charges or classifications, as it shall have determined to be just and reasonable and which shall be charged, imposed and followed in the future, and shall also have power to make such orders respecting such regulation, practice or service, as it shall have determined to be reasonable and which shall be observed and followed in the future.

(a) The commission may, when complaint is made of more than one rate or charge, order separate hearings thereon, and may consider and determine the several matters complained of separately, and at such times as it may prescribe. No complaint shall of necessity at any time be dismissed because of the absence of direct damage to the complainant.

(b) Whenever the commission shall believe that any rate or rates or charge or charges may be unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, and that investigation relating thereto should be made, it may, upon its own motion, investigate the same. Before making such investigation it shall present to the railroad a statement in writing, setting forth the rate or charge to be investigated. Thereafter, on ten days' notice to the railroad of the time and place of such investigation, the commission may proceed to investigate such rate or charge in the same manner and make like orders in respect thereto as if such investigation had been made upon complaint.

(c) This section shall be construed to permit any railroad to make complaint with like effect as though made by any person, firm, corporation or association, mercantile, agricultural or manufacturing society, body politic or municipal organization.

4561. Each commissioner may administer oaths—Issue subpoenas—District court may enforce—Witness fees—Depositions—Record of proceedings—Transcripts to be furnished, when.

Each of the commissioners, for the purposes mentioned in this act, shall have power to administer oaths, certify to official acts, issue subpoenas, compel the attendance of witnesses, and the production of papers, way bills, books, accounts, documents and testimony. In the case of disobedience on the part of any person or persons to comply with any order of the commission or any commissioner or any subpoena, or on the refusal of any witness to testify to any matter regarding which he may be lawfully interrogated, it shall be the duty of the district court of any county, or a judge thereof, on application of a commissioner, to compel obedience by attachment proceedings for contempt, as in the case of disobedience of the requirements of a subpoena issued from such court, or a refusal to testify therein.

(a) Each witness who shall appear before the commission by its order shall receive for his attendance the fees and mileage now provided for witnesses in civil cases in courts of record, which shall be audited and paid by the state in the same manner as other expenses are audited and paid, upon the presentation of proper vouchers, sworn to by such witnesses and approved by the chairman of the commission; provided, that no witness subpoenaed at the instance of parties other than the commission shall be entitled to compensation from the state for attendance or travel unless the commission shall certify that his testimony was material to the matter investigated.

sitions of witnesses residing within or without the state to be taken in the manner prescribed by the law for like depositions in civil actions in district courts.

(c) A full and complete record shall be kept of all proceedings had before the commission or any investigation had under section 12 of this act, and all testimony shall be taken down by the stenographer appointed by the commission. Whenever any complaint is served upon the commission under the provisions of section 16 of this act the commission shall, before said action is reached for trial, cause a certified transcript of all proceedings had and testimony taken upon such investigation to be filed with the clerk of the district court of the county where the action is pending. A transcribed copy of the evidence and proceedings, or any specific part thereof, or any investigation, taken by the stenographer appointed by the commission, being certified by such stenographer to be a true and correct transcript in longhand of all testimony taken at the investigation, or of a particular witness, or of other specific part thereof, carefully compared by him with his original notes, and to be a correct statement of the evidence and proceedings had on such investigation so purporting to be taken and transcribed, shall be received in evidence with the same effect as if such reporter were present and testified to the facts so certified. A copy of such transcript shall be furnished on demand, free of cost, to any party to such investigation; and to all other persons, a copy, on payment of a reasonable amount therefor, to be fixed by the commission. As amended, Stats. 1909, 136.

All railroads to which the order applies shall make such changes in their schedule on file as may be necessary to make the same conform to said order, and no change shall thereafter be made by any railroad in any such rates, fares or charges, or in any joint rate or rates, without the approval of the commission. Certified copies of all other orders of the commission shall be delivered to the railroads affected thereby, in like manner, and the same shall take effect within such time thereafter as the commission shall prescribe.

Upon receipt of such evidence the commission shall consider the same, and may alter, modify, amend or rescind its order relating to such rate or rates, fares, charges, classifications, joint rate or rates, regulation, practice or service complained of in said action, and shall report its action thereon to said court within ten days from the receipt of such evidence.

(c) If the commission shall rescind its order complained of, the action shall be dismissed; if it shall alter, modify or amend the same, such altered, modified or amended order shall take the place of the original order complained of, and judgment shall be rendered thereon, as though made by the commission in the first instance. If the original order shall not be rescinded or changed by the commission, judgment shall be rendered upon such original order.

(d) Either party to said action within sixty (60) days after service of a copy of the order or judgment of the court may appeal or take the case up on error as in other civil actions. Where an appeal is taken the cause shall, on the return of the papers to the higher court, be immediately placed on the calendar of the then pending term, and shall be assigned and brought to a hearing in the same manner as other causes on the calendar.

Approved March 2, 1887

Section 1—Agricultural experiment stations—Division of appropriation. That in order to aid in acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful and practical information on subjects connected with agriculture, and to promote scientific investigation and experiment respecting the principles and applications of agricultural science, there shall be established, under direction of the college or colleges or agricultural department of colleges in each state or territory established, or which may hereafter be established, in accordance with the provisions of an act approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An act donating public lands to the several states and territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts," or any of the supplements to said act, a department to be known and designated as an "agricultural experiment station"; provided, that in any state or territory in which two such colleges have been or may be so established the appropriation hereinafter made to such state or territory shall be equally divided between such colleges, unless the legislature of such state or territory shall otherwise direct.

That in order to secure, as far as practicable, uniformity of methods and results in the work of said stations, it shall be the duty of the United States commissioner of agriculture to furnish forms, as far as practicable, for the tabulation of results of investigation or experiments; to indicate, from time to time, such lines of inquiry as to him shall seem most important; and, in general, to furnish such advice and assistance as will best promote the purposes of this act. It shall be the duty of each of said stations, annually, on or before the first day of February, to make to the governor of the state or territory in which it is located a full and detailed report of its operations, including a statement of receipts and expenditures, a copy of which

Sec. 4—Bulletins—To be post free. That bulletins or reports of progress shall be published at said stations at least once in three months, one copy of which shall be sent to each newspaper in the states or territories in which they are respectively located, and to such individuals actually engaged in farming as may request the same, and as far as the means of the station will permit. Sec. 6—Only amount necessary to be apportioned. That whenever it shall appear to the secretary of the treasury from the annual statement of receipts and expenditures of any of said stations that a portion of the preceding annual appropriation remains unexpended, such amount shall be deducted from the next succeeding annual appropriation to such station, in order that the amount of money appropriated to any station shall not exceed the amount actually and necessarily required for its maintenance and support.

Sec. 7—Legal status not affected. That nothing in this act shall be construed to impair or modify the legal relation existing between any of the said colleges and the government of the states or territories in which they are respectively located.

Sec. 8—Application to states having experiment stations. That in states having colleges entitled under this section to the benefits of this act and having also agricultural experiment stations established by law separate from said colleges, such states shall be authorized to apply such benefits to experiments at stations so established by such states; and in case any state shall have established under the provisions of said act of July second, aforesaid, an agricultural department or experimental station, in connection with any university, college, or institution not distinctively an agricultural college or school, and such state shall have established or shall hereafter establish a separate agricultural college or school, which shall have connected therewith an experimental farm or station, the legislature of such state may apply in whole or in part the appropriation by this act made, to such separate agricultural college or school, and no legislature shall by contract express or implied disable itself from so doing.

Sec. 9—Grants subject to state assent. That the grants of money authorized by this act are made subject to the legislative assent of the several states and territories to the purposes of such grant; provided, that payment of such installments of the appropriation herein made as shall become due to any state before the adjournment of the regular session of its legislature meeting next after the passage of this act shall be made upon the assent of the governor thereof duly certified by to the secretary of the treasury.

Sec. 10—Federal government may withdraw assistance. Nothing in this act shall be held or construed as binding the United States to continue any payments from the treasury to any or all the states or institutions mentioned in this act, but Congress may at any time amend, suspend or repeal any or all the provisions of this act. (1 Fed. Stats. Ann. 9; U. S. Stats. 1866-7, p. 440.)

bearing directly on the agricultural industry of the United States, having due regard to the varying conditions and needs of the respective states or territories.

Sec. 2—Payments quarterly—Report of receipts, etc.—Legislative assent necessary—Assent of governors. That the sums hereby appropriated to the states and territories for the further endowment and support of agricultural experiment stations shall be annually paid in equal quarterly payments on the first day of January, April, July, and October of each year by the secretary of the treasury, upon the warrant of the secretary of agriculture, out of the treasury of the United States, to the treasurer or other officer duly appointed by the governing boards of said experiment stations to receive the same, and such officers shall be required to report to the secretary of agriculture on or before the first day of September of each year a detailed statement of the amount so received and of its disbursement, on schedules prescribed by the secretary of agriculture. The grants of money authorized by this act are made subject to legislative assent of the several states and territories to the purpose of said grants; provided, that payment of such installments of the appropriation herein made as shall become due to any state or territory before the adjournment of the regular session of legislature meeting next after the passage of this act shall be made upon the assent of the governor thereof, duly certified by the secretary of the treasury.

Sec. 3—Apportionments, when misapplied—Restriction—Annual reports to governors. That if any portion of the moneys received by the designated officer of any state or territory for the further and more complete endowment, support, and maintenance of agricultural experiment stations as provided in this act shall by any action or contingency be diminished or lost or be misapplied, it shall be replaced by said state or territory to which it belongs, and until so replaced no subsequent appropriation shall be apportioned or paid to such state or territory; and no portion of said moneys exceeding five per centum of each annual appropriation shall be applied, directly or indirectly, under any pretense whatever, to the purchase, erection, preservation, or repair of any building or buildings, or to the purchase or rental of land. It shall be the duty of each of said stations annually, on or before the first day of February, to make to the governor of the state or territory in which it is located a full and detailed report of its operations, including a statement of receipts and expenditures, a copy of which report shall be sent to each of said stations, to the secretary of agriculture, and to the secretary of the treasury of the United States.

Sec. 4—Secretary of agriculture to make certain reports—Aid withheld. That on or before the first day of July in each year after the passage of this act the secretary of agriculture shall ascertain and certify to the secretary of the treasury as to each state and territory whether it is complying with the provisions of this act and is entitled to receive its share of the annual appropriation for agricultural experiment stations under this act and the amount which thereupon each is entitled, respectively, to receive. If the secretary of agriculture shall withhold a certificate from any state or territory of its appropriation, the facts and reasons therefor shall be reported to the president and the amount involved shall be kept separate in the treasury until the close of the next Congress in order that the state or territory may, if it shall so desire, appeal to Congress from the determination of the secretary of agriculture. If the next Congress shall not direct such sum to be paid, it shall be covered into the treasury; and the secretary of agriculture is hereby charged with the proper administration of this law.

Sec. 5—Annual reports to Congress. That the secretary of agriculture shall make an annual report to Congress on the receipts and expenditures and work of the agricultural experiment stations in all of the states and territories, and also whether the appropriation of any state or territory has been withheld; and if so, the reason therefor.

Appropriation—

Overruling Vansickle v. Haines, 7 Nev. 249, which held that under the principles of the common law riparian proprietors had a right to a reasonable use for irrigation of the waters running through their respective lands, the later Nevada cases have uniformly held that the doctrines of the common law declaratory of the rights of riparian proprietors regarding the use of running waters were inapplicable, except to a limited extent, to the condition of the arid states and to the wants and necessities of the people residing in them, and that prior appropriations gives the better right to the use of running water to the extent necessary for the beneficial purposes to which it is applied. Jones v. Adams, 19 Nev. 78; Reno S. Works v. Stevenson, 20 Nev. 269; State v. Brown, 16 Nev. 317; Twaddle v. Winters, 29 Nev.

88; Lobdell v. Simpson, 2 Nev. 274; Proctor v. Jennings, 6 Nev. 83; Jerrett v. Mahan, 20 Nev. 89; Reno S. M. & R. Works v. Stevenson, 20 Nev. 269, 281, 19 A. S. 364, 4 L. R. A. 60, 21 P. 317; Union M. & M. Co. v. Dangberg, 81 Fed. 73.

The right to running waters on the public lands for mining, irrigation, and other purposes, may be acquired by prior appropriation. The right, within reasonable limits, having reference to the condition of the country and the necessities of the community, is entitled to protection. The doctrines of the common law regarding the rights of riparian appropriators are inapplicable to the Pacific coast. Basey v. Gallagher, 20 Wall. 670 (22 L. Ed. 452); Achison v. Peterson, 20 Wall. 50, and note (22 L. Ed. 414); Jennison v. Kirk, 98 U. S. 453. See, also, Sturr v. Beek, 133 U. S. 551 (33 L. Ed. 765); S. V. W. Wks. v. Schottler, 110 U. S. 374; Willey v. Decker, 11 Wyo. 520 (100 A. S. 539); Benton v. John Cox, 17 Wash. 289 (39 L. R. A. 110; 61 A. S. 912); Isaacs v. Barber, 10 Wash. 130 (30 L. R. A. 674); Fitzpatrick v. Montgomery, 20 Mont. 186 (63 A. S. 622); Clough v. Wing, 2 Ariz. 377; Krall v. U. S., 79 Fed. 243; Drake v. Eahart, 2 Ida. 753; R. G. W. Ry. Co. v. Power Co., 16 Utah, 137.

The first appropriator is only entitled to as much water as is necessary to irrigate his land, and is bound to make a reasonable use of it. What is a reasonable use depends upon the circumstances of each case. Union M. & M. Co. v. Dangberg, 81 Fed. 73; Barnes v. Sabron, 10 Nev. 217.

Where the prior appropriator of a stream had constructed ditches in order to irrigate his land, it was held that if the capacity of his ditches is greater than is necessary to irrigate his farming land, he must be restricted to the quantity needed for the purposes of irrigation, for watering his stock and for domestic purposes; but if the capacity of his ditches is not more than sufficient for those purposes, then, no change having been made in the ditches since constructed, and no question of the right of enlargement being involved, he must be restricted to the capacity of his ditches at their smallest point. Idem.

If the first appropriator only appropriates a part of the waters of a stream for a certain period of time, any other person may not only appropriate a part or the whole of the residue and acquire right thereto as perfect as the first appropriator, but may also acquire a right to the quantity of water used by the first appropriator at such times as not needed or used by him. Idem.

To maintain the right to a water course it must be made to appear that the water usually flows in a certain direction and by a regular channel, with banks or sides. It need not be shown to flow continually, and it may at times be dry, but it must have a well-defined and substantial existence. Idem.

The first appropriator of the water of a stream running through the public lands has the right to insist that the water flowing therein shall, during the irrigating season, be subject to his reasonable use and enjoyment to the full extent of his original appropriation and beneficial use. To this extent his rights go, but no further; for in subordination to such rights, subsequent appropriators may appropriate the remainder of the water running in the stream. Idem.

The amount of water to which the first appropriator is entitled is limited to the quantity actually applied to beneficial use. Simpson v. Williams, 18 Nev. 432; Dick v. Caldwell, 14 Nev. 167; Barnes v. Sabron, 10 Nev. 217; Dalton v. Bowker, 8 Nev. 190; Union M. & M. Co. v. Dangberg, 81 Fed. 73.

An appropriator may change the point of appropriation or take water from different places on the stream. Hobart v. Wicks, 15 Nev. 418; Union M. & M. Co. v. Dangberg, 81 Fed. 73.

When water after being used is discharged into a natural stream without any intention of reclaiming it, it becomes subject to appropriation the same as water naturally flowing in the stream. Schulz v. Sweeney, 19 Nev. 539.

Appropriation through dry natural channel. Doherty v. Pratt, 34 Nev. —.

It has been held that if any work is necessary to be done to complete the appropriation, the law gives a reasonable time within which to do the work, and protects the right during that time by relation to the date when the first act in making the appropriation was performed. Simpson v. Williams, 18 Nev. 432; Irwin v. Strait, 18 Nev. 436; Ophir M. Co. v. Carpenter, 4 Nev. 534. See Robinson v. Imperial S. M. Co., 5 Nev. 44; Union M. & M. Co. v. Dangberg, 81 Fed. 73.

Acts of Congress construed—

The act of Congress of July 26, 1866, sec. 2401, ante, 7 Fed. Stats. Anntd., 1090, confirms to owners of water rights on the public lands the rights which they held under the local customs, laws, and decisions of the courts prior to its enactment. Jones v. Adams, 19 Nev. 78; Twaddle v. Winters, 29 Nev. 88; Ennor v. Rainé, 27 Nev. 178; Hobart v. Ford, 6 Nev. 77; Shoemaker v. Hatch, 13 Nev. 261.

Riparian proprietors—Prior appropriations. The fact that patents for defendants' lands lying along the banks of a creek were issued to defendants before adoption of act Cong. July 26, 1866 (14 Stats. 251, c. 262), providing for the appropriation of water for irrigation purposes, did not confer on the owners of such land riparian common-law rights to the waters of the creek as against prior appropriators. Twaddle v. Winters, 29 Nev. 88 (85 P. 280).

Right of way on public lands—

The act of Congress of July 26, 1866, gave a right of way over public lands for the construction of ditches and for running water for mining or agricultural purposes. Hobart v. Ford, 6 Nev. 66; Shoemaker v. Hatch, 13 Nev. 261; Ennor v. Rainé, 27 Nev. 178.

Regarding right of way for ditches over private lands, see sec. 4711, and note.

Regarding right of appropriator of water to go upon land of upper proprietor to clean out ditch, see note 43 L. R. A., 130.

Under this act a prior appropriator is not a trespasser in going upon the land of another, and along the stream and ditches constructed by the latter, for the purpose of removing dams, by which the flow of water so previously appropriated was obstructed and diverted. Ennor v. Raine, 27 Nev. 178, 213 (74 P. 1); Ronnow v. Delmue, 23 Nev. 29.

Under this act defendant had the right to construct his ditch across the public lands of the United States, and could not be held responsible in damages for the digging of the ditch, to any party who came into possession of the land after the ditch had been completed. Shoemaker v. Hatch, 13 Nev. 261, 264, 268; Hobart v. Ford, 6 Nev. 77.

The act of Congress of 1866 (sec. 2401, ante) may be considered in connection with the later federal acts (secs. 3105, 3170, 3171, ante) and the following federal legislation. The provisions relating to right of way in the act of March 3, 1891 (Suppl. Rev. Stats. U. S., vol. 1, 946), are as follows:

Sec. 18—Rights of way granted through the public lands to canal companies—Not to interfere with government occupation and maps to be approved—Not to interfere with state control. That the right of way through public lands and reservations of the United States is hereby granted to any canal or ditch company formed for the purpose of irrigation and duly organized under the laws of any state or territory, which shall have filed, or may hereafter file, with the secretary of the interior a copy of its articles of incorporation, and due proofs of its organization under the same, to the extent of the ground occupied by the water of the reservoir and the canal and its laterals, and fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof; also the right to take, from the public lands adjacent to the line of the canal or ditch, material, earth, and stone necessary for the construction of such canal or ditch; * * * provided, that no such right of way shall be located as to interfere with the proper occupation by the government of any such reservation, and all maps of location shall be subject to the approval of the department of the government having jurisdiction of such reservation.

And the privilege herein granted shall not be construed to interfere with the control of water for irrigation and other purposes under authority of the respective states or territories.

Sec. 19—Maps to be filed by canal or ditch company—Upon approval, future grants subject to right of way—Damages to settler. That any canal or ditch company desiring to secure the benefits of this act shall, within twelve months after the location of ten miles of its canal, if the same be upon surveyed lands, and if upon unsurveyed lands, within twelve months after the survey thereof by the United States, file with the register of the land office for the district where such land is located, a map of its canal or ditch and reservoir; and upon the approval thereof by the secretary of the interior the same shall be noted upon the plats in said office, and thereafter all such lands over which such rights of way shall pass shall be disposed of subject to such right of way.

Whenever any person or corporation, in the construction of any canal, ditch, or reservoir, injures or damages the possession of any settler on the public domain, the party committing such injury or damage shall be liable to the party injured for such injury or damages.

Sec. 20—Applicable to existing and future canals—Forfeiture for noncompletion. That the provisions of this act shall apply to all canals, ditches, or reservoirs, heretofore or hereafter constructed, whether constructed by corporations, individuals, or association of individuals, on the filing of the certificates and maps herein provided for. If such ditch, canal, or reservoir, has been or shall be constructed by an individual or association of individuals, it shall be sufficient for such individual or association of individuals to file with the secretary of the interior, and with the register of the land office where said land is located, a map of the line of such canal, ditch, or reservoir, as in the case of a corporation, with the name of the individual owner or owners thereof, together with the articles of association, if any there be. Plats heretofore filed shall have the benefits of this act from the date of their filing, as though filed under it; provided, that if any section of said canal, or ditch, shall not be completed within five years after the location of said section, the rights herein granted shall be forfeited as to any uncompleted section of said canal, ditch, or reservoir, to the extent that the same is not completed at the date of the forfeiture.

Sec. 21. Rights granted only for canal use. That nothing in this act shall authorize such canal or ditch company to occupy such right of way except for the purpose of said canal or ditch, and then only so far as may be necessary for the construction, maintenance, and care of said canal or ditch.

And the following part of "An act providing for the transfer of forest reserves from the department of the interior to the department of agriculture," approved February 1, 1905:

"Sec. 4. Rights of way for the construction and maintenance of dams, reservoirs, water plants, ditches, flumes, pipes, tunnels, and canals, within and across the forest reserves of the United States are hereby granted to citizens and corporations of the United States for municipal or mining purposes, and for the purposes of the milling and reduction of ores, during the period of their beneficial use, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the secretary of the interior and subject to the laws of the state or territory in which said reserves are respectively situated." (33 U. S. Stats. B. 628.)

The secretary of agriculture has issued regulations regarding permits to occupy public lands in forest reserves which provide that applications shall be filed with the district forester, and that he may grant, extend and renew permits for noncommercial water-power works of one thousand horsepower capacity or less.

Reservoirs, other acts of Congress in relation to.

Paragraph 4 of the act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations for sundry expenses of the government for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and for other purposes," approved October 2, 1888 (25 Stats. L. 505, Suppl. U. S. Rev. Stats., vol. 1, 626), provided that:

"For the purpose of investigating the extent to which the arid region of the United States can be redeemed by irrigation, and the segregation of the irrigable lands in such arid region, and for the selection of sites for reservoirs and other hydraulic works necessary for the storage and utilization of water for irrigation and the prevention of floods and overflows, * * * the work to be performed by the geological survey under the direction of the secretary of the interior. * * * And all the lands which may hereafter be designated or selected by such United States surveys for sites for reservoirs, ditches or canals for irrigation purposes and all the lands made susceptible of irrigation by such reservoirs, ditches or canals, are from this time henceforth hereby reserved from sale as the property of the United States, and shall not be subject after the passage of this act to entry, settlement or occupation until further provided by law; provided, that the president may at any time in his discretion, by proclamation, open any portion or all of the lands reserved by this provision to settlement under the homestead laws."

Paragraph 3 of the act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and for other purposes," approved August 30, 1890 (26 Stats. L. 371, Suppl. U. S. Rev. Stats., vol. 1, 791), repealed the act of October 2, 1888, in so far as it provided for the withdrawal of public lands from entry, occupation and settlement, and provided: "All entries made or claims initiated in good faith and valid but for said act, shall be recognized and may be perfected in the same manner as if said law had not been enacted, except that reservoir sites heretofore located or selected shall remain segregated and reserved from entry and settlement as provided by said act, until otherwise provided by law, and reservoir sites hereafter located or selected on public lands shall in like manner be reserved from the date of the location or selection thereof."

The remainder of the paragraph limits the amount of land to be acquired by one person, and is the same as section 3169, ante.

Drainage: The prevailing doctrine is that when two tracts of land are adjacent, and one is lower than the other, the owner of the upper tract has an easement in the lower land to the extent of the water naturally flowing from the upper land to the lower tract, and is not liable for such flow; but the courts have generally declared that the servitude of the lower land cannot be augmented or made more burdensome by the acts of man; and the upper land owner, while having the right to make a reasonable use of the water for irrigation, must so use and control it as not to injure his neighbor's land. *Boynton v. Parties to action. Ronnow v. Delmue, 23 Nev. 29; Bliss v. Grayson, 24 Nev. 422; Doherty v. Pratt, 34 Nev. —.

A flume company diverted the waters of the stream above the lands of the parties to this action, but the waters thus diverted were returned to the stream for plaintiff's use, undiminished in quantity: Held, that the flume company was not, therefore, a necessary party to the suit. Smith v. Logan, 18 Nev. 149.

Idem—Who may maintain action. A party to whom certain lands are granted for the purpose of bringing an action for water rights connected therewith, there being an oral agreement between the parties that upon the termination of the litigation the lands should be reconveyed, may prosecute and maintain the action in his own name. Such suit is founded on the legal title. Idem.

Patented lands subject to water rights and rights of way. In Barnes v. Sabron, 10 Nev. 217, it was held that land obtained by patent from the government subsequent to the act of Congress of 1870 (16 U. S. Stats., sec. 17), is under the provisions of that act held subject to water rights and rights of way vested or previously acquired under the act of 1866.

Percolating waters. No distinction exists between waters running under the surface in defined channels and those running in distinct channels upon the surface; but a distinction is made between percolating waters and waters running in distinct channels, whether upon the surface or subterranean. Strait v. Brown, 16 Nev. 317.

Regarding percolating waters, see Howard v. Perrin, 200 U. S. 71, L. Ed. 50, 319, and note, 30 L. R. A. 186.

Use of water percolating in one's own soil. It was held that the use of water percolating in one's own soil was not actionable, and that a person may lawfully dig a well upon his own land. Moser v. Caldwell, 7 Nev. 363.

Pleadings, when sufficient. Jerrett v. Mahan, 20 Nev. 89.

Power to regulate. Roeder v. Stein, 23 Nev. 92; Twaddle v. Winters, 29 Nev. 88.

Prescriptive rights. Authors v. Bryant, 22 Nev. 242; Smith v. Logan, 18 Nev. 149; Union M. & M. Co. v. Dangberg, 81 Fed. 73.

The right acquired by prescription is only commensurate with the right enjoyed, and a mere acquiescence or permission on the part of the lower land owner to allow the flow of waste or surplus water in such limited quantities as did his land no injury, does not give the upper land owner the prescriptive right to increase the flow so as to damage the lower land owner. Boynton v. Longley, 19 Nev. 69.

A party claiming a prescriptive right for five years who, within that time, enlarges the same, cannot at the end of that time claim the use as enlarged within that period. The acts by which the right is sought to be established must be such as to operate as an invasion of the right claimed to such an extent that during the whole period of use the party whose estate is sought to be charged with the servitude could have maintained an action therefor. Idem.

The owner of upper land, who has for more than five years enjoyed the privilege of running the waste water used from artificial sources for the purpose of irrigating his land, does not acquire an easement to run the same over the lower lands in such unreasonable or unnatural quantities as to damage the property of such lower land owners, and an injunction will issue to prevent such injury, although the parties enjoined are not jointly liable for the damages. Blaisdell v. Stephens, 14 Nev. 17.

Action for diversion of water—Vindication and preservation of a right—Adverse right. Where the act complained of is committed under a claim of right, which, if allowed to continue for a certain length of time, would ripen into an adverse right, and deprive the plaintiff of his property, he is not only entitled to an action for the vindication of his right, but also for its preservation. Brown v. Ashley, 16 Nev. 311.

Rates chargeable for water—Valuation of tangible property. It has been held that a mere appropriator and carrier of water for rental or sale and distribution to consumers is entitled to an income upon its plant, but is not entitled to charge for the so-called water right, nor to be allowed for the water itself, in the fixing of the rate. Stats. 1901, 1570) and July 26, 1866 (sec. 2401, ante), recognizing the validity of local customs and the decisions of courts in respect to the appropriation of water. *Gutierrez v. SEC. 8. The office of state engineer is hereby created. The state engineer shall be appointed by the governor, and shall receive a salary of thirty-six hundred dollars ($3,600) per year, payable in equal monthly installments by the state treasurer, on warrants drawn by the state controller. He shall keep his office at the state capitol. No person shall be appointed as state engineer who does not have such training in hydraulic engineering, and such practical skill and experience as shall fit him for the position. He shall hold his office at the pleasure of the governor, but his successor shall in all cases have the foregoing qualifications and recommendations. As amended, Stats. 1909, 32.

4681. Further duties of state engineer.

SEC. 10. The state engineer shall perform such duties as are prescribed herein. He shall become conversant with the state and the needs of the state as to irrigation matters, and in his reports to the governor he shall make such suggestions as to the amendment of existing laws, or the enactment of new laws, as his information and experience shall suggest; and he shall keep in his office full and proper records of his work, observations and calculations; all of which shall be the property of the state. He shall cooperate with the secretary of the interior in all work of construction, operation, maintenance and management of irrigation works constructed by the secretary of the interior in and for the benefit of Nevada, under an act of Congress of the United States, approved June 17, 1902, entitled "An act appropriating the receipts from the sale and disposal of public lands in certain states and territories to the construction of irrigation works for the reclamation of arid lands," and shall in every way facilitate the work of the secretary of the interior in carrying out the provisions of said act in the State of Nevada.

The several respective salaries hereinabove mentioned are hereby made payable in equal monthly installments by the state treasurer upon warrants drawn by the state controller. The state engineer shall, when necessary, also have the power to employ six field men at a compensation not exceeding two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50) per diem each, and such other assistants as may from time to time be necessary, at a total additional expense not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000) per annum. The compensation for such field men and such additional assistants shall be paid on the certificates of the state engineer and the approval of the state board of examiners, upon the warrants drawn by the state controller upon the state treasurer. The state engineer may also appoint as assistant engineers and as additional assistants, such other persons in the service of the United States reclamation service as may be designated by the secretary of the interior, or director of the United States reclamation service, but such other assistant engineers, and such other additional assistants, shall be entitled to no compensation whatever from the State of Nevada for any service or services that may be rendered by them, and no expense shall be incurred nor paid therefor by the state engineer. As amended, Stats. 1909, 32.

SEC. 12. When the state engineer, the assistant engineer, field engineers, or field men are called away from the office in the performance of official duty, each of them shall be entitled to his actual traveling and other necessary expenses, which shall be paid on the certificate of the state engineer, approved by the state board of examiners, and the state controller shall draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the payment of such expenses. As amended, Stats. 1909, 33.

4684. To make reports.

SEC. 13. The state engineer shall prepare and render to the governor, biennially, and oftener if required, full and true reports of his work, touching all the matters and duties devolving upon him by virtue of his office, which report shall be delivered to the governor on or before the 31st day of December of the year preceding the regular session of the legislature.

4685. State engineer to prepare a list of appropriators—Claimants to present particulars.

SEC. 14. Such state engineer shall prepare for each stream in the State of Nevada a list of the appropriations of water according to priority, and in order to make such list, he shall enclose to each person having a claim to the waters of such stream a blank form, on which said claimant shall present in writing all the particulars showing the amounts and dates of appropriations to the use of water of said stream to which he lays claim; the said statement to include the following:

His best information concerning:

The name and address of the claimant.

The nature of the use on which the claim for an appropriation is based.

The time of the commencement of such use, and if distributing works are required.

The year of beginning of survey.

The year of beginning of construction.

The dimensions of the ditch as originally constructed and as enlarged.

The year when water was first used for irrigation or other beneficial purposes, and if used for irrigation, the amount of land reclaimed or irrigated the first year; the amount in subsequent years, with the dates of reclamation, and the amount of land such ditch is capable of irrigating. The character of the soil and the kind of crops cultivated, and such other facts as will show a compliance with the law in acquiring the appropriation and the rank of priority claimed.

4686. Oath of claimant.

SEC. 15. Each of said claimants shall be required to certify to his statements under oath, and any officer authorized to administer oaths is hereby authorized to administer such oaths.

4687. Claimant must make statement within ninety days—Misdemeanor.

SEC. 16. The failure of any claimant to make such a sworn statement within ninety days after notice that such statement is required by the state engineer, shall be punishable as a misdemeanor on the complaint of the state engineer or any of his assistants.

4688. State engineer to make measurement and plat of ditches and irrigable lands.

SEC. 17. It shall be the duty of the state engineer, or some qualified assistant, as soon as practicable, to make an examination of such stream and the works diverting therefrom, said examination to include the measurement of the discharge of said stream unless adequate proof is available from the measurements made by the United States government, and of the carrying capacity of the various ditches and canals diverting water therefrom; an examination of the irrigated lands, and an approximate measurement of the lands irrigated, or susceptible of irrigation, from the various ditches and canals, which said observations and measurements shall be reduced to writing, and made a matter of record in his office, and it shall be the duty of the state engineer to make or cause to be made a map or plat, on a scale of not less than one inch to the mile, showing, with substantial accuracy, the course of said stream, the location of each ditch or canal diverting water therefrom, and the legal subdivisions of lands which have been irrigated or which are susceptible of irrigation from the ditches and canals already constructed. In performing such work the state engineer or his assistant may avail himself of the works, records and information of the United States geological survey.

The state engineer has issued the following instructions pertaining to the adjudication of water rights and cultural maps:

Before undertaking the work of compiling the various proofs of appropriation in connection with the adjudication of the streams in the State of Nevada as provided by statute, it has been decided that the first step should be the compilation of an hydrographic survey of the stream system, such survey to show the following:

1. The stream from which the supply of water is derived.
2. The ditch or ditches from which the lands are irrigated.
3. The actual acreage under cultivation, and the number of acres in each kind of culture.
4. The outline of the lands owned by the party using water from the source under consideration.
5. Stream measurements covering the entire system.

Under section 17 of the Statutes of 1907, the state engineer is authorized to cause to be made a map or plat, which shows with substantial accuracy the ditches and lands irrigated on the system being adjudicated.

In the preparation of these maps and plats it was deemed advisable to have the lands of each water user shown on a separate map, in order that they may be indexed, and to make as clear as possible the various sorts of culture on each ranch. Nearly every user of water is desirous of having such a map for ready reference and information.

It was also deemed advisable to have the maps of one size for convenient filing, therefore the following rules were adopted with respect to the character of map required.

The maps should show:

1. The outline of the lands owned by the water user adjacent to the source, by legal subdivisions, if on surveyed land, and by traverse with proper tie to some government corner, if on unsurveyed land.

DIAGRAM OF MAP

2. The location of the main and lateral ditches supplying the lands with water. Also, the point of diversion from the main source should be shown. If the point of diversion from the main source is far removed from the land a disconnected tie showing the source and diversion may be made on the same plat.

3. The size of the main ditch, and the principal laterals should be shown, together with the grades of each.

The information obtained from the hydrographic survey will be available by each water user, and the state engineer will give all possible aid in the filling out of proofs when called upon to do so.

When the proof of every user is filed a compilation of the proofs will be mailed to each and every user. Should it be found that any proof or claim does not agree with the facts a protest may be entered against such claim. Such protest will be made a matter of record and a hearing held to determine the facts upon which to make a finding.

The findings of the state engineer may be appealed from, within the time provided by statute, and tried de novo by the district court, the same as other civil suits.

4689. State engineer to issue certificates to appropriators and county recorders—Recording at state expense.

SEC. 18. Within thirty days after the preparation of the list of priorities of appropriation of the use of waters of any stream, it shall be the duty of the state engineer to issue to each person, association or corporation, represented in such list, a certificate to be signed by the state engineer, setting forth the name and postoffice address of the appropriator, the priority number of such appropriation, the amount of water appropriated and the amount or prior appropriations, and if such appropriations be for irrigation, a description of the legal subdivisions of the lands to which said water is to be applied. And he shall also send such certified list, by registered mail, to the county recorder of the county in which such appropriations shall have been made, as well as to the county recorder of the county in which the waters appropriated are used, and it shall be the duty of said county recorder, within ten days after the receipt of such certificate, to record the same in a book specially prepared and kept for that purpose, and the fee for such record shall be fixed by the governor, and shall be allowed and paid by the board of examiners out of funds in the treasury applicable thereto.

4690. Parties aggrieved may bring action—Court may employ expert—Costs.

SEC. 19. Any party, or number of parties acting jointly, who may feel themselves aggrieved by the determination of the state engineer, may bring an action in any court having jurisdiction against such state engineer and all persons having interests adverse to the party or parties bringing the action, to have their respective rights determined. Such action must be brought within one year after the record of such list of priorities of appropriation has been recorded. Such action shall be tried as speedily as possible, and the court is hereby authorized to employ a hydraulic engineer or other expert to examine and make report under oath upon any subject-matter in controversy, the cost of such employment to be equitably apportioned by the court and charged against the parties to the suit as costs.

4691. Water commissioners to apportion water—Priorities—Judgment.

SEC. 20. The water commissioners hereafter provided shall make apportionment of the waters of such stream according to the list of priorities recorded as aforesaid, unless such list be corrected by the judgment of some court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter.

4692. State engineer a member and secretary state board of irrigation.

SEC. 21. The state engineer shall be a member of the state board of irrigation created by an act of the legislature of the State of Nevada, approved March 16, 1901, entitled "An act to provide for the measurement of streams, the survey of reservoir sites, the determination of irrigation possibilities, and for the best methods of controlling and utilizing the water resources of the State of Nevada in cooperation with the United States geological survey and the United States department of agriculture, and the Nevada experiment station." The said state engineer shall be the secretary of said board of irrigation, and shall keep the record thereof in his office.

See sec. 4706, creating a state board of irrigation.

4693. Powers and duties of state board and water commissioners.

SEC. 22. The said board of irrigation shall divide the State of Nevada into such water divisions or water districts as seem to it advisable, and may change the same from time to time. It may appoint water commissioners, whose duty it shall be to measure and divide amongst the appropriators the water of such streams according to priority of right and the amount to which each is entitled. It may make such rules and regulations as it shall deem advisable for the proper and economical administration of the waters of such streams.

4694. Number and compensation of water commissioners under state engineer.

SEC. 23. The board of irrigation shall determine the number and compensation of the water commissioners appointed under this act, and said water commissioners shall be and act under the direction of the state engineer. The compensation of said water commissioners shall be paid upon the approval of the board of irrigation, by the county in which the work of such commissioners is performed, in the same manner as other county bills are presented and allowed.

4695. Appropriators to obtain permission from state engineer—Application to contain—Defective application corrected—Priority.

SEC. 24. Any person, association or corporation desiring to appropriate any of the public waters, or to change the place of diversion or manner of use of water now appropriated, shall before performing any work in connection with such appropriation make an application to the state engineer for permission to make the same. Said application shall set forth the name and postoffice address of the applicant, the source from which said appropriation shall be made, the amount thereof, location of proposed works in connection therewith, the purpose for which the appropriation is desired, and if for irrigation a description of the land to be irrigated and the area thereof, and any additional facts required by the state engineer. On receipt of this application, which shall be of a form prescribed by the state engineer and to be furnished by him without cost to the applicant, it shall be his duty to make a record thereof in his office, and to carefully examine the same to ascertain whether it sets forth all facts necessary to determine the nature and amount of the proposed appropriation. If the application be defective it shall be the duty of the state engineer to return the same to the applicant for correction, and sixty days shall be allowed for the refileing thereof. If refiled, corrected in proper form, within such time, the application shall, upon being accepted, take priority as of date of original filing subject to compliance with the further provisions of the law and the regulations thereunder.

This and following sections supersede certain sections of the act of 1905, supplementary to the act of 1903.

Application should be made out in detail on the form prescribed by the state engineer. (See form in appendix.)

An application is not a permit to appropriate water until after its approval by the state engineer. Upon approval (or rejection) of any application, the original application, with such approval or rejection endorsed thereon, will be returned to the applicant. The terms of the permit will show on the endorsement, and be a guide for the applicant.

The following rules should be complied with in making application:

Rule 1—Under Question No. 1. Where the source of the water desired is from more than one stream, lake, spring or other body of water, separate applications must be made out for each source; provided, however, that when the numerous sources have their confluence above the point of diversion one application will serve to appropriate the water, by giving the name of the main stream at the point of diversion. The application should state the name of the stream, including its tributaries.

Rule 2—Under Question No. 2. The amount of water applied for should be limited to the amount that can be put to beneficial use. The statute provides that this amount shall not exceed three acre-feet per annum in districts where irrigation is carried on for the six months beginning April 15th and ending October 15th of each year; and where irrigation is carried on for a longer period each year, one-half of one acre-foot per month for each additional month is the maximum quantity allowed. Therefore, there shall be allowed a continuous flow of one second-foot of water for each one hundred acres of land irrigated. The amount should be stated in cubic feet per second instead of in miners' inches. (One cubic foot per second equals forty miners' inches.) (One acre-foot of water is equal to 43,560 cubic feet, or the amount of water necessary to cover an acre of ground one foot deep.)

Rule 3—Under Question No. 3. Ordinarily only one use for water can be named in each application. If domestic purposes is included, however, two uses can be named. For instance if the application stated "For Irrigation and Domestic Purposes" it shall be allowed; but if "Power and Irrigation" are named in one application it shall not be allowed, but the application will be returned for correction. In certain cases where water is to be stored in a reservoir, and where the water is conveyed from the reservoir in a ditch owned by the same party, two uses, "Power and Irrigation," might be named, where power can be generated from the ditch, but in such cases it must be clearly shown how the two uses can be completed.

Rule 4—Under Question No. 4. The point of diversion is one of vital importance in the application, as upon the location of the point of diversion depends the question of interference with prior rights. The point of diversion must be stated as being within a forty-acre legal subdivision, or, if on unsurveyed land, it must be tied by course and distance to the nearest corner of a legal subdivision, if such corner is within six miles. If no corner is found within six miles, the point of diversion should be tied to some definite and fixed monument or object.

Rule 5. There shall be named but one point of diversion in each application. The application must be considered as a whole and by reason of the fact that one point of diversion may interfere with prior rights the application would necessarily have to be denied.

Rule 6. The total number of acres of land should be stated with reasonable accuracy. The quantity of water allowed in the application, endorsed thereon by the state engineer is determined by the number of acres to be irrigated as well as the amount of unappropriated water in the stream.

Rule 7. Under description of proposed works, state by what means the water is to be diverted from the stream, whether by dam, ditches, pipe lines or other conduit. Give the size of such ditches, pipe lines, etc., and the proposed grade that each will have from the point of diversion to enable this office to determine the capacity of each. The size of the ditch should be consistent with the amount of water applied for under question No. 2.

If the water is to be stored in a reservoir, give its location with reference to the legal subdivision or subdivisions. If the reservoir is to be located on unsurveyed lands, the rules and regulations of the department of the interior should be followed precisely. Such rules and regulations are embodied in a pamphlet furnished by the department of the interior, called "Regulations Concerning Right of Way Over Public Lands and Reservations for Canals, Ditches, and Reservoirs," approved by the secretary of the interior, June 6, 1908. The maps and field notes of such reservoir should conform strictly with these regulations and a copy filed with the office of the state engineer.

Rule 8. The time required to construct the works of diversion should be commensurate with the expenditure, in order to be construed as reasonable diligence in the prosecution of the work. The time allowed for completion endorsed on the permit by the state engineer will be based upon the estimate made by the applicant, if such be commensurate with the expenditure.

Rule 9. The affidavit required under section 26, Statutes of 1909, must be filed according to the statute. The permit will be canceled unless good cause can be shown for failure to file this affidavit.

MAPS

Within six months after the approval of a permit a map must be filed showing the location of the works necessary to perfect the appropriation, the source of appropriation, and, if for irrigation, the land upon which the water is to be applied. (Sec. 28, Stats. 1907.)

These maps must be neatly and accurately drawn with India ink, to some convenient scale, on sheets of uniform size, twenty-four by thirty-two inches, two inches on the left of each sheet being left for binding. If the scale must be reduced to such an extent that it does not show the details of the drawing, separate sheets of the same size should be used.

The maps must show the location of the point of diversion by course and distance from some government corner. They must show the location of the headgate, also the traverse of the ditch or canal; and, where the government survey lines are crossed, ties to section corners must be shown. Where the appropriation is made to irrigate specific lands, the estimated acreage that can be cultivated should be placed on the map within each forty-acre subdivision. Where the lands are unsurveyed the outline should be shown by traverse, and tied by course and distance to the point of diversion, which in turn is tied to some government corner.

The maps must show the location and name of the stream or water source from which the appropriation is to be made. The areas to be irrigated should be colored and notated.

All crossings of other canals and ditches and streams should be noted. Different colored ink should be used to show these lines.

Maps must show the name of the ditch, canal or reservoir and the certificate of the engineer or surveyor must be attached to the map. The certificate must state that the survey was made by him in person and at the instance of the applicant.

The maps of reservoirs must show the area that will be submerged and the intersections with the government section lines, together with sufficient data to compute its capacity.

If water power is to be developed the profile of the river or stream from the point of diversion to the point of use must be platted on profile paper (the size of sheet to be 24x32, the same as mentioned above for filing in connection therewith) to be transmitted with the maps first mentioned. If the data can be shown on one map, separate maps will not be required.

The coloring placed on the tracing cloth should be on the rough side. In case of extensions of beneficial use the new lands should be shown in a different color.

Copies of the detail drawings of the dams, headworks, outlet and wasteways must be filed with the state engineer. A copy of the longitudinal and cross-section of dams must be submitted.

The lettering on the map should set forth the title of the proposed works and refer by number to the application under which it is to be prosecuted.

For fees chargeable by the state engineer, see sec. 4698.

Remittance should be made by draft or postal money order to the State Engineer, Carson City, Nevada. Where personal check is sent the exchange or charge, if any, of the local bank should be added.

Applications should not be made for more water than can be put to beneficial use.

The commencement of the work, the completion of the work, and the application of water to beneficial use, must be finished within the time set in the permit.

APPENDIX B

Rulings of the State Engineer with Respect to Applications to appropriate the Underground Waters of the State.

The following rulings of this office, approved by the state board of irrigation, as applying to general applications to appropriate the underground public waters of the state; and by the state commission of industry, agriculture and irrigation, as applying to like applications for the reclamation of Carey act lands, shall be hereafter in force:

Rule 1. In all applications to appropriate the underground public waters of the state, the state engineer will assume the existence of such waters by virtue of the application and such examination as he may make, but the quantity thereof, subject to appropriation, being invisible and incapable of measurement, will not be definitely declared or stated in any approval of the application. The applicant may apply for as many second-foot flow from such underground watercourse or lake as he may be able to put to beneficial use, and each second-foot flow, or fraction thereof, which he may demonstrate from time to time upon the surface, by means of artesian wells or pumped wells tapping the supply, will be deemed a perfected unit of the application. Upon satisfactory proof of the measurement of the flow of such perfected unit, together with satisfactory proof of beneficial use, the state engineer will issue the applicant a certificate therefor, under the provisions of section 29 of the act approved February 26, 1907; and from time to time as such units are perfected, including proof of beneficial use, the state engineer will issue such certificates, and the priority of all such water right units of the application shall date uniformly from the filing of the application in the state engineer's office. The state engineer, in approving an application to appropriate such underground waters, will reserve to his office full authority to determine when the unappropriated waters of such underground watercourse or lake are exhausted, and on notification thereof to the applicant, the several perfected units of irrigation works, on the date such notification takes effect, will be deemed to comprise the complete perfected application, and all further authority of the applicant to appropriate water from such underground natural watercourse or lake, by virtue of such application, shall terminate.

Rule 2. Where more than one application is approved to appropriate the waters of a common underground natural watercourse or lake, the notification by the state engineer that the unappropriated waters thereof are exhausted shall be served upon each of such appropriators and shall take effect simultaneously, whereupon the priority of the perfected water rights of each applicant shall be in the order of the filing of the respective applications in the state engineer's office.

Rule 3. The state engineer, from such determinations as may be made by measurements of the flow of artesian and pumped wells, withdrawing water from a common underground watercourse or lake, and from all other information as seems to him pertinent, will estimate the quantity of water that may be annually withdrawn therefrom, without diminishing the quantity available for succeeding seasons; and where in his opinion the annual supply is adequate for all existing, or for additional, wells, a junior applicant will not be enjoined from the enjoyment of the flow of his wells, in the first instance, or from sinking additional wells, in the second instance, even though the same may diminish the natural flow of the wells of a senior applicant; for the reason that a diminution of the natural flow of a senior artesian well must be expected as additional wells are sunk, even prior to the time of the actual appropriation of all the available waters of such underground watercourse or lake—the state assuming, as a matter of public policy, to insure the largest beneficial use of the natural supply, that the burden is upon the owner of the artesian well, ultimately, to protect its flow by means of some artificial lift.

Rule 4. The approval by the state engineer of any application to appropriate the underground waters of the state shall contain a stipulation that all bored or driven wells must be encased with such kind and quality of pipe, and to such relative depth in each well, as he may require, in order to conserve the underground supply from waste due to a run-off or leakage through any intervening sand or gravel stratum between the source of the underground waters and the surface, as well to enable such wells to be capped during the nonirrigation season.

APPENDIX C

Sample form of Application for Permit to appropriate the Public Waters of the State of Nevada.

Serial No.....

Date of first receipt and filing in state engineer's office.....

Returned to applicant for correction.....

Corrected application filed.....

The undersigned, John Doe of Carson City, County of Ormsby, State of Nevada, hereby makes application for permission to appropriate the public waters of the State of Nevada, as hereinafter stated. (If applicant is a corporation give date and place of incorporation.)

1. The source of the proposed appropriation is Carson river.
2. The amount of water applied for is two second-feet.
3. The water is to be used for irrigation and domestic purposes.
4. The water is to be diverted from its source at the following point: N 20 degrees 10 minutes E 2550 feet from the S. E. cor. of section 10, T. 15 N, R. 20 E, Mount Diablo base and meridian.

If the water is to be used for irrigation, supply the following information:

JOHN DOE, Applicant.

4696. Notice of application published at expense of applicant—Protest, reasons stated—Evidence—Vested rights reserved.

SEC. 25. If said application is not corrected and refiled within said sixty days, no further proceedings shall be had on such application, in which event the state engineer shall have the power, and it is hereby made his duty, to cancel the said application and all proceedings thereunder. When any application is filed in compliance with this act, the state engineer shall, within thirty days, at the expense of the applicant, to be paid in advance as herein provided, publish or cause to be published, in some newspaper having a general circulation, and printed and published in the county where such water is sought to be appropriated, a notice of the application, showing by whom made, the quantity of water sought to be appropriated, the stream from which, and the point at which such appropriation is to be made, the use for which and by what means said water is to be appropriated, which notice shall be published in said newspaper once a week for a period of at least four successive weeks; and within ninety days from the time of filing such application there shall be filed in the office of the state engineer an affidavit from the publisher or manager of said newspaper, stating that such publication was had in compliance with said act, the dates of the issues of said newspaper wherein such publications were made, and that such newspaper is a newspaper having a general circulation, and that the affiant is the publisher or manager thereof, as aforesaid. Any person, corporation, or association interested may, at any time within thirty days after the completion of the publication of said notice, file with the state engineer a written protest against the granting of said application, stating the reasons therefor, and thereupon the state engineer shall fix a time for the hearing of such application and protest, and the time so fixed shall not be less than fifteen days after the filing of such protest. Upon such hearing the state engineer may, in his discretion, hear evidence in support of or against such application, and shall take such action thereon as he may deem proper and just; but vested rights to the use of such waters shall in no wise be lost, prejudiced or impaired by failure to protest against an application to appropriate under the provisions of this act. As amended, Stats. 1909, 33.

4697. Application, when to be refused, when to be approved—Approval for less amount—Change of place of diversion—Evidence of work—Cancellation of permit.

SEC. 26. If there is no unappropriated water in the source of supply, or if such change of place of diversion or manner of use will in any substantial way invade or impair the rights of other appropriators, the state engineer shall refuse such appropriation, endorse his refusal upon the application, make a record of his refusal and endorsement in his office, and return the application so endorsed to the applicant, who shall not prosecute the work under his application so long as such refusal shall be in force, under penalty of being deemed guilty of and punished for a misdemeanor. If there is unappropriated water in the source of supply named, and the appropriation is not detrimental to the public welfare, or the proposed change of place of diversion and manner of use will not invade or impair the rights of other appropriators, the state engineer shall approve the application, and set a date prior to which work of diversion and appropriation must be begun, and a date prior to which such work must be completed, endorse such approval upon the application, make a record of such approval and endorsement in his office, and return the application so endorsed to the applicant, who shall, on receipt thereof, be authorized to take such measure as may be necessary to perfect such appropriation; provided, however, that the state engineer may approve an application for a less amount of water than that named in the application. Any person changing his place of diversion or manner of use, as specified in this act, shall not thereby lose any priority of right upon the stream he may have heretofore acquired. Any person, association or corporation, who shall receive a permit to appropriate any of the public waters of this state, under the provisions of this act, shall file with the state engineer, within thirty days after the time required by such permit for the commencement of work thereunder, an affidavit stating the time when, the place where, and the amount of such work which has been done under said permit. If such affidavit shall not be so filed, the state engineer shall, unless good cause for extension of time within which to file such affidavit be shown, cancel said permit. As amended, Stats. 1909, 34.

SEC. 26a. It is hereby made the duty of the state engineer to charge, and he shall charge, for all services rendered under the provisions of this act, the following fees:

1. For filing application for permit, twenty-five dollars ($25), which shall include the expense of publication and the issuance of such permit, if the same shall issue, and such expense of publication is hereby fixed at the sum of ten dollars ($10), which sum shall be paid on the certificate of the state engineer, approved by the state board of examiners, and the state controller shall draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the payment of such expense of publication.

2. For filing proof of beneficial use, two dollars, which shall include certificate thereof, if the same shall issue.

4723. Irrigation districts, how organized.

SECTION 1. Whenever a majority of the holders of title, or evidence of title, to lands susceptible of one mode of irrigation from a common source and by the same system of works, desire to provide for the irrigation of the same, or, when for drainage purposes and other reasons, they desire to organize the proposed territory into one district, they may propose the organization of an irrigation district under this act; provided, said holders of title, or evidence of title, shall hold such title, or evidence of title, to at least one-fourth part of the total area of the land in the proposed district; provided, further, that no person shall be a competent signer of a petition provided in this act for the formation of an "irrigation district" who is not the holder of title or evidence of title to not less than five acres of land irrigated or susceptible of irrigation from the said common source of water supply, which shall be accessible for the purpose of the district. The equalized county assessment roll next preceding the presentation of a petition for the organization of an irrigation district shall be sufficient evidence of title for the purpose of this act, but other evidence may be received, including receipts or other evidence of rights of entrymen on land under any law of the United States or this state, and such entrymen shall be competent signers of such petition, and the land on which they have made such entries shall, for the purpose of said petition, be considered as owned by them.

4724. Petition for organization—Notice published.

SEC. 2. Whenever it is proposed to form an irrigation district, a petition shall first be presented to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the lands, or the greater portion thereof, are situated, signed by the required number of freeholders of such proposed district, possessing the qualifications provided for in section 1 of this act, which petition shall set forth and particularly describe the proposed boundaries of such district, and shall pray that the same may be organized under the provisions of this act. The petitioners must accompany the petition with a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by the said board of county commissioners, in double the amount of the probable cost of organizing such district, conditioned that the bondsmen will pay all said costs in case said organization shall not be effected. Such petition shall be presented at a regular meeting of said board, and a notice thereof shall be published for at least two weeks before the time at which the same is to be presented, in some newspaper printed and published in the county where said petition is presented, which newspaper shall be designated by said board as the paper most likely to impart notice of the hearing of said petition, the said notice to set forth that said petition has been filed, the time of the meeting of said board to consider said petition, and a description of the territory to be embraced in such proposed district.

4725. Commissioners to define boundaries of districts—Proviso—Duties of county commissioners—Popular election—Ballots—Precincts.

SEC. 3. When such petition is presented, and it shall appear that the notice of the presentation of said petition has been given as required by law, and that said petition has been signed by the requisite number of petitioners as required by this act, the commissioners shall then proceed to define the boundaries of said proposed district from said petition and from such applications for the exclusion of lands therefrom and inclusion of lands therein as may be made in accordance with the provisions of this act. The said commissioners may adjourn such examination from time to time not exceeding three weeks in all and shall, by final order duly entered, define and establish the boundaries of such proposed district; provided, that said board shall not modify such proposed boundaries described in the petition so as to change the object of said petition or so as to exempt from the operation of this act any land within the boundaries proposed by the petition susceptible to irrigation by the same system of water-works applicable to other lands in such proposed district; nor shall any land be included in such district if the owner thereof shall make application at such hearing to withdraw the same; provided, also, that contiguous lands not included in such proposed district, as described in the petition, may, upon application of the owner or owners thereof, be included in such district upon such hearing; provided, that in the hearing of any such petition the board of county commissioners shall disregard any informalities therein, and in case they deny the same, or dismiss it for any reasons on account of the provisions of this act not having been complied with, which are the only reasons upon which they shall have a right to refuse or dismiss the same, they shall state their reasons in writing therefor in detail, which shall be entered upon their records, and in case the reasons are not well founded, a writ of mandamus shall, upon proper application therefor, issue out of the district court of said county, compelling them to act in compliance with this act, which writ shall be heard within twenty days from the date of issuance, and which twenty days shall be excluded from the forty days given the commissioners herein to act upon said petition.

When the boundaries of any proposed district shall have been examined and defined as aforesaid, the county commissioners shall forthwith make an order allowing the prayer of said petition, defining and establishing the boundaries and of designing the name of such proposed district, and also divide such district into three divisions, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, and one director, who shall be a freeholder and qualified elector in the division, shall be elected as a director, from such division, by the freeholders who are also qualified electors in the proposed district at large. No more than one person shall be elected as a director from one and the same division of such district. Thereupon the said commissioners shall by further order duly entered upon their record call an election of the freeholders, who are also qualified electors of said district, to be held for the purpose of determining whether such district shall be organized under the conditions of this act, and by such order shall submit the names of one or more persons from each of the three divisions of said district, as herein provided, to be voted for as directors therein. Each of said divisions shall constitute an election district for the purpose of this act. Said board of county commissioners shall then give notice of such election to be held in such proposed district, which notice shall be published for three weeks prior to such election in a newspaper within the county or counties within which such proposed district lies. Such notice shall require the said electors to cast ballots which shall contain the words "Irrigation District—Yes" or "Irrigation District—No," or words equivalent thereto, and also the names of persons to be voted for to fill the various elective offices by this act provided for. For the purpose of this election above provided for, the said board of county commissioners must establish a convenient number of election precincts and polling places in said proposed districts and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may thereafter be changed by the board of directors of such district, and shall also appoint the judges of election for such precinct, one of whom shall act as clerk of the election.

The officers of such district shall consist of three directors, as aforesaid, a secretary and a treasurer, who shall be appointed by the board of directors.

SEC. 4. Except as in this act otherwise provided, all such elections shall be conducted as nearly as practicable in accordance with the general election laws of this state. The said board of county commissioners shall meet on the second Monday succeeding such election and proceed to canvass the votes cast thereat, and if, upon such canvass it appears that at least a majority of said legal electors in said district have voted "Irrigation District—Yes,” the said board shall, by an order entered on their minutes, declare such territory duly organized as an irrigation district, under the name and style theretofore designated, and shall declare the persons receiving, respectively, the highest number of votes for such several offices, to be duly elected to such office. Said board shall cause a copy of such order, including a plat of said district duly certified by the clerk of the board of county commissioners to be immediately filed for record in the office of the county clerk of each county in which any portion of such lands are situated, and no board of county commissioners of any county, including any portion of such district, shall, after the date of organization of such district, allow another district to be formed, including any of the lands of such district, without the consent of the board of directors thereof, and from and after the date of such filing, the organization of such district shall be complete, and the officers thereof shall immediately enter upon the duties of their respective offices, upon qualifying, in accordance with the law, and shall hold such offices, respectively, until their successors are elected and have qualified.

SEC. 5. The regular election of said district shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April of each year thereafter, at which shall be elected three directors by the electors of the district at large. The terms of the office of the directors shall be as follows: The directors shall, immediately after the first regular election following such organization, be selected by lot so that one shall hold his office for the term of one year, one for the term of two years, and one for the term of three years, and an election shall be held in each district on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April of each year thereafter, at which one director shall be elected for a term of three years, or until his successor is elected and qualified. Such director must be a qualified elector and a freeholder of the division of the director whom he is to succeed in office. Within ten days after receiving the certificates of election hereinafter provided for, such officer shall take and subscribe to an official oath and file the same in the office of the board of directors, and execute the bond hereinafter provided for. Each member of said board of directors shall execute an official bond in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000), which said bonds shall be approved by the judge of the district court in and for said county where such organization is effected, and shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder thereof and filed with the secretary of said board. All official bonds provided for in this act shall be in the form prescribed by law.

4728. Directors—Election notice.

SEC. 6. The office of the board of directors shall be located in the county where the organization was effected. Fifteen days before any election held under this act subsequent to the organization of the district, the secretary, who shall be appointed by the board of directors, shall cause notice specifying the polling places in each election precinct to be posted in three public places in each election precinct, of the time and place of holding the election, and shall also post a general notice of the same in the office of said board, which shall be established and kept at some fixed place to be determined by said board in said county. Prior to the time for posting the notice, the board must appoint from each precinct from the electors thereof, three judges, one of whom shall act as clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for such precinct. If the board fails to appoint a board of election, or the members appointed do not attend the opening of polls on the morning of election, the electors of the precinct present at that hour may appoint the board, or supply the place of an absent member thereof. The board of directors must, in its order appointing the board of election, designate the hour and the place in the precinct where the election must be held. For the purpose of ascertaining the cost of any such construction work, said board shall cause such surveys, examinations and plans to be made as shall demonstrate the practicability of such plan, and furnish the proper basis for an estimate of the cost of carrying out the same. All such surveys, examinations, maps, plans and estimates shall be made under the direction of a competent irrigation engineer and certified by him. Said board shall then submit a copy of the same to the state engineer, and within ninety days thereafter, the state engineer shall file a report upon the same with said board, which report shall contain such matters as, in the judgment of the state engineer, may be desirable. And whenever thereafter said board, in its judgment, deems it for the best interest of the district that the question of the issuance of bonds in said amounts, or any other amounts, shall be submitted to the electors, it shall so declare of record in its minutes, and may thereupon submit such questions to said

Interest coupons shall be attached thereto, and all bonds and coupons shall be dated on January 1st or July 1st, next following the date of their authorization, and they shall bear interest at a rate of not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of January and July of each year. The principal and interest shall be payable at the place designated therein. SEC. 25. Whenever the electors shall have authorized an issue of bonds, as hereinbefore provided, the board of directors shall examine each tract or legal subdivision of land in the said district, and shall determine the benefits which will accrue to each of such tracts or subdivisions from the construction or purchase of such irrigation works; and the cost of such works shall be apportioned or distributed over such tracts or subdivisions of land in proportion to such benefits, and the amounts so apportioned or distributed to each of said tracts or subdivisions shall be and remain the basis for fixing the annual assessments levied against such tracts or subdivisions in carrying out the purposes of this act. Such board of directors shall make, or cause to be made, a list of such apportionment or distribution, which list shall contain a complete description of each subdivision or tract of land of such district with the amount and rate per acre of such apportionment or distribution of cost, and the name of the owner thereof; or they may prepare a map on a convenient scale showing each of said subdivisions or tracts with the rate per acre of such apportionment entered thereon; provided, that where all lands on any map or section of a map are assessed at the same rate a general statement to that effect shall be sufficient. Said list or map shall be made in duplicate, and one copy of each shall be filed in the office of the state engineer, and one copy shall remain in the office of said board of directors for public inspection. Whenever thereafter an assessment is made, either in lieu of bonds, or an annual assessment for raising the interest on bonds, or any portion of the principal, or the expenses of maintaining the property of the district, or any special assessment voted by the electors, it shall be spread upon the lands in the same proportion as the assessment of benefits, and the whole amount of the assessment of benefits shall equal the amount of bonds or other obligations authorized at the election last above mentioned.

4748. Notice of assessment—Notice advertised—Hearing.

SEC. 26. After the board shall have examined the lands in said district, and before proceeding to make the assessment of benefits and the list and the apportionment as provided in the last preceding section, they shall give notice to the owners of said land that they will meet at their office on a day to be stated in said notice for the purpose of making such assessment and list and apportionment. They shall, as far as practicable, give such notice by letter, mailed or delivered, to each of said land owners, and the same shall be mailed or delivered to land owners residing out of the county where said office is located at least ten days before the day fixed for such meeting, and to such as reside in said county, it shall be so mailed or delivered at least six days before the time of such meeting. For the purpose of giving notice to nonresidents and such owners as it is not reasonably practicable to notify personally or by mail as aforesaid, the notice shall be published in some newspaper published in the same county two weeks before the time of such meeting. At such meeting the board shall proceed to hear all parties interested who may appear, and they shall continue in session from day to day until this assessment is completed. They shall hear all evidence offered, including any maps or surveys which any owners of lands may produce, and they may classify the lands in such way that the assessment when completed shall be just and equitable. Any person interested who shall fail to appear before the board shall not be permitted thereafter to contest said assessment, or any part thereof, except upon a special application to the court in the proceeding for confirmation of said assessment, showing reasonable excuse for failing to appear before said board of directors. In case any land owner makes objection to said assessment, or any part thereof, before said board, and said objection is overruled by the said board, and the land owners do not consent to the assessment as finally determined, such objection shall, without further proceedings, be regarded as appealed to the district court and to be heard at the said proceeding to confirm as aforesaid.

SEC. 27. The board of directors of the irrigation district shall file with the clerk of the district court in and for the county in which this office is situated a petition, praying in effect that the proceedings aforesaid may be examined, approved and confirmed by the court. 4750. Method and rules of procedure.

SEC. 28. The court or judge shall fix the time for the hearing of the said petition, and shall order the clerk of the court to give and publish a notice of the filing of said petition. The notice shall be given and published in a newspaper published in the same county for four consecutive weeks. The notice shall state the time and place for the hearing of the petition, and the prayer of the petition, and that any person interested in the subject-matter of the said petition may, on or before the day fixed for the hearing thereof demur to or answer said petition. None of the pleadings in said matter need be sworn to. Every material statement of the petition not controverted by answer must be taken as true, and every person or party failing to answer the petition shall be deemed to have admitted all the material allegations of the petition. The rules of pleading and practice provided by the civil practice act of this state, which are not [in]consistent with this act, are applicable to the special proceeding herein provided for. A motion for a new trial, and all proceedings in the nature of appeals or rehearings may be had as in any ordinary civil action.

4751. Hearing and confirmation.

The court shall disregard every error, irregularity or omission which does not affect the substantial right of any party, and if the court shall find that said assessments, list and apportionment are in any substantial matter erroneous or unjust, the same shall not be returned to said board, but the court shall proceed to correct the same so as to conform to this act, and the rights of all parties in the premises, and the final order of decree of the court may approve and confirm such proceeding in part; and in case the proceeding for organization of the district and the issue of bonds are approved, the court shall correct all the errors in the assessment, apportionment and distribution of costs as above provided, and render the final decree approving and confirming all of the said proceedings. In case of the approval of the organization of the district and the disapproval of the proceedings for issuing bonds, the district shall have the right to institute further proceedings for the issuance of bonds de novo. The cost of the special proceedings may be allowed and apportioned among the parties thereto in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 30. The board may sell said bonds from time to time in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous, to raise money for the construction of said canals and works, the acquisition of said property and rights, and otherwise to carry out the object and purpose of this act. Before making any sale the board shall, by resolution, declare its intention to sell a specific amount of the bonds, and if said bonds can then be sold at their face value and accrued interest they may be sold without advertising, otherwise said resolution shall state the day and hour and place of such sale, and cause such resolution to be entered on the minutes, and notice of sale to be given by publication thereof at least four weeks in three newspapers published in the State of Nevada, one of which shall be a newspaper published in the county in which the office of the board of directors is situated, if there be a newspaper published in said county, and in other newspapers at their discretion. Said notice shall state that sealed proposals will be received by the board at their offices for the purchase of the bonds until the day and hour named in the resolution. At the time appointed the board shall open the proposals, and award the purchase of the bonds to the highest responsible bidder, or may reject all bids; but in case no bids are received, or all bids are rejected, at the time stated in the advertisement, it shall not be again necessary to advertise the sale of the same bonds, but they may be sold at any time until canceled; provided, said board shall in no event sell any of the said bonds for less than the par or face value thereof and accrued interest. If, for any reason, the duly authorized bonds of a district cannot be sold, or if at any time it shall be deemed for the best interests of the district to withdraw from sale all or any portion of an authorized bond issue, the board of directors may, in their discretion, cancel the same and they may levy assessments to the amount of the bonds canceled; provided, that the revenue derived from said assessments must be employed for the same purpose as was contemplated by the bond authorization; but no levy shall be made to pay for work or material, payment for which was contemplated by bonds which have been authorized, until bonds to the amount of said assessment have been canceled. Assessments made in lieu of bonds canceled shall be collected in the same manner, and shall have the same force and effect, as assessments levied under any provision of this act; provided, that such assessments shall not, during any one year, exceed ten per cent of the total bond issue authorized by such district, unless a greater assessment shall be authorized by a majority vote of the qualified electors of the district voting at a general election or a special election called for that purpose, said special election to be held in the manner provided in section 18.

4753. Payment of bonds and interest.

SEC. 31. Said bonds and the interest thereon shall be paid by revenue derived from the annual assessment upon the land in the district; and all the land in the district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payment.

4754. Redemption of bonds.

SEC. 32. Upon the presentation of the coupons due to the treasurer, he shall pay the same from the bond fund. Whenever after ten years from the issuance of said bonds, said fund shall amount to the sum of ten thousand dollars, the board of directors may direct the treasurer to pay such an amount of said bonds not due as the money in said fund will redeem at the lowest value at which they may be offered for liquidation, after advertising for at least four weeks in some newspaper published in the county, and in other newspapers which said board may deem advisable, for sealed proposals for the redemption of said bonds. Said proposals shall be opened by the board in open meeting at a time to be named in the notice, and the lowest bid for said bonds must be accepted; provided, that no bonds shall be redeemed at a rate above par. In case the bids are equal, the lowest numbered bond shall have the preference. In case none of the holders of said bonds shall desire to have the same redeemed as herein provided for, said money shall be invested by the treasurer, under the direction of the board, in United States bonds or the bonds or warrants of the state, or municipal or school bonds, which shall be kept in such bond fund and may be used to redeem said district bonds whenever the holders thereof may desire.

4756. Notice of correction of assessments.

SEC. 34. On or before the first Monday in September of each year, the secretary of the board must give notice of the time the board of directors will meet to correct assessments, by publication in a newspaper published in each of the counties comprising the district. Within five days after the close of said session, the secretary of the board shall have the corrected assessment book complete.

4758. Levy of assessment.

SEC. 36. At its regular meeting in October, the board of directors shall levy an assessment upon the lands in said district upon the basis, and in the proportion, of the list and apportionment of benefits approved by the court as hereinbefore provided, which assessment shall be sufficient to raise the annual interest on the outstanding bonds. At the expiration of ten years after the issue of said bonds of any issue, the board must increase said assessment, as may be necessary from year to year, to raise a sum sufficient to pay the principal of the outstanding bonds as they mature. The secretary of the board must compute and enter in a separate column of the assessment book the respective sums, in dollars and cents, to be paid as an assessment on the property therein enumerated. When collected, the assessments shall be paid into the district treasury, and shall constitute a special fund, to be called "Bond Fund of -----Irrigation District." In case any assessment should be made for the purpose contemplated by a bond authorization, it shall be entered in a separate column of the assessment book in the same manner as the bond fund; and when collected shall constitute the "Construction Fund of -----Irrigation District."

SEC. 37. The assessment is a lien against the property assessed from and after the first Monday in March of any year. The lien for the bonds of any issue shall be a preferred lien to that of any subsequent issue, and such lien is not removed until the assessments are paid, or the property sold for the payment thereof.

4760. Payment of assessments.

SEC. 38. On or before the first day of November the secretary must deliver the assessment book to the treasurer of the district, who shall within ten days publish a notice in a newspaper published in each county in which any portion of the district may lie, that said assessments are due and payable, and will become delinquent at 6 o'clock p. m. on the first day of January next thereafter, and also the times and places at which the payments of the assessments may be made, which notice shall be published for the period of two weeks. The treasurer must attend to the times and places specified in the notice, to receive assessments, which must be paid in lawful money of the United States; he must mark the date of payment of any assessment in the assessment book opposite the name of the person paying and give a receipt to such person, specifying the amount of the assessment, and the amount paid with a description of the property assessed. On the first day of January at 6 o'clock p. m. of each year, all unpaid assessments for the preceding year are delinquent; provided, that if any person shall pay one-half of his assessments before they become delinquent, the remaining one-half shall not become delinquent until the first Monday in July at 6 o'clock p. m. of each year.

4761. Delinquent list.

SEC. 39. On or before the second Monday in January of each year said treasurer shall begin the preparation of a delinquent list containing a description of all tracts of land upon which assessments are delinquent, and the amount of assessments against each such tract and the name of the owner as shown on the assessment book, and thereafter and on or before the second Monday in July the treasurer shall complete said delinquent list and shall properly certify the same and prepare a duplicate thereof; and deliver it to the secretary of the district. If any such assessment becomes delinquent the treasurer shall collect the same with the penalties added, as provided for delinquent county and state taxes.

4762. Publication of delinquent list—Sales to be published—Method of conducting sale.

SEC. 40. During the first seven days of August the treasurer must commence to publish the delinquent list, and the publication shall continue four weeks, and must contain the names of the persons, and a description of the property delinquent at the time, and the amount of the assessments and penalties, and the cost due opposite each name and description. After said publication shall have been made for the first time, the treasurer shall collect twenty-five cents additional to the assessments and penalties on each description of the land published. The treasurer must append and publish with the delinquent list a notice that unless the assessments delinquent, together with penalties and costs, are paid, the real property upon which said assessments are made will be sold at public auction, at a time and place therein specified. The publication must be made in some newspaper published in said district, if it can be so published, and if it cannot be so published, then in some newspaper published in the county in which the office of the directors is situated; and if it cannot be so published, then by posting it in not less than three public places in said district, one of which shall be at the door of the office of said board; the time of said sale shall be fixed for the first Tuesday in September, and the place shall be at the office of said board of directors. The treasurer as soon as he has made the publication required, must file with the secretary proof of such publication by affidavit and like proof of posting in case such notice was posted as herein required. The treasurer must attend at the time and place specified in the notice and conduct the sale. The sale shall be conducted in all respects in the manner provided for the sale of property for delinquent county and state taxes, and may be postponed in the same manner and the district shall become the purchaser of the property in the cases when the county would have become the purchaser of property at sales for delinquent county and state taxes. The treasurer must retain in his office a list of the property sold, stating name of owner as appears by assessment roll, amount for which sold and date of sale, and file a duplicate list with the recorder of the county in which the land is situated. The treasurer shall execute a duplicate certificate of sale, which shall contain the statements in substance required in certificates of sale in sales of county and state delinquent taxes, one of which shall be delivered to the purchaser and the other shall be filed with the treasurer in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the land is situated. When the district is the purchaser the duplicate certificate shall be filed with the secretary. Any irrigation district as a purchaser of any land at any such delinquent tax sale, shall be entitled to the same rights as a private purchaser, and the title so acquired by the district, subject to the rights of the redemption herein provided, may be conveyed by deed executed and acknowledged by the president and the secretary of the board; provided, that authority to so convey must be conferred by resolution of the board entered on its minutes.

4763. Redemption, when and how made.

SEC. 41. Redemption can be made at any time within one year from the date of sale. Redemption may be made by paying to the treasurer the amount for which the property was sold, together with ten per cent penalty and one per cent thereon. The treasurer shall thereupon deliver to the person redeeming a certificate of redemption stating the description of the lands sold, the name of the owner as it appeared upon the assessment roll, and the amount paid on such redemption, and shall note the redemption on his list of sales. When such certificates of redemption shall be presented to the county recorder where the land is situated, he shall mark the property as redeemed in his record of such sales. The treasurer must pay the amount received on such redemption to the person holding the certificate of sale, but on presentation thereof with satisfactory proof of ownership. When the district is purchaser, it may assign any certificate of sale to any person, within one year after the sale, upon receipt of the amount for which the property was sold to the district, with the interest from the date of sale. If no redemption be made within the year after said sale, the treasurer shall, upon request, execute a deed to the holder of the certificate, which deed shall recite and contain the matter required in deeds for property sold for county and state taxes, and when so executed and delivered shall have the same effect.

4764. Contract for construction work.

SEC. 42. After adopting a plan for said canal or canals, storage reservoirs and works, the board of directors shall give notice, by publication thereof not less than thirty days in one newspaper published in each of the counties comprising the district, if a newspaper is published therein, and in such other newspaper as they may deem advisable, calling for bids for the construction of such work, or any portion thereof. If less than the whole work is advertised, then the portions so advertised must be particularly described in such notice. Said notice shall set forth that plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the board and that the board will receive sealed proposals therefor, and that the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, stating the time and place for opening said proposals, which, at the time and place appointed, shall be opened in public; and as soon as convenient thereafter, the board shall let said work, either in portions or as a whole, to the lowest responsible bidder, or they may reject any and all bids and readvertise for proposals. Contracts for the purchase of the material shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. Any person or persons to whom a contract may be awarded shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the board, payable to said district for its use, for 25 per cent of the amount of the contract price, conditioned upon the faithful performance of said contract. The work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer employed by the district, and approved by the board; provided, that no contract of any kind shall be let by said board of directors unless there is sufficient money in the district treasury at the time such contract is let, available for such payment, to fully pay for the work or material so contracted for.

SEC. 43. On the petition of a majority of the owners of land in said district, to be determined as provided by section 1, the board of directors may do any work mentioned in the preceding section on behalf of the district, and it may use the construction fund therefor; in such cases they need not publish notice for bids as provided in the last preceding section.

For the purpose of defraying the expenses of the organization of the district, and of the care, operation, management, repair and improvement of such portion of said canal and works as are completed in use, including salaries of officers and employees, the board may either fix rates of toll and charges for water against all persons using said canal for irrigation or other purposes, or they may levy assessments therefor, or by both said tolls and assessments. The procedure for levying and collection of assessments shall conform to the provisions of this act relating to the payments of principal and interest of bonds. All assessments and tolls shall be listed and carried out in the regular assessment book and collected by the treasurer at the time and in the manner of regular annual assessment. All special assessments are a lien on the lands assessed from the time when they are ordered. The board of directors may order tolls for water to be collected in advance. Whenever an assessment book or toll book shall be delivered to the treasurer the secretary shall charge the treasurer with the total amount of the various amounts as carried out in said books. On the second Monday in January in each year the treasurer shall make a semiannual settlement with the secretary and deliver to the secretary a statement in brief of all assessments delinquent at that time, and account for all such sums theretofore collected. The treasurer shall make such settlements for tolls at such times as may be ordered by the board. On the second Monday of July the treasurer shall make final settlement with the secretary, and deliver to the secretary a duplicate delinquent list, and account for all sums not shown on said delinquent list. The secretary shall then charge the treasurer with the amount of said list and penalties added, and upon receiving the affidavit of publication thereof he shall charge the treasurer with twenty-five cents additional for each description published. On the first Monday after the sale, the treasurer shall make final settlement for assessments, by receiving credit for the property sold to the district and accounting for all of the balance.

4768. Powers of board regarding rights of way.

SEC. 46. The board of directors shall have power to construct the said works across any stream of water, watercourse, street, avenue, highway, railway, canal, ditch or flume which the route of said canal or canals may intersect or cross in such manner as to afford security for life and property; but said board shall restore the same when so crossed or intersected, to its former state as near as may be, or in a sufficient manner not to have impaired unnecessarily its usefulness; and every company whose railroad shall be intersected or crossed by said work, shall unite with said board in forming said intersections and crossings and grant the privileges aforesaid; and if such railroad company and said board, or the owners and controllers of said property, thing or franchise to be crossed, cannot agree upon the amount to be paid therefor, or upon the points or the manner of said crossings or intersections, the same shall be ascertained and determined in all respects as herein provided in respect to the taking of land.

4769. Right of way over state lands.

SEC. 47. The right of way is hereby given, dedicated and set apart, to locate, construct and maintain said work over and through any of the lands which are now or may be the property of the state.

4770. Right of eminent domain.

SEC. 48. All irrigation districts organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, shall have the right of eminent domain, with the power by and through their boards of directors, to cause to be condemned and appropriated in the name of and for the use of said districts, all lands, reservoirs, canals and works constructed or being constructed by private owners, and lands for reservoirs for the storage of needful waters, and all necessary appurtenances and other property and rights necessary for the construction, use and supply, maintenance, repair, and improvement of said canal or canals and works. | 4773. Notice of petition. | 4781. Petition recorded in minutes. |
| 4774. Hearing of petition. | 4782. Exclusion of land from district. |

4771. Petition for annexation of adjacent lands.

SEC. 49. The holder or holders of any title, or evidence of title representing one-half or more of any body of lands adjacent to the boundaries of an irrigation district, may file with the board of directors of said district a petition in writing praying that said land may be annexed. The petition shall describe the lands and also describe the several parcels owned by petitioners.

4772. Guardians and administrators may sign petitions.

SEC. 50. A guardian, executor, or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this state, and who as such guardian, executor, or administrator is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, may, on behalf of his ward, or the estate which he represents, upon being thereunto authorized by the proper court, sign and acknowledge the petition mentioned in this chapter for the change of boundaries in the district.

4773. Notice of petition.

SEC. 51. The secretary must cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be published three weeks in the manner of notices of special elections. The notice shall state the filing of such petition, and the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petition, and it shall notify all persons interested in or that may be affected by such change of boundaries of the district, to appear at the office of said board at a time named in said notice and show cause in writing, if any they have, why the lands mentioned should not be annexed to said district. The petitioner shall advance to the secretary sufficient money to pay the estimated cost of all proceedings under this chapter.

4774. Hearing of petition.

SEC. 52. The board of directors at the time mentioned in said notice or at such other time to which the hearing may be adjourned, shall hear the petition and all the objections thereto, showing cause, as aforesaid. The failure of any person to show cause as aforesaid, shall be taken as an assent on his part to a change of the boundaries of the district as prayed for in said petition, or to such a change thereof as will include a part of said land.

4775. Assessment against petitioners.

SEC. 53. The board of directors may require, as a condition to the granting of said petition that the petitioners shall severally pay to such district such respective sums as nearly as the same can be estimated, as said petitioners, or their grantors, would have been required to pay to such district, had such lands been included in such district at the time the same was originally formed.

4776. Order accepting or rejecting petition.

SEC. 54. The board of directors, if they deem it not for the best interests of the district to include therein the lands mentioned in the petition, shall order that the petition be rejected. But if they deem it for the best interests of the district, and if no person interested shall show cause why the proposed change be not made, or if having shown cause, withdraws the same, the board may order, without any election, that the lands mentioned in said petition, or some part thereof, be annexed to said district, the order shall describe the lands to be annexed to said district and the board may cause a survey thereof to be made if deemed necessary.

4777. Overruling objection.

SEC. 55. If any person interested shall show cause as aforesaid, and shall not withdraw the same, and if the board of directors deem it for the best interests of the district to include therein the lands mentioned in petition, or some part thereof, the board shall adopt a resolution to that effect. The resolution shall describe the lands which the board is of the opinion should be included within the district.

4778. Election to determine change.

SEC. 56. Upon the adoption of the resolution mentioned in the last preceding section, the board shall order that an election be held within said district to determine whether the boundaries of the district shall be changed as mentioned in said resolution; and shall fix the time at which such election shall be held. Notice thereof shall be given and published, and such election shall be held, and all things pertaining thereto conducted, in the manner prescribed by this act in case of an election to determine whether bonds of the district shall be issued. The ballots cast at said election shall contain the words "for change of boundary" or "against change of boundary," or words equivalent thereto. The notice of election shall describe the lands to be annexed to said district.

4779. Order changing boundary.

SEC. 57. If at such election a majority of all the votes cast at said election shall be against such change in the boundaries of the district the board shall proceed no further in the matter. But if a majority of such votes be in favor of such change the board shall thereupon order that the boundaries be changed in accordance with said resolution. The order shall describe the land so annexed to said district, and thereafter such lands so annexed shall be subject to such assessments from time to time as the board of directors shall deem right under the circumstances, and such assessments shall be deemed to be assessments for benefits to said lands by reason of their annexation to said district. Immediately after the recording of the order annexing said lands to the district, the directors shall state on their minutes to which division and election precinct in said district the said lands so annexed shall be attached, and if necessary, the board shall make an order redividing the district into divisions and election precincts in the same manner and with like effect as near as may be as provided for that purpose on the formation of a district.

4780. Order to be recorded.

SEC. 58. Upon a change of the boundaries of a district being made, a copy of the order of the board of directors ordering such change, certified by the president and secretary of the board shall be filed for record in the recorder's office of each county within which are situated any of the lands of the district, and thereupon the district shall be and remain an irrigation district as fully and to every intent and purpose as if the lands which are included in the district by the change of the boundaries as aforesaid had been included therein at the original organization of the district.

4781. Petition recorded in minutes.

SEC. 59. Upon the filing of the copies of the order, as in the last preceding section mentioned, the secretary of the board shall record in the minutes of the board the petition aforesaid, and said minutes, or a certified copy thereof, shall be admissible in evidence, with the same effect as the petition.

4782. Exclusion of land from district.

SEC. 60. The holder or holders of any title to land included within the boundary of an irrigation district may file with the board of directors of said district, a petition in writing praying that the boundaries of said district may be so changed as to exclude the said lands described in said petition. The petition shall describe the boundaries of the several parcels owned by the petitioners; if the petitioners be the owners respectively of the district parcels of land, such petition must also state that the lands described in said petition are too high to be watered from water owned and controlled by said irrigation district. Said petition must be acknowledged in the same manner that conveyances of land are required to be acknowledged.

4783. Excluded lands to be surveyed.

SEC. 61. The board of directors to whom such petition is presented must cause the lands described in said petition to be surveyed by a competent irrigation engineer, and if found to be too high to receive any benefit from irrigation works of said district, said board must make an order changing the boundaries of said district so as to exclude the lands described in said petition.

4784. Costs of survey.

SEC. 62. If upon a survey being made by order of the board of directors of lands described in the petition, it is found that said lands can be watered from irrigation works of said district, parties signing said petition shall be liable to the irrigation district for the full amount of costs incurred by said district in having the lands described in said petition surveyed.

4785. Changes to be recorded.

SEC. 63. Upon a change of the boundaries of a district being made as provided in the three preceding sections, a copy of the order of the board of directors ordering such change, certified by the president and secretary of the board, shall be filed for record in a recorder's office of each county within which are situated any lands of the district, and thereupon the district shall be and remain an irrigation district as fully and to every intent and purpose, as if the lands which are excluded from the district by the change of the boundaries, as aforesaid, had been excluded at the original organization of the district.

SEC. 64. Whenever the board of directors of any two or more irrigation districts which are contiguous, deem for the best interests of their respective districts that the same be consolidated into a single district, such board of directors may petition the board of county commissioners for an order for an election, to vote upon the question of such consolidation, which petition shall state in detail the terms upon which such consolidation is proposed to be made. Upon receiving such petitions, the said board of county commissioners shall request the state engineer to investigate the conditions of such districts, and all questions affecting such proposed consolidation, and he shall make a report of the result of such investigation to the board of county commissioners, not more than ninety days after such request is received. At the time said report upon the matter is made, said board of county commissioners, if deemed advisable, shall make an order fixing the time for an election in the said district, to vote upon the question of such proposed consolidation, which time shall not be less than thirty nor more than sixty days after the date of said report. Notice of said election shall be published as required for notice of the election in section 4 of this act; and the said board of directors shall make all necessary arrangements for such election in their respective districts as provided in this act for other elections. The ballot should be substantially as follows: "Consolidation—Yes," "Consolidation—No." The said board of directors shall canvass the returns of such election as provided in case of usual district elections, and shall immediately thereafter transmit, by messenger or by registered mail, certified abstracts of the result of said election in their respective districts to the clerk of the board of county commissioners. Within ten days after such returns are received by said clerk the said board of county commissioners shall meet and canvass the same. If it appears that a majority of all the votes cast in each of said districts is "Consolidation—Yes," said board shall make an order and enter the same of record in its minutes, establishing said consolidated district, giving its boundaries and designation, and in detail the terms under which the consolidation has been effected, and dividing said consolidated district into three divisions, and shall appoint some person qualified under this act to act as director of each of said divisions of said district until the next general election for the election of officers, when a board of directors shall be elected as provided in section 5; provided, however, that the organization of such district shall not take effect until the first Tuesday of the January following said order of its establishment. If the date provided by law for the election of directors shall come between the date of said order of the board of county commissioners and said first Tuesday of January, then in making such order said board shall designate the board of directors of one of the consolidated districts as a board to take charge of said election, and a director shall in that case be elected for each division of said consolidated district, and in that case no appointment of directors shall be made by said board of county commissioners. If, however, upon such canvass by said board of county commissioners, it appears that a majority of votes cast in any district thus proposed to be consolidated is "Consolidation—No," then a record of that fact shall be entered in the same minutes of the said board of county commissioners, and all the proceedings had under this section shall be void.
